CELEBRATING 25 YEARS... KEEPING THE HOSPITALITY INDUSTRY INFORMED SINCE 1998

The Hawaii International Film Festival was founded in 1981 as a platform to showcase films from the Asia-Pacific region, which were largely under represented in the global film industry at the time. The unique spirit of this festival stems from Hawaii's mid-Pacific locale, making it the ideal place for the East and West to meet and mingle with their creative pursuits. As one of the first film festivals focusing on the Asia-Pacific region, HIFF showcased films from countries like Japan, China, South Korea, and the Philippines, as well as from Pacific Islands like New Zealand and Hawaii. Throughout the 1980s, HIFF continued to gain recognition for its unique focus on Asian and Pacific Islander cinema, and today, it is one of the most prestigious and longest-running film festivals in the United States that focuses on showcasing films from the Asia-Pacific region. It has also become a key venue for world premieres and the debut of films that went on to gain international recognition. This month, the 44th anniversary of the Honolulu International Film Festival returns with an outstanding line-up of films to choose from and expands its reach to showcase films on each of the six main Hawaiian islands.

HIFF has grown over the years into an important event in both the local and international film calendar, attracting filmmakers, industry professionals, and film enthusiasts from around the world. It's stretched from a single theater to an event that spans O'ahu and the neighboring islands, launched year-round film screenings, and grown to over 300 films annually. HIFF has come a long way since film reels arrived at the airport in boxes of hay, but it still connects strangers worldwide through the shared love of cinema and focuses on putting Hawaii films into the spotlight. An incredible amount of care and dedication is put into the selection of films every year. It presents locals with a tremendous opportunity to see World, US, and Hawaii Premiere movies and mingle with some of the best filmmakers in the world.

"This year, we have the largest selection of Hawai'i films in competition in the festival's history, are presenting multiple films that explore Indigenous perspectives, narrative sovereignty, and the nurturing of cultural identity, and additionally, we are launching a new spotlight showcasing the best in television," said Beckie Stochetti, HIFF executive director.

HIFF lands on the island of O'ahu from October 3 – 13, featuring 114 shorts, 92 features, 40 world premieres, and 31 USA premieres. Given its location in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, HIFF is committed to seeking out globally produced films, especially films created by Hawai'i filmmakers that present the islands in a culturally accurate manner to international viewers. The festival then moves to West Oahu October 15-17 before heading to the neighbor islands.

The opening night film features the world premiere of Tinā out of New Zealand. This inspiring and heartwarming drama is about a gifted vocal coach who finds herself at a crossroads as she is still struggling death of her daughter three years ago but needs to get out and find work. She reluctantly takes on the role of substitute teacher position at an elite, all-white private school and is surprised to find children in desperate need of guidance, inspiration and love. Samoan actress Anapela Polata'ivao gives a brilliant performance in the role of the vocal coach. Don't miss this special opening night Pacific Showcase screening on October 3 at 7 p.m. at Kahala Consolidated Theatres.

GHOSTS, GHOULS & GATHERINGS

Halloween Happenings 2024

Honolulu loves Halloween. Between the trick-or-treating, all the candy, a reason to let out your inner diva or demon, or the fact that it's just simply the best day of the year to people-watch, Halloween offers something for everyone. The last three weekends of October are jam-packed with spooky spectacles, so for those of you looking to do something other than pass out candy to your neighborhood children or your guests are figuring out how to offer their kids a chance to celebrate the holiday thousands of miles away from home, here are some of the various Halloween happenings across the island we could put our hands on by press time, and you know more will be announced shortly.

IN SEARCH OF THE GREAT PUMPKIN

While Linus continues to wait for this fictional character to appear, here on Oahu, all you have to do to pick your own pumpkins is head on out to the Aloun Farms Pumpkin Festival in Kapolei. The 22nd annual Pumpkin Festival takes place over three weekends in October. For a $5 entry fee, visitors can pick corn, beans,

Publisher's Letter

Holy Cow, I'm not sure how numbers like that are even possible, but it's true. In 1999, I had been asked by the Activities & Attractions Association in Maui to represent this new publication they had just started on Oahu. The timeshare market was exploding over there, and activities were finding their $100 tickets were being bought in bulk by companies like Activity World, who used them to encourage people on the street to hear their timeshare spiel. Who knew what a foreshadowing moment that was, LOL! It was a love-hate relationship for the activities. They wanted the visitors to buy their $100 tickets for $100, but the timeshare companies were buying so many of them. They decided to band together and reach out directly to the concierge to sell those $100 tickets to the visitor before they ever ran into the timeshare guys.

The Maui magazine was doing so well that they decided to expand to Oahu, and in late 1998, The Oahu Concierge was born. They brought me on at the beginning of the year, and I was really starting to enjoy working on a smaller publication than I was used to and having so much contact with the reader. I came from Aloha Magazine, a glossy 100+ page publication that catered to repeat island visitors. Our subscriber base was on the mainland or beyond, which had just shut down after 20 years, so I had some time on my hands. My deadline each month was at noon on the 15th. On October 15, 1999, my phone rang at 10 a.m., and I told my boss I wasn't quite ready yet but would be by noon. She told me they had just gotten out of a meeting. Instead of reaching the visitor in the hotel before they walked out onto the street, they were going to start focusing on reaching the visitor before they ever got onto the plane. They were going to shut down the magazine immediately. Without thinking, I asked her what she wanted for it, and I bought it that day. My first issue came out two weeks later, on November 1, 1999.

It's hard to believe that 25 years ago this month, such an impulsive decision would change my life and give me so much in return. What a ride it's been! Thank you all for being a part of it. Mahalo!

Brian Chan has just joined the Ka La'i Waikiki Beach team. He started his hospitality career as a Management Trainee with Starwood Hotels in 2012. After leaving the industry for a year, he joined The Kahala Hotel & Resort in 2016 as a Guest Service Agent and began quickly working his way through the hotel as Housekeeping Manager, Front Office Manager, and Leisure Sales Manager before being named Director of Leisure Sales. He is now taking those hard-earned skills to his new position as Director of Leisure Sales - Domestic/International at Hilton's first LXR Hotels & Resorts property in Hawaii. Congratulations! • Speaking of Ka La'i Waikiki Beach, Sarah Oesterling has been named Chef Concierge! Sarah actually started at the then-named Trump International Hotel as a Front Service Clerk for Elite Parking Services, managing communication between Front Services and other departments within the hotel before joining the hotel itself as a PBX Operator in 2013. She then moved over to the Lobby Ambassador team before joining the concierge team in 2016. As Chef Concierge, Sarah will be reporting to Christopher Segi, who was just promoted to Director of Front Services. Chris first started at the hotel as a bellman before joining the Front Services department where he was then named Front Services Manager • Got to reconnect with Heidy Vicente recently. Many of you may remember her from concierge events back in the day. She started at the Courtyard by Marriott Waikiki as a Front Desk Agent in 2012 before moving to Front Office Supervisor and Front Office Manager. She then jumped into sales for a few years for all Waikiki Highgate Hotels and is now the Director of Sales at the AC Hotel. It's awesome to see the growth of so many people I've worked with over the years.

Concierge Events 101: A Reminder Course

How a Concierge Event Works

I hear some of you laughing now, 'Oh boy, here she goes again.' But you know, there continue to be new faces out there who don't know what concierge events are and others who don't take advantage of those invites. Maybe they think there's a catch. So, let's talk about the events.

Let's start with the basics for those of you that don't know. Concierge Events are FAMs, or familiarization tours. If it's a restaurant, they want you to taste their food and experience their service. If it's an activity, they want you to do it yourself. If it's a mall, they want you to know what they have on-site and bring you up to speed on what promotions they have going on. But let's be clear, they are not doing this solely out of the generosity of their hearts. There's a method to the madness. You can't sell what you don't know. If you're invited to a FAM, it's because they are looking to see more business from your property. They are hoping that if you like what you see, that you will then share the word and direct your guests their way when appropriate. The restaurants know your first obligation is to support the restaurants on your property. But most guests won't dine in-house every day, so they are hoping when those guests reach out and ask your advice about where to go, that you are now knowledgeable enough about them to recommend them. Your role in this is crucial. Your recommendations can significantly impact their business.

There is no catch. I am inviting you to wine and dine for free. It may be for a full dinner or a lighter-tasting menu. It may or may not include drinks. You will only get a tab if you order something above and beyond what they offer. I will always share as much information as possible about what is, and is not included in my reminder email. No matter what, though, if I invite you to a restaurant, you must leave a tip for that server.

You're not required to recommend the place after an event, but if places don't see an increase in business after hosting you, we may not continue to see as many events. However, if you do like the place, please support them! Your support can lead to increased business for the companies, which in turn can lead to more such events in the future. Your positive experience can have a ripple effect, benefiting both them and you!

COSTUMES

Gotta love those Spirit Halloween Store's that pop-up this time of year, and this year we have three to choose from to help with your costume craziness. There's one at Ala Moana Center in the former Sear's location. Another one has opened at 1103 Moanalua Road (the former Toys R Us location in Aiea and one at Ka Makani Alii next to Sephora.

HIFF44

The selection of the Centerpiece film is always a key decision for HIFF organizers, as it reflects the festival's commitment to quality, diversity, and the celebration of cinema as an art form. This year, the committee chose Moloka'i Bound as its Centerpiece Presentation. The film, filmed in Hawaii by Director Alika Tengan and adapted from Tengan's own short film of the same name, follows the story of a wayward Hawaiian man paroled after years of incarceration. The man is committed to reconnecting with his family and rebuilding a relationship with his son but discovers acclimating to Hawai'i life is more difficult than he expected, and he tends to do all the wrong things for the right reasons. In trying to prove himself worthy of his family and native heritage, his is a story of reconciliation and redemption. See this film at the Hawaii Theatre on October 9 at 7:30 p.m.

The festival's newest section that spotlights the best in TV is gearing up to become a fan favorite. "The distinction between cinema and television has become increasingly blurred over the past two decades, particularly with the rise of streaming platforms," says Anderson Le, HIFF's artistic director. HIFF44 presents three programs that mark significant milestones in the television landscape as part of their newest showcase, Prestige TV Series Panorama. First up, the Hawaii Premiere of Getting Lost, a documentary about the hit TV show LOST that was filmed here on Oahu. Featuring interviews with most of the key cast members, it delves into how a quickly greenlit pilot turned into a groundbreaking TV series that became a part of our pop-culture and created a rabid fan community around the world. Those fans remain fully invested nearly 20 years later, as the documentary was fully financed through crowdfunding. A discussion will follow the screening "Losties" will love. Kahala Consolidated Theatre on October 11 at 8 p.m.

HIFF will also present an advance screening of the pilot episode of Hulu's Interior Chinatown by Academy Award-winning New Zealand filmmaker Taika Waititi. Based on the National Book Award-winning novel of the same name, the show is a satire of Hollywood and the TV industry that spotlights themes of invisibility, assimilation, and immigration in the Asian American experience. The book's author, Charles Yu, and series lead, Jimmy O. Yang, both receiving the HIFF Halekulani Maverick Award this year, will attend to discuss the adaptation from novel to series in a Q&A after the screening. Kahala Consolidated Theatre on October 13 at 8 p.m.

FX's Japanese set epic Shōgun rounds out this showcase with a special presentation of the first episode of this critically acclaimed series, which racked an unprecedented 25 Emmy Award nominations, and made history with a record 18 Emmy wins including Outstanding Drama Series. The screening will be followed by a Q&A with co-creators and Maui residents Justin Marks and Rachel Kondo, who will also receive the HIFF Halekulani Maverick Award this year. Kahala Consolidated Theatre on October 10 at 8 p.m.

This year's closing night film features the world premiere of Hakkenden: Fiction and Reality. The part biopic, part fantastical tale (think The Princess Bride meets Lord of the Rings) of good versus evil is about legendary pulp writer Kyokutei Bakin, who spent a whopping 28 years writing one of Japan's greatest works, Nanso Hatomi Hakkenden. The film divides its story between the master writer's life and his novel about a group of warriors who, each carrying a magical prayer orb, embark on a harsh journey to fight the curse laid upon the Satomi samurai clan during the late Edo period. Kahala Consolidated Theatre on October 10 at 7:30 p.m.

These are just a fraction of the films showcased this year, so be sure to head to their website for a detailed line-up of each film. Those on the West Side can choose from dedicated screenings at Consolidated Theatres Kapolei from October 15 to 17.

Tickets for all films are on sale now. Purchase them online, in person at the HIFF office on Waiālae Avenue, or by phone at 447-0577. Prices are $15 for the general public, $13 for seniors, military, students, and children, and $12 for HIFF members. To see the full line-up and screening times, head to their website at hiff.org.

Dining Dish

Sad news from Kaka'ako. The Butcher & Bird, home to those delectable dry-aged burgers, has closed its doors with a vague post alluding to moving on to new adventures. Let's hope that means they open up elsewhere shortly. • But as one door closes, another opens, and a new cafe-bistro opened next to their location. Many might remember Mana + Pua from Haleiwa. Offering a unique take on classic European and North American dishes using local ingredients, they offer an eclectic menu featuring such items as a smoked fish spread, duck fat fries, a daily crudo, clam chowder in a coconut clam stock with coconut flakes, moules pommes frites with pork belly and cambozola (interesting) and a venison-pork belly burger to name a few. Find them @manapuasalt on Instagram. • TableOne Hospitality, the creators of Mara and Izakaya 855-ALOHA, are at it again. Favorite Son opens at the Romer Waikiki at the Ambassador on October 22. The menu hasn't been released yet, but follow them @favoritesonwaikiki on Instagram to see what they unveil. • Dave & Buster's has added 10 new items to its already large menu. Diners can now enjoy slow-cooked "barbacoa" starters, smash burgers, chicken sandwiches, funnel cake fries for dessert, and over a dozen new cocktails. Half Price Happy Hour has also returned. The new and improved program now offers 50% off all cocktails, beer, and wine from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Friday and just in time for football season, Sunday to Thursday from 10 p.m. to closing. Speaking of Sundays, do you know they offer Latin music and salsa dancing on the rooftop Sundays from 6 p.m. to closing? Those who arrive before 7:30 p.m. receive a $10 gift card for a limited time. Remember, even though you've probably heard about their new location at Ala Moana, Dave & Busters will stay open at the Ward location until it's time to move to their new place sometime in Spring 2025. 589-2215. • Restaurant Sundry is adding two new Teppanyaki items to its menu. Customers can enjoy fluffy souffle pancakes, with specially made lilikoi jelly sauce, prepared in front of them in the Teppan Room for $25. For $2, they can choose a 4oz Grilled Washugyu Sirloin Steak and Beef Tendon Curry Lunch Set, which includes rice, salad, and miso soup. 922-5511. • Chefs Mourad Lahlou and Chris Kajioaka have partnered together again to bring you Leila, a restaurant offering an elegant fusion of Moroccan-inspired cuisine with Mediterranean flavors. Leila's dishes will represent the rich flavor profile across the Moroccan landscape, located in the heart of Kaimuki at 1108 12th Avenue in the old Angelo Pietro space. Find them on Instagram @leila_kaimuki. • Go Go Curry, one of the best known curry chains in Japan opened its first Hawaii location inside Mitsuwa Marketplace at the International Market Place. So good!

Chef's Corner

HFWF Chef Brady Ishiwata Williams

Chef Brady Ishiwata Williams' grandmother Tomoko played a major role in his upbringing, so much so he named his first restaurant after her. Tomo Seattle has been such a success, the avant-garde Japanese bistro accumulated a waitlist 15,000 names long, before it even open. Brady, a self-taught chef, was named Executive Chef of Seattle's Canlis (yes, that Canlis) when he was only 28 years old and quickly earned one of the few four-star reviews ever awarded by The Seattle Times, was named Food & Wine Best New Chef 2018 and received a James Beard Award for Best Chef - Northwest

What is your first childhood food memory?

My first childhood food memory was helping my grandmother, Tomoko, prepare Osechi Ryori, the traditional Japanese New Years Feast. My job was to fan the rice as it cooled and I never did it fast enough!

When did you decide to be a chef?

I decided to become to chef in my early twenties, after pursuing a professional ice hockey career. My grandparents owned a restaurant, and while I never thought I would follow suit, I caught the bug and started working my way through kitchens. My first restaurant job was working as a busboy there.

Who would you consider your mentor?

Carlo Mirarchi, of Roberta's and Blanca. He's a self-taught chef with incredible sensibility, intuition, and has the best palate I know. He also demonstrated taking the right things seriously, but not yourself.

Tell us about your training.

I don't have any formal training. I have the privilege to have worked for some incredible chefs in Los Angeles, Dallas, and NYC.

Describe your cooking style?

Simple and intuitive. It's not very structured or classical.

Where were you working before Canlis?

I was the Executive Sous Chef of Roberta's and two-Michelin-starred Blanca in Brooklyn.

Was the James Beard award life changing?

You try to not put too much stock in awards, but it was quite the surprise. I never expected to win, especially the first year of being nominated. I was in shock.

Most people wait a lifetime to open a restaurant to such acclaim and win amazing awards. Where do you go from here?

I just want to maintain a simple & sustainable life for myself and my family. Cooking for people gives me joy.

Tell us about the tattoos?

Some good decisions, some bad decisions. Every one is a story!

Your website is fun! Who did that?

My partner, Jessica, is behind so much of the creative direction of the restaurant. She and our designer wanted to get away from the traditional restaurant website, I think they did a great job. Check it out at tomoseattle.com.

Do you do many of these food festivals?

I'm fairly selective but my criteria begin with either: cooking with someone I want to cook with, or cook somewhere I really would love to go. More often than not, it's both.

What's on your must-do list while here?

I'm looking forward to being back on the island with my partner and our two-year-old daughter. We're going to spend a ton of time with my family that lives here (aunts, uncles, and cousins). I'm looking forward to eating at Side Street Inn, Ethels, Helena's and Eight Fat Fat Eight, and have a cocktail at Bar Maze.

Any chance of you showcasing aspects of those beloved Canlis recipes while here?

Not this time. I did cook a dinner in 2018 at Senia that was a nod to Canlis Honolulu.

Is there anything else you'd like to share?

It's always such an honor to cook in Hawaii. I have the utmost respect for its culinary history and traditions, and can't wait to come back.

Tomoko's Chawanmushi

My grandmother, and the namesake of the restaurant, passed away recently at the age of 97. Since the restaurant's opening, and even long before it, I've served versions of her chawanmushi - or Japanese egg custard - as a course on our menu. It's the first dish she ever taught me to make and I grew up eating it for breakfast or as a part of osechi ryori, the traditional Japanese New Year's spread. The custard itself is quite traditional and you can add other traditional items, such as ginkgo nuts or shiitake mushrooms to the bowl before pouring the custard and steaming. We've made it very non-traditional over the years, adding everything from vinegared radishes to geoduck and uni. Whichever way it's served, I find this dish subtly delicious and blatantly comforting, especially as the weather cools over the coming weeks. I hope you do too.

Ingredients	2 tsp. bonito flakes	1 ½ tsp. soy sauce
1 (5-inch) piece kombu	1 ½ tsp. mirin	3 large eggs

Directions: Heat the oven to 325°. In a small saucepan, bring the kombu and 1 ½ cups water to a boil. Remove from the heat, remove and discard the kombu, stir in the bonito flakes, and let stand for 5 minutes. Pour the dashi through a fine sieve into a bowl and let cool. In another bowl, whisk the mirin and soy sauce with the eggs, then whisk in the cooled dashi. Divide the custard among four 6-oz. ramekins set inside a 9-by-13-inch baking dish, and set the baking dish in the oven. Pour enough boiling water into the baking dish to come halfway up the sides of the ramekins and bake the custards until set but still slightly loose in the center, about 30 minutes. Remove the baking dish from the oven, lift the ramekins from the water bath, and transfer to a rack. Let the custards cool slightly before serving.

You can meet Brady Ishiwata Williams at this year's Hawaii Food & Wine Festival
 He will be at Jade Cocktail Club with Morimoto & Friends on November 7th. For tickets go to HFWF.me

TASTE OF THE
GRAND LĀNAI
INTERNATIONAL MARKET PLACE

International Market Place is hosting its sixth annual Grand Lānai Restaurant Week. From October 4 to 13, seven restaurants will feature limited-time unique dishes and prix fixe menus.

Participating restaurants include Eating House 1849 by Roy Yamaguchi, Moani Waikiki, Stripsteak Waikiki, Liliha Bakery, Crackin' Kitchen, Kūhiō Avenue Food Hall, and Uncle Sharkii Poke Bar. Diners who spend $200 or more in combined receipts at participating restaurants will receive a $20 Gift Card. And, for all you parents out there, kids under 12 can eat free off the kids menu with two paying adult entrees on Tuesday, October 8, at Eating House 1849 by Roy Yamaguchi, Moani Waikiki, and Stripsteak Waikiki.

To kick off the event, IMP will present a special event, "Taste of the Grand Lānai," on Friday, October 4 from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Attendees will nosh on ten tastings from Grand Lānai Restaurant Week menus, two hosted beverages, get a special gift & get the chance to win restaurant gift cards. Ticket holders will pop around the Grand Lānai visiting tasting tables in front of participating restaurants, and mingle at the Pop-Up Bar set up in the event space fronting Moani Waikiki. Ticket holders can also enjoy a complimentary stargazing experience from Stargazers of Hawaii.

What's on the menu? Here's a sneak peek of some items offered during the two-week festival. Crackin' Kitchen will offer King Crab Fried Rice. Eating House 1849 by Roy Yamaguchi will serve Kinilaw, which is a dish of Smoked Salmon, Coconut Cream, Ikura, Tempura Inari Bomb, Maguro Spicy Ahi, Kabayaki, Chives, Pipikaula, Lomi Tomato, and Poi. Kuhio Avenue Food Hall will present its Birria Beef Tacos, Moani Waikiki will feature Pork Gyoza with Citrus Soy Dipping Sauce, and Uncle Sharkii Poke Bar will offer Mini Spicy Ahi Tuna Bowls. There will also be savory delights from Shorefyre Waikiki, Skybox Taphouse, and Stripsteak Waikiki. Once you've tasted all the savory items, be sure to stop by Liliha Bakery for their famous Original Coco Puffs and grab a special Ice Cream from Magnolia Ice Cream & Treats for dessert. Tickets are $95 in advance and $105 at the door.

To see all the menus the restaurants will offer throughout the two-week event or to purchase tickets for the Taste of the Grand Lānai, visit their website at shopinternationalmarketplace.com.
