Celebrate 20 years of a Shoppers Paradise at

MADE IN HAWAII

Ladies and gentlemen, start your shopping engines. Grab the credit card and your walking shoes and head for the ultimate shoppers paradise. It happens every August. Mark the calendar. This year the event will take place on Statehood Weekend, August 15, 16 and 17th, time for the 20th Annual First Hawaiian Bank Made in Hawaii Festival, filling the Neal S. Blaisdell Center's Exhibition Hall and Arena. The show is breaking all previous records for shopping choices -- 450 booths with guaranteed Made In Hawaii products!

The Made in Hawaii Festival is row upon row of handmade, irresistible treasures. In the Arena the food booths waft the fragrance of coffee, grown from Kau to Kauai. Celebrity chefs, including Hale Aina Award-Winning chefs, Chai Chaowasaree (Chef Chai), and Ronnie Nasuti of Tiki's Grill & Bar. The stunning roster of chefs will make tantalizing dishes using local products. Watching them cook and listening to their detailed instructions is fun. Tasting the fruit of their labor is delicious.

Each day and evening is filled with music, hula and a variety of entertainment in the Pikake Room, where sitting is a treat when celebrity entertainers, including Hawaii's finest, the Na Hoku Hanohano winners, present concerts in the Pikake Room. Tired feet are guaranteed to revive and tap to the music.

More music will be provided by the contestants in the Outrigger Reef Kani Ka Pila Grille Talent

Search. Once all the entries were received, five finalists were selected. These are the musicians who will perform and be judged by Grammy-nominated and Na Hoku Award-winning slack key guitar master, Cyril Pahinui, Luana Maitland, music director of the Grille, and John Viera, MELE Studios program coordinator. The winners receive a one month paid contract to perform at the Grille and studio time for recording at MELE Studios.

All this is available for the bargain ticket price of $5. Children 6 and under are free. The show takes place at the Neal Blaisdell Exhibition Hall & Arena on Ward Avenue between King Street and Kapiolani Boulevard. Times and days: 10 a.m - 9 p.m, Friday & Saturday, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Sunday. madeinhawaiifestival.com or follow the festival on Facebook and Twitter.

The best way to go – car pool with friends, catch The Bus. Visitors or residents in Waikiki can hop on the free dedicated Waikiki Trolley. The service is offered between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday. Pick-up/ drop-off points are Hilton Hawaiian Village on Kalia Road, the Duke Kahanamoku statue and Aston Waikiki Beach Hotel, both on Kalakaua Avenue, the Ohana West on Kuhio Avenue and the Neal Blaisdell Center.

What originated as a modest 61-booth exhibition to help Hawaii's local businesses now attracts over 39,000 attendees. Mainland and neighbor island visitors plan trips to coincide with the three-day extravaganza – a marathon of food, music, and non-stop shopping.

Each year new vendors sell at the Festival. All of the artisans work hard to comply with the rules of the show. Living up to the Made in Hawaii promise isn't all that easy. The laws regulating products require 51% of the wholesale value of each product be manufactured, assembled, produced or fabricated of materials made in Hawaii. Meeting the criteria is tough for screen print artists who must buy t-shirts made in China or, if they are lucky, from a mainland U.S. factory. For designers,

The beaches of Waikiki will be filled with lots of activity as Waikiki's premier ocean sports festival, Duke's OceanFest returns for nine-days from August 16-24th.

Visitors will have the chance to see dozens of competitions take place near Queen's Surf as the OceanFest focuses on sports that were close to Duke's heart. There will be multiple events to watch every day, from beach volleyball to surfing and paddle board races to a special wounded warrior canoe regatta to the always popular lifeguard competition and surfboard waterpolo match! Stands will be erected in front of the Duke Kahanamoku's statue for spectators to watch the various competitions, and the Duke's OceanFest Expo will be open daily from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. with a variety of exhibition and retail booths to browse.

Duke was one of the greatest athletes to ever come out of Hawaii. Recognized at the "Father of Surfing," he won six Olympic medals between 1912 - 1932, including three golds in swimming. Duke is fondly remembered today as the greatest waterman who ever lived, and was the first person ever inducted into both the International Swimming Hall of the Fame and International Surfing Hall of Fame.

Now in its 13th year, Duke's Oceanfest celebrates and honors not only Duke's enduring legacy but also our ocean sports heritage and the watermen and women that continue those traditions each and every day. Visitors won't want to miss the lei draping ceremony that kicks off the Fest on the 16th from 5 - 6 p.m. See a complete schedule of events on page 16 and follow them on Facebook, Twitter and at dukesoceanfest.com.

August is for Lovers... music lovers that is

The summer is flying by quickly and there continues to simply be one event after another. August is no different as the Made in Hawaii Festival takes over the Blaisdell August 15-17. I'm not sure about the tourists, but personally I try to restock on some of my favorites each year. I think I have plans to be on the North Shore that weekend, so I have to make sure to get in there on Friday so I can grab my favorite Auntie Lilikoi and Surfing Goat treats! Plus, it's a great place to have lunch! Heard of lunch at Costco? Costco has nothing on this one. Go hungry -- everything is really ono!

There has also been an abundance of music this summer. In addition to all of the ukulele and guitar festivals that took place last month, August is just a huge month for music lovers. Gabby Pahinui has often been called the greatest slack-key guitarists that ever lived, and many consider him the father of Hawaiian Slack Key. He died back in 1980 just as the style was gaining in popularity but his music lives on and he has been the inspiration for thousands of musicians. Fortunately his kids followed in his footsteps and will lead the charge on August 9th when 7th annual Gabby Pahinui Kanikapila takes place. This is a Hawaiian Slack Key Lollapalooza. Over 200 dancers and musicians will take to the stage in Waimanalo Beach Park for basically a jam session that lasts 9 straight hours! "Bands" are created that day as musicians you would normally never see play together jump on stage to play with a friend or someone they have always wanted to play with. Truly a once-in-a-lifetime experience for your guests to experience. Fortunately for us, we get to experience it once a year. If you or your guests cannot get out to Waimanalo, they can still experience the genre as the 32nd Annual Hawaiian Slack Key Guitar Festival takes over Kapiolani Park on August 17th from noon to 6 p.m. One of my favorite performers, Makana, once known as "The Ki Ho'alu Kid" will just be getting back to town after his worldwide adventure to headline an all-star line-up of 15 of the some of the greatest slack key musicians in the island. These are two amazing opportunities to go pull up a piece of grass, enjoy all the beauty Hawaii has to offer and hear absolutely amazing musicians at play.. for free! Seriously? How lucky are we? Talk about lucky you live Hawaii!

Makana will also be performing at the final Ke Nani Kai concert series at the Aquarium on August 7th (and chances are high he'll be at Waimanalo as I know he's super close with the Pahinui family). The final two concerts at the Zoo happen this month as well and on August 23rd, the Ka Himeni 'Ana will go down at the Hawaii Theatre - where ticketholders will hear the best voices Hawaii has to offer singing the best Hawaiian music around accompanied only by an unamplified instrument. There will definitely be some chicken skin moments that night. Music lovers will simply be on overload all month long, so get out there and enjoy!

Valerie King

Congratulations to Valerie King, who has left Kualoa Ranch after several years to take over as General Manager at Sea Life Park. Valerie is no stranger to this industry having also spent time leading Tickets Plus, Navatek, Atlantis Submarines and more. We wish her all the best in her latest venture. • Speaking of Atlantis, they have made several changes there as well bringing on Annika Seavey as their Brand Manager and Jonelle Shimamoto as their Marketing and Public Relations Manager. Seavey brings with her 15 years of advertising experience and Shimamoto has worked her way up steadfastly within the company for the past 14 years. Congrats! • Sending congrats out to the entire staff at the Aulani, a Disney Resort & Spa, as Travel + Leisure Magazine ranked Aulani No. 1 in the "Best Family Hotel in the USA" category. Way to go guys! • Matthew Pickett, formerly General Manager of the Lotus Honolulu, who now oversees the Polynesian Plaza is currently pulling double duty, adding the Lotus GM duties back into his repertoire as our pal Joshua Gray headed back to the mainland recently. • There's also new General Manager over at the Waialae Country Club as Brad Jencks took over as of July 1st. Many of you may remember Brad from his time as the general manager for both the Turtle Bay Resort and the Halekulani. • Also on the GM front, Ted Sakai, formerly of the Miramar Hotel has been named General Manager of the Aqua Waikiki Wave. • We would like to extend a welcome out to Sharyne Zahara, Shannon Gring, Tawni Irvine and Christian Pucong as the latest members to join the Expedia Team. • Also new is Lee-ann Lee, who has joined the Holiday Inn Waikiki Beachcomber as a guest services manager after transferring over from their airport property. • Welcome also to Rodney Ray, the newest Japanese Guest Service Manager at Embassy Suites Waikiki Beach Walk as well as Brandon Stalnaker who joined their Front Desk as a Guest Service Manager. Aloha to you all!

MADE IN HAWAII

fabric is also a challenge since fiber plants, like cotton, are not native to Hawaii. The best they can do is order yardage, pay shipping and print fabric in the islands.

It is great to know that there is always something new at the festival, but also fun to see the "old timers" who have participated in the festival since its inception, including Sandy Vincent, owner of Sandy's Creations (Niihau shell lei and jewelry), Som' Good Things (Hawaiian sea salt seasonings), CJ Metal Creations (metal wall sculptures, lanterns and whimsical sculptures of golfers, fishermen, etc. using nuts and bolts).

The newest vendors will include, from Maui; Maui Fruit Jewels, Oahu; Kahala Fresh (dried fruits, salts and baked goods) and Uncle Clay's House of Pure Aloha (ginger snacks that are being enjoyed by the crews of Hokulea). From Kauai, Mailelani's Hawaiian print bags and baggage tags and from Molokai, Tula with Molokai shell jewelry created by two sisters.

New for 2014 in the Pikake Room - DBEDT (Department of Business, Economic Development & Tourism) presents New Product Showcase. Sort of a "festival within the festival" featuring vendors who haven't participated in the festival before. The showcase will include products from members of three organizations.

The HiFi (Hawaii Fashion Incubator) is an organization dedicated to promoting Hawaii fashion as art and industry. They will have a HiFi Boutique featuring apparel and accessories by six vendors, and will also present several fashion shows on stage in Pikake Room each day.

The group, INNOVATE Hawaii, a program of the High Technology Development Corporation, helps small and medium companies will feature new products from local food manufacturers.

Hawaii Cultural and Retail Association is participating for the first time with a block of booths featuring members' products as well as demonstrations throughout the festival. HCRA members are Hawaii's cultural artisans and practitioners who create both traditional and contemporary products, one preserving the stories of the past and the other creating the picture of the future. The group honors the mana, the energy that creates a balance as they develop authentic Hawaii products that help perpetuate the people, place, and culture of Hawaii.

Members consist of kumu hula, lauhala weavers, lei makers, craftsmen, lomi lomi practitioners, jewelry designers, fine artists, graphic artists, textile artists, book authors, media professionals, kahu, Hawaiian educators, organic farmers, entertainers and business leaders.

A bit of history on this mega-shopping event: In 1995, State Representative David Morihara envisioned an event that would provide a venue to showcase all the products of Hawaii, and provide an opportunity for companies to market themselves to retail buyers and consumers and test-market new products. Over the years the event has become a business incubator helping businesses test-market products at low cost to thousands of patrons.

The number of exhibitor booths grew from 61 in 1995, 100 in 1996, 150 in 1997, 170 in 1998, 209 in 1999 and nearly 284 in 2000. In 2001, the festival expanded to include booths in both the Exhibition Hall and Arena at the Neal Blaisdell Center with more than 380 booths. This year, the festival will more than 450 booths. ~ LYNN

A RENOVATED RAINBOW

45 years after it was first unveiled, $4.25 million dollars and 31,000 tiles later the Hilton Hawaiian Village has completed the restoration of their iconic Rainbow Mural. The mural is now visible at night as it is illuminated by over 8,000 LED lights which will be turned on nightly at 7:30 p.m. and turned off at 5 a.m.

HYATT ADDS 2ND MARKET

In response to the overwhelming response for their weekly Waikiki Farmers Market, Hyatt Regency Waikiki is adding it on another day. Now guests can head over twice weekly, on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 - 8 p.m. for the best locally grown or produced foods. Additionally, a Cultural Craft Fair will be added Friday afternoons from 3 - 7 p.m. offering visitors a chance to pick up some locally produced arts & crafts, photography, woodwork, jewelry and more. waikiki.hyatt.com.

DON'T MISS PETER PAN

This one missed the calendar, but we wanted to make sure that those of you interested know that Ballet Hawaii will be presenting Peter Pan at the Blaisdell Concert Hall featuring choreography by Septime Webre, artistic director of The Washington Ballet starring a few of their star performers on loan for the weekend. Three performances only. August 8-10. BalletHawaii.com

YOGA WITH A TWIST

Now this is my type of yoga! The Waikiki Parc has introduced yoga with a Twist, where everyone is invited to a yoga class at 6 p.m. which will feature live music by a violinist and a guitarist through the class followed by wines and specialty drinks for $5. Every second Thursday of the month for the remainder of the year. Call 921-7272 x 6618 or waikikiparc.com.

COASTIES GET IN FREE

In honor of the U.S. Coast Guard's birthday on August 4th, Pearl Harbor Historic Sites will waive the admission of all active duty and retired Air Force personnel and their families into the Battleship Missouri Memorial, Pacific Aviation Museum Pearl Harbor, and the USS Bowfin Submarine Museum and Park on August 2nd and 3rd. Just present a valid military ID at the ticket booth to redeem. PearlHarborHistoricSites.org.

CABARAE ABOUT TO OPEN

The highly anticipated theater-in-the-round "cabariety" show, CabaRAE is set to move into their brand new digs in early September. However, the talent has been itching to perform so your guests can catch this unusual variety show in a series of special preview shows directly above the soon-to-be opened show-room through August 31st at the special rate of $60. ## NEW HISTORICAL TOUR

Royal Star Hawaii has launched a new daily Arizona Memorial & Historical Downtown tour. The five-hour tour offers visitors a historical journey through some of Hawaii's most famous attractions starting off at the Pearl Harbor Visitor Center. The USS Arizona Memorial, National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific at Punchbowl, and a tour of the historical sites in Downtown Honolulu follow. Tickets $36 for adults and $25 for kids ages 3-11. 841-7827. royalstarhawaii.com.

HALEKULANI.COM

Halekulani celebrates its 30th Anniversary this year and has launched its new website, Halekulani.com, allowing site visitors to experience the hotel virtually while engaging all of the social media platforms.

ALOHA HILTON PENGUINS

For more than two decades, the Hilton Hawaiian Village has been home to African black-footed penguins. After 26 years there are now only three penguins from the original colony still alive and the species has since been classified as endangered, so the Hilton is unable to bring any more friends in for these very social creatures, the remaining penguins have been relocated to the Maryland Zoo to hopefully breed with their new friends. Aloha!

SWIM WITH MERMAIDS

Last year the boys got their pirate ship and now little girls can rejoice as Hawaii Nautical has teamed up with Mermaid Kariel Entertainment to bring Mermaid & Me, the first mermaid entertainment show at sea to Oahu. Enjoy the mermaids onboard entertaining guests with their stories and song while guests can wear their own mermaid-style fin and swim with them! August is more than just the name of the last full month of summer, it's also an adjective that means inspiring reverence or admiration or just simply majestic. One might say that of some of the fun and entertaining theatrical productions this month "hitting to boards" -- to borrow a phrase from the world of Vaudeville.

One theatre which was around during the end of the Vaudeville era was our historic HAWAII THEATRE CENTER which opened in 1922 and was considered the "Pride of the Pacific" for its grand architecture. The Hawaiian Music Hall of Fame is returning to the theatre with its 30th Annual Ka Himeni 'Ana Hawaiian music competition on August 23 at 7 p.m. If your guests are looking to experience traditional Hawaiian melodies with an updated twist, you should urge them to spend the evening there to hear the beautiful sounds of this year's contestants as they perform in the traditional 'nahahe' style, which is the distinctive Hawaiian music form that features sweet vocal harmony and supported by unamplified acoustic instruments. The purpose of this concert is to encourage the singing of Hawaiian music in the old fashioned manner without microphones. These performances will truly be inspiring especially in such a majestic theatre as the Hawaii Theatre. This competition has served as the proving ground for local artists such as Holunape, Hookena, Piloha, Kuuuipo and Kanialau who are now well-known names in contemporary Hawaiian music. Tickets are $20 to $30 and can be purchased online at HawaiiTheatre.com or by calling the box office at 528-0506. This is an authentic Hawaiian experience not to be missed, too bad it is only for one night.

Fortunately for your guests, the glimpse into Hawaii's local contemporary world portrayed in the plays produced at KUMU KAHUA THEATRE are "on the boards" for weeks to be enjoyed by locals and visitors. The theatre opens its 44th season with the world premiere of Shoyu on Rice a play by Scot Izuka. It's a dramedy (part comedy, part drama) set at a private Catholic high school here in Hawaii and deals with teen peer pressure and identity issues. The play is set in the mid-1980s and centers on a substitute teacher from Kansas who takes over a classroom at an all-boys high school. Many of your guests will identify with the main character as she tries to comprehend the intricacies of pidgin English. In addition to the general local culture, the teacher also must adapt to the way of her Japanese-American fiancée's parents. Think of it as a local version of the play "History Boys" but not set in England, not about getting into university, and not about an eccentric teacher. Actually "Shoyu on Rice" is nothing like "History Boys" other than the fact that it gives the audience a look into the various lives of students and teachers and how rumors can be damaging at such a young age. The production opens on August 21 and runs through September 21, so there are lots of opportunities for you to recommend this to your guests. Curtain is 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, with 2 p.m. Sunday matinee. Tickets are $20 and $16 for seniors 62 and older. For more information, visit KumuKahua.org or call the box office at 536-4441.

Now if your guests want to get as far away as possible from the beach, then I recommend ballet. Honestly! BALLET HAWAII'S Peter Pan is truly not to be missed. For several years, Ballet Hawaii has been partnering with the Washington Ballet's artistic director, Septime Webre, to bring some of his dazzling productions to Hawaii. In the past his production of "Alice in Wonderland" was praised by critics and enjoyed by both local and visitor audiences. This production of "Peter Pan" is not like any ballet your guests have seen. Yet, this may be the only ballet your guests will ever see. And if it is, so be it, as it's a fun, high-flying adventure to Neverland with Peter and the Lost Boys, Captain Hook and his pirates, and of course Wendy and her two little brothers. And guess what? Peter actually flies in the air, high up above the stage. The swashbuckling production runs Friday, August 8 and Saturday, August 9 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, August 10 at 2 p.m. at the Blaisdell Concert Hall. There is a special tea party event taking place on Sunday, August 3 at Mariposa in Neiman Marcus that your Japanese guests will definitely like. The restaurant is being transformed into a special Neverland with delicious treats and photo opportunity with a special guest from the production. The party package includes the tea party as well as VIP theatre seating for any of the performance dates as well as parking. In addition to this tea party, there is also an opening night VIP dinner package at Stage Restaurant in the Honolulu Design Center on Friday, August 8 at 5:15 p.m. with a special three-act dinner by Chef Ron de Guzman which includes prime orchestra seating at the performance. For information on both packages please call 521-8600.

There are currently three productions that opened earlier in the summer that are still running in Honolulu theatres. THE ACTORS' GROUP's production of Resistance! which is an historical drama about William Parker, a former slave who resisted and overturned the Fugitive Slave Act in Pennsylvania in 1851. For those of you who loved the Oscar winning film "Twelve Years a Slave" this play will give you another look into the world of slavery during the middle of the 19th century. Tickets are $20 and $15 for seniors, but the best night to go is on Thursdays when all tickets are $12. Visit taghawaii.net or just call the box office at 722-6941. Just a reminder the theatre is located at the Dole Cannery and guests can park in the parking structure and walk across the street. Make sure that don't accidentally walk into Regal Theaters and see "Tammy" with Melissa McCarthy.

Tickets are also still available for MANOA VALLEY THEATRE's musical revue "Smokey Joe's Cafe" that features 39 pop standards written by songwriters Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller. Call 988-6131 for tickets.

Please encourage your guests and your family to check out the great plays and musicals offered in Honolulu's local theatre scene. You will be very surprised at how much talent there really is here in Hawaii.

Aunty Lynn's Adventures X

Fly away. That's the urge that August brings. School is out, vacation days beg to be used. But wait, we all have jobs connected to all those mainland folks who have flown away from their home, migrating to the sun and the soothing sound of the surf in Waikiki. And it's our job - well, mostly your job - to make their vacation dreams come true. Aunty Lynn's suggestion, suspend reality whenever possible and play where you stay.

START YOUR ENGINES: The biggest fly-away is the Pacific Aviation Museum Pearl Harbor Remote-Control Biggest Little Airshow in Hawaii. Saturday and Sunday, August 16 and 17, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. One of the coolest parts is getting to drive over the bridge and onto Ford Island. Of course there is also a free shuttle from the Pearl Harbor Visitor Center.

What you can see will be amazing feats by remote-control flying aircraft – plus the real-size planes that fill the museum. On Saturday at 5 p.m. A big screen will be hung in Hangar 79 for a free showing of the new Disney film, "Planes: Fire and Rescue". Bring a mat or beach chair for the movie. Free tours of the hangar are the place to play "spot the bullet holes from the attack on Pearl Harbor - December 7, 1941 and check out the work in progress at the restoration shop – or get up close and personal with an F-14 Tomcat, F-15 Eagle, F-86s, P-40, MiG-15, F-111.

At the Red Bull tent streaming broadcasts will air (oops, couldn't resist the pun) of the 2014 Red Bull Air Race World Championship – the sky's fastest and most breathtaking sport. Check the Ford Island Runway for candy drops, hands-on modeling stations, music, food, drinks, retail and entertainment booths and exhibits, keiki rides and activities, and lots and lots of airplanes.

Local and mainland pilots from the Academy of Model Aeronautics, plus remote control flyers from Japan, will demonstrate remote-control aviation feats, flying massive, 1-to-5 scale planes. The ohh and ahh moments include: Pattern, 3-D fixed wing and helicopter aerobatic flights, South Pacific battles, and Skycam drone helicopters. Remote control aircraft will be in the air and on static display including jets, helicopters, F-22s, warbirds, B-17s, P-38s, Corsairs, OV-10s and more.

SATURDAY SOUNDS: Planning to cruise Kailua, shop a bit, eat – even have a glass of wine in the Whole Foods wine bar. Yup, actually by the glass inside the grocery store, though somehow the term "grocery store" doesn't quite fit – maybe we should say "food castle." But, back to Saturday in Kailua. The Harold K.L. Castle Foundation's free monthly Kanikapila in Kailua happens one Saturday a month, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. on the ground floor of the parking lot behind Long's. On August 16th Mailani will sing, September 20th is Palani Vaughn, October 18th Kamaka Fernandez and November 15th features Teresa Bright. Bring a beach chair. The concerts started two years ago and are the brainchild of Kawika Kahiapo. If you haven't been. Go.

STAY GO: Sunday in the country means Hawaii Polo Club matches at Mokule'a. Take a picnic, walk the beach, eat from the food trucks, count the skydivers at half-time. It's like a trip to a neighbor island without the flight. For August, Argentina and India teams will challenge Hawaii and the games are much easier to reach than Brazil.

SAMPLE SUNDAY: Spend a morning at Na Mea at Ward Warehouse hanging out with Nake'i Awai for his Tea & Talk. He knows everyone. Two that caught my attention: August 10th Watters Martin Jr. will talk about Ming's Honolulu – great fun for anyone heir to grandma's gold or ivory jewelry. The next week Kumu Hula Joan Lindsey and April Villa will be there to chat about the late, great Lena Machado – and the list goes on. 10:30 on Sunday, be there!

SEEING BACK: Two iconic treasures in Waikiki are presenting two shows looking back. The Halekulani House Without a Key offers the early 1900's Photographs of Hawaii – Where Tradewinds Blow, featuring the work of Caroline Haskins Gurrey and A.R. Gurrey, Jr.; a portal into the 1900's in Hawaii. The exhibit, open free of charge, will run through August 31, 2014 and is located along its promenade, next to House Without a Key

The second exhibition, in the Coronet Lounge at the Royal Hawaiian, is a mouth-watering essay of feasting in the islands from 1920's to 1960's. Matson Navigation Company menus and artwork from the posh parties of the past as well as the opening night of the Royal Hawaiian. The exhibit will be on display until July 31, 2015 at no charge.

SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY: A conversation with Lezlee and Henry always leads to a game of who did this, who wrote that – kind of Twenty Questions, Hawaiian style. Who wrote Honolulu City Lights? Who sang NightBird? Who holds the record for most people at a concert at the Waikiki Shell? I toss back, who played the courtyard of the Blaisdell Hotel on Fort Street when it was still a street? So, Henry Kapon and friends are gathering on August 23rd at the Waikiki Shell to take us Back in the Day. Oh, the answers are: Keola Beamer, Kalapana, Cecilio & Kapon, and Olomana. See you there!

Slack Key

masters at play

Prepare for a marathon of slack key, cha-lang-a-lang and the joy of backyard Hawaiian style music. Saturday, August 9th is Gabby Pahinui Waimanalo Kanikapila. From 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. you can enjoy the music of nearly every Hawaiian musician you every wanted to hear, and it's all free.

The 7th Annual Fest will happen at Waimanalo Beach Park, only a few short blocks from Gabby's home. The day includes hula, lomi lomi massage, food booths with stew and rice and shave ice, cultural demonstrations, community organization displays and the sound that Gabby built.

Reading musician, filmmaker and Hawaiian treasure Eddie Kamae's biography, "Hawaiian Son," makes it clear that Gabby Pahinui's musical legacy with the Sons of Hawaii evolved from his friendship with fellow musicians.

Kamae's account of sitting down with Gabby for "an hour" in Waimanalo — and staying for days — offers up a close view of Gabby's magic. It could be beautiful, but it took stamina.

There are volumes of stories about Gabby. He was loved, and his fellow musicians recognize his legacy. Listen carefully to Iz' 1993 "Facing Future" CD and you'll hear the late, great IZ say, "Kay, dis one's for Gabby."

Gabby left us earlier than he should have — born in 1921, he died on Oct. 13, 1980 at age 59. Lucky for us all, three of Gabby's sons, Bla, Martin and Cyril have grown the Pahanui tradition — followed by many other musicians who were also inspired by hearing Gabby.

Cyril and his wife, Chelle, knew that everyone who loves Hawaiian music should know the joy of sitting on the grass at Waimanalo, hearing music played at the source. Seven years ago they invited a few musicians to play at the park. This year, 150 musicians will participate, often playing with a created-on-the-spot group — maybe an hour old — so that everyone gets their chance to play. Go early, stay late. Check gabbypahinui.com for the line-up.

For more great slack key, spend Sunday, August 17th from noon to 6 p.m., at Kapiolani Park as Milton Lau presents his 32nd Annual Hawaiian Slack Key Guitar Festival. Park benches or low-back chairs are the way to relax and enjoy the day with added attractions of crafters, food booths, a guitar and ukulele exhibit and a drawing for a coveted Taylor guitar.

Lau says it is hard to believe this is the 32nd year. He started the festival at Ala Moana Park, moved it to Kapiolani and then created six more festivals in Hawaii, two in Japan, three in Europe (Stockholm, Sweden, Amsterdam, Holland and Zurich). Makana will headline the festival, plus Maunalua, Brother Noland, Kawika Kahiapo, and more. Got to slackkeyfestival.com. ~ Lynn Cook

Chef's Corner

Celebrity Pastry Chef Johnny Iuzzini

Johnny Iuzzini has been named Outstanding Pastry Chef by the James Beard Foundation, one of the "10 Most Influential Pastry Chefs in America" by Forbes, "Best New Pastry Chef" by New York Magazine, and named one of the "Top Ten Pastry Chefs in America" two years in a row by Pastry Arts and Design. He has authored several cookbooks and was the Head Judge on Bravo's Top Chef Just Desserts and... he is coming to Hawaii next month for the Hawaii Food & Wine Festival!

When did you decide you wanted to be a chef? I've never had a job outside the kitchen since age 15. Funny though, I only ended up in the kitchen, washing pots because that was the only job available. All my friends already got all the caddie jobs at the country club.

What sparked your passion about working in a kitchen? I am one of those people that if I feel I can't be great at something I quit and try something else. I played every sport for 1 season in middle and high school. Cooking was the only thing I could see progress daily and that excited me. Even peeling 10 lbs of apples just a little faster than the day before was enough to motivate me.

You've worked with some of the top names in the industry. Who would you consider your mentor and why? I have many mentors, Brad Goulden, Francois Payard, Daniel Boulud, Thomas Haas and Jean Georges Vongerichten. In a way they have all contributed to my growth, my vision, my culinary voice and my progress in the industry. I learned about tradition, professionalism, pride and above all respect and humility.

What drew you to pastry? I started out in the savory side of the kitchen, even competing at age 16, but I have a soft spot for animals and found it difficult at a young age to kill and butcher animals. My mother was a veterinarian and wildlife rehabilitator. I grew up nursing juvenile and injured animals back to health and rereleasing them. When I had to kill or butcher an animal it brought me to tears. Pastry was an amazing outlet for me to express my creative spirit as well as that I didn't have to kill anything.

Over the years you have achieved some amazing accolades and awards. What do they mean to you? I am very proud of my accomplishments yet I try to always think of them as stepping stones. I try to remember how hard I have worked and the people who have helped me along the way. I also keep in mind that I have had amazing teams by my side helping me to achieve these great successes.

What are you doing these days? I am traveling the world as much as possible, finishing my second cookbook, coming out September 30 called Sugar Rush. I am also consulting on different projects, doing more TV, both judging and competing. My main goal and reason why I left Jean George is because I have always wanted to build a chocolate factory. This is my ambition.

Do you have favorite flavor combination? I love strawberry and verberna as well as dark chocolate and peppermint.

What's the strangest thing you've ever tried to create in a kitchen? Hmm... I don't see things as strange, I see them as a successes (delicious) or a failures (not delicious). I have many hits, and just as many misses over the years.

You were the head judge on Top Chef Desserts. How was that? It was a extraordinary experience. I also contributed to the design of challenges. It was the first show to really shed light on the skill sets of a pastry chef. I have recently competed and won on Iron Chef America. I also competed on a new episode of Cutthroat Kitchen All Stars airing later this year and am a judge on a new show called King of Cones on the Food Network.

Compare cooking on a competition show versus cooking on a line? Very different. It is much easier to cook in your home kitchen where you are comfortable with the equipment you are using, you know where everything is, menus are usually set and no cameras in your face. For all the opposite reasons TV is much much harder.

I've read you're a workaholic. Are you afraid you'll burn out? I used to be, I still work very hard and spend a lot of time traveling and devoted to my charitable causes but I now have more balance in my life and definitely have taken back some of my life for myself.

What do you think is the next big trend? Hmm, in my opinion, media creates trends and then they complain about it. Chefs don't create trends. We cook what we enjoy and hopefully what our clientele enjoys.

What do you have planned for the Hawaii Food & Wine Festival? I have never been to Hawaii so I want to explore the islands on a motorcycle. I want to scuba dive and visit local cacao and coffee plantations. I'm an outside person, an adrenaline junkie, so anything to get my heart rate up will be on the list.

What's always in your fridge? Chocolate, San Pellegrino sodas, Parmesan cheese, jams.

What do you think you would you be doing if you weren't a chef? That's a good question, one I ask myself often lately. I think something mechanical, working with my hands, maybe welding or creating custom motorcycles.

What's next for you? I plan on building and opening a bean to bar chocolate factory and coffee roaster under one roof.

Cottontail Cookies by Chef Johnny Iuzzini

These are sometimes also called Mexican wedding cookies or Russian tea cakes. I was introduced to them as a kid but never made one until my externship while at the Culinary Institute. You would expect the cookies to be supersweet from being rolled in confectioners' sugar, but the rich, roasted nut flavor balances everything and is what seals the deal for me. I like how they break down when you eat them; the texture is just perfect—part crunchy, part chewy. You can taste each element separately, but they have great synergy together. makes about 2 dozen cookies.

Ingredients:

- 1/2 cup whole almonds, toasted (see page 142) (70 g)
- 1/2 cup walnut pieces, toasted (see page 142) (60 g)
- 6 tablespoons (3/4 stick) cold unsalted butter, diced (84 g)

- 6 tablespoons granulated sugar (72 g)
- 1 tablespoon brandy or whiskey (15 g)
- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour, sifted (156 g)
- 1/2 teaspoon kosher salt (2 g)
- About 1 cup confectioners' sugar, for rolling, sifted

Directions:

- Preheat the oven to 350°F. Line a baking sheet with a silicone baking mat or parchment paper.
- Put the almonds and walnuts into a food processor and pulse until finely chopped but not powdery.
- Put the butter and granulated sugar into a standing mixer bowl and toss with your fingers until the butter is coated. Attach the bowl and paddle to the mixer and beat the butter and sugar on medium-low speed until a thick paste forms with no visible butter lumps.
- Add the brandy and, with the mixer on low, add the flour and salt, a little at a time, occasionally scraping down the bowl with a rubber spatula; mix just until the dough begins to clump together. Add the nuts and mix on low speed just until combined.

- Roll level tablespoon-sized portions of dough into round balls and place them on the lined baking sheet.
- Bake until light golden brown, 18 to 20 minutes.
- Put the confectioners' sugar in a large bowl. Let the cookies cool on the pan for about 5 minutes and then toss them in confectioners' sugar until coated. Shake off the excess and transfer them to a rack to cool completely before rolling them in the sugar again.
- Store the cookies at room temperature in an airtight container for up to 5 days.

You can meet Johnny Iuzzini at this year's Hawaii Food & Wine Festival!

impressive. He not only worked under Thomas Keller for 10 years, but spent time at Per Se, Alinea, The Fat Duck, and even under the legendary Ferran Adria during El Bulli's final year in Rosas, Spain. His style will embody regional sourcing, molecular gastronomy, and classic French technique, bringing forth a series of spectacular tasting menus unparalleled in Hawaii. Expect a new menu after a brief hiatus as Mizukami gets up to speed in mid-August. 441-1744 or vintagecave.com. • Several new restaurants have opened their doors in Waikiki recently. Briefly stopped by the grand openings of both Buho Cantina and Blue Marlin. Although it's hard to judge from an event like that, I loved the space Buho has to work with. The food I tried at the grand opening was hit and miss and so are most of the reviews thus far. However, I'm extending them their first few weeks of growing pains and hoping they pull everything together because that rooftop space is pretty darn cool. Barely tried anything at Blue Marlin Cafe myself, but have heard pretty decent reviews about their take away HI Tide Poke Cafe. Thought the sushi bar & late night tapas bar showed great potential (and I did actually try the sushi and it was good) and I loved the restaurant itself. They've broken down the walls to make it a light and airy room. Again, I barely tried the food so it's tough to describe it. I thought the chicken was delicious, but the much touted 'paella' was lacking and one-dimensional. In fact, I didn't find it a 'paella' at all. If they had just called it flavored rice, I would have quite liked it. Semantics. Either way, it's well worth another visit. BlueMarlinHawaii.com. • New to Waikiki opening on August 1st is Shore Frye Fresh Grill & Bar at 2446 Koa Avenue, caddy corner from the Hyatt. Open daily from 7 a.m. - 11 p.m., the restaurant will offer gourmet local food from breakfast items such as Banana Mac or Kiwi Pancakes, or Fried Rice Bacon Burger Loco Moco ($12.95) to lunch and dinner items featuring fresh local produce and Angus beef on items like Steak & Garlic Shrimp ($14.95), Garlic Chicken ($9.95) or Acai Beach Bowl ($8.95). Master mixologist Joey Gottesman created the bar drink menu so you know that will be good with plenty of bar snacks to grab as well. Call 923-7007 or shorefyre.com. ~Pam

Dining Dish

Arancino at the Kahala is celebrating its one year anniversary by adding six new dishes to the menu. Already known for the creative and distinct way chef Daisuke Kamamoto plates each dish in addition to the extraordinary flavors, diners now have even more options to choose from including Casarece Ragu di Polpo, an octopus and casarece pasta with spicy garlic tomato sauce or Chef's deconstructed version of the classic Spaghetti alla Carbonara with a poached egg, crispy pancetta and truffle butter. The restaurant is now offering their a la carte menu at dinner including their popular pizzas and is now serving A5 Miyazaki Wagyu Beef, a premium delicacy that is ranked the highest quality of beef in Japan and a very rare find in Hawaii. A new chef's tasting menu featuring five courses is also available for $85 or with wine pairings for $110. 380-4400 or arancino.com. • In other high end restaurant news, Vintage Cave has announced that Maui-born Jonathan Mizukami, formerly of the famed French Laundry, as their new executive chef as of August 2nd, after Chris Kajiooka cooks his final meal there at the end of July. Mizukami's resume is

KA HIMENI 'ANA

Beauty & Unamplified

On Saturday, August 23rd the 30th Annual Ka Himeni 'Ana Music Competition will honor the singing tradition and the man who kept it alive, the late Richard M. Towill.

Unamplified music is nearly a foreign phrase to recent generations. Richard Towill remembered it from his "small-kid" days on Kauai. The neighbors would all pile into an open touring car and ride around the neighborhood singing what they called nahenahe music – no boom box, no microphone, only sweet voices and a guitar or two, serenading the holiday season.

Graduated from Punahou School, MIT and the U.S. Airforce, Towill returned to Hawaii and joined his dad at the R.M. Towill Corporation in Honolulu. They engineered massive projects including Honolulu Airport's Reef Runway. Young Towill always missed the nahenahe music of his youth so thirty years ago he created a contest to bring it back to mainstream. He called it Ka Himeni Ana.

The goal of the contest was to encourage more Hawaiian music. The rules were simple. Two to five singing members in a group, at least half playing unamplified guitars, ukulele or bass. The exception is a small amplifier for a steel guitar. The winners receive a cash award and a gig at the Kana Ka Pila Grille at the Outrigger Reef on the Beach in Waikiki.

The concert is now organized by son Rick Towill, with his wife Crystal and the Hawaiian Music Hall of Fame. Thanks to the young Towill's what will also be amplified is the sense of smell. White ginger blossoms have been the concert's signature flower for thirty years. On the morning of the shot, over 500 stalks of white ginger are harvested from the valley behind the Towill home. The stalks fill containers across the stage and become a farewell gift to audience members after the show.

The list of judges reads like who's who in Hawaiian music, often creating a nervous moment or two for the entrants. Nina Keali'iwahamana, award winning star of Hawaii Calls and the Monarch Room of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, Nola Nahulu, music educator, choral director and winner of the first Ka Himeni contest, and Haunani Apoliona, OHA trustee and performer with Jerry Santos, and Aaron Mahi, musician and a 20+ year veteran bandleader of the Royal Hawaiian Band.

Musician, Na Hoku award winning recording artist, kumu hula and cultural specialist Manu Boyd emcees the show, making it a bit like listening in on a very local conversation. "Just saying...." punctuates every intro, giving the audience an insider look at Hawaii's world of music plus a running commentary on the Aloha attire fashions of the singing groups. He gets the biggest laughs when he asks, "who are you wearing."

Boyd won the contest in 1986. Other winners; Alea with Kale Hannas, 1998; Holunape, 2004; and Waikiki regulars, Doug Tolentino, Jeff AuHoy and the entire Ho'opi'i family.

Ka Himeni 'Ana tickets are $20 and $30, available from Hawaii Theatre box office or hawaiitheatre.com.

Concierge of the Month

NAME: Dado Corpuz

HOTEL: Turtle Bay Resort

TITLE: Concierge

Q. How long have you been at Turtle Bay?

A. I have been at Turtle Bay for 10 years. I am one of the Concierge here at the resort to help make our guests experiences a much more memorable one.

Q. How big is your team there?

A. Our team is 7 strong.

Q. How did you come to work in the hotel industry?

A. I came into the industry when I in between jobs and my mom had mentioned to apply at Turtle Bay.

Q. What do you think makes your property unique?

A. We are the only resort on the Fabled North Shore of Oahu (Surf Capital of the World).

Q. What do you find is the biggest perk of being in this industry?

A. The biggest perk of being in the industry is to know that you made a difference in your guests overall experience and to come to work knowing you are a part of an Ohana.

Q. What has been your biggest challenge at the desk?

A. The biggest challenge we face at our desk is the shortage of staff when we get busy.

Q. What's the one skill that every concierge must have?

A. I think every concierge needs to listen to the guests needs and to share your experiences with them and show them the aloha spirit.

Q. Do you have one particular guest that stands out?

A. I have had several celebrity guests (sorry, no names allowed) that I have met and helped and even invited them for a cookout at my house.

Q. Name the question you never need to hear again?

A. Where can we swim with the turtles?

Q. What's your favorite summer activity to recommend?

A. My favorite summer activity to recommend is a snorkel sail tour on a catamaran where they would go to Shark's Cove and snorkel from the catamaran.

Q. If a guest only had one day on the Island what would you recommend they do?

A. I would recommend going to Pearl Harbor and visiting the Arizona Memorial and the battle ship Missouri.

Q. What is your favorite off-property restaurant to send guests to?

A. I usually send guests to Haleiwa Joe's or Luibeunos in Haleiwa.

Q. Where are you from originally?

A. I am originally from Haleiwa here on the North Shore.

Q. Where do you see yourself in 5 years?

A. I see myself as a concierge in 5 years either working here in Hawaii or abroad.

Q. What do you like to do when you're not working?

A. I love hanging out with my friends and family and cooking/grilling.

Q. Any other stories you'd like to share?

A. Just recently, I took a guest from Louisiana to Highway Inn located in Waipahu as this guest wanted to experience what true Hawaiian food was. He absolutely loved it and wants to go again before leaving.
