ANNUAL

On any given year, 🔊 you can expect a shopping frenzy at Made the in Hawaii Festival, but in 2024. Hawaiian Airlines presents the 30th anniversary of the shopper's delight, and this year promises to be bigger and better than ever.

HAWAPT FOOD INDUSTRY Yeah, yeah, yeah, you've heard that before, right? Well, they aren't exaggerating. When the festival left the Blaisdell Arena, it struggled to find its groove, but last year, the festival came into its own when it found a new home at the Hawaii Convention Center. Fortynine thousand people flocked to the Convention Center to explore over 450 booths. It was the biggest festival they have had to date.... until now. This year's massive 30th-anniversary celebration of Hawaii's largest shopping bonanza will dwarf their previous shows with an astronomical number of vendors showcasing their wares. Over 700 vendors have signed up to participate. This will be the Lollapalooza of Made in Hawaii products. We are talking about the state's most talented local artisans. makers, and entrepreneurs.

There is no way to list all 700 vendors, but they will be offering absolutley everything. A few of the participants include tasty treats by Dipped by Dee, an O'ahu sweet treat shop specializing in chocolate strawberries, caramel apples, cookies, and more. Hawaiian Hot T's Hot Sauce is a veteran-owned company known for its small-batch sauces made from local ingredients with adorable names such as Sop Brah, BBG Bruddah, and Maui Owie! Kakou Collective will offer its Hawaii stationery, eco-friendly Hawaii-themed washi tape, weatherproof stickers, and locally inspired home goods where they weave Hawaii's story and love local culture into everything they create. Designed by Dari will showcase its handmade Polymer Clay Jewelry & Accessories while Napua'ala Body Care Products will showcase its line of cosmetic body care products and handcrafted all carefully sourced and soaps, made by hand. Lexbreezy Hawai'i is a custom cut and sew clothing brand that comprises one-of-a-kind signature styles in a modern twist of Aloha and resort wear. Honolulu Baby Company will be in hand with its organic baby clothes made in Hawaii by a mother of 2 who makes fun and unique children's clothing and accessories.

New this year, the festival will feature a specialty Hawaiian Miles Marketplace, an array of new vendors, and dozens of local vendors launching brand new products exclusive to the Made in Hawaii Festival, as Hawaiian Airlines has signed on to be the presenting sponsor. There will also be fashions shows highlighting the latest designs from local designers, and most of the items paraded on the catwalk will be available for sale.

It's not just about the shopping, however. The Made in Hawaii Festival is also known for its award-winning musical performances, giving shoppers an opportunity to sit down and relax in between buying sprees to enjoy music from Nā Hōkū Hanohano winners such as Taimane, Jerry Santos, Kawika Kahiapo, Melveen Leed, and Sean Na'auao, to name a few.

Hawaii's favorite comedian, Frank DeLima, will also be stopping by for what is sure to be a hilarious set. Didn't nosh enough of the samples at each of the booths? Multiple local celebrity chefs Continued on page 7.

Get ready for some wild & wacky action on the waves as Ďuke's Oceanfest hits Waikiki August 17-25

Waikiki's premier ocean sports festival, Duke's Oceanfest, is a unique summer event that pays tribute to Hawaii's legendary waterman, Duke Kahanamoku. As one of the greatest watermen in history and a renowned figure in Hawaii, Duke's Oceanfest celebrates his life, athletic prowess, and enduring spirit that lives on through the water and beach sports he loved.

Duke was one of the best athletes to ever come out of Hawaii. Born August 24, 1890, he learned how to swim in the waters at the far end of Waikiki, where the Hilton Hawaiian Village now stands, and became one of the best swimmers in the world. While he is recognized as the "Father of Surfing," he also won six Olympic medals in swimming between 1912 and 1932, including three golds. In these roles, Duke traveled the globe, bringing with him his extraordinary athletic skills and an overall presence that inspired and amazed while inviting others to experience the aloha of Hawaii. Duke is fondly remembered today as the greatest waterman who ever lived and Continued on page 4.

Summer Celebrations Continue

Summer marches on, and there is plenty of fun in the sun to fill the rest of our summer days. This month is for shoppers and water enthusiasts. The Made in Hawaii Festival is celebrating its 30th anniversary this month, bringing nearly double the number of vendors they've had before. Over 700 merchants will be participating in this year's festival held at the Convention Center, and with those numbers, you know there has to be something for everybody. We are talking about the best of the best - all made here on the island. Forget that our visitors won't know what hit them with all those goodies to choose from, but they will also have to fight off us locals for a chance to buy them. Fortunately there should be enough for everyone. It's an excellent opportunity for our local small businesses and artisans.

This month also brings Duke's Oceanfest back to Waikiki's shores. Keep your eyes trained in the surf near Queen's Beach from August 17 - 25th; you'll never know what you'll see. Either an adorable grom catching one of their first waves or a true surfing legend hanging ten off Waikiki. There will alos be plenty of acrobatics, as the best tandem surfers in the world will show off their stuff, so expect plenty of action as the teams practice, and, of course, there is the annual comPETition. You know there will be dogs with their toes on the nose, but in the past, there have been ducks, pigs, and cats... who knows what kind of animal will show up this year? One thing you won't see is the Red Bull Party Wave competition this year. For whatever reason, that won't be happening this year, but there will still be plenty to keep your guests entertained as they work on their tan and take in a show at the same time!

Don't forget Sunset on the Beach. What's more Hawaii than kicking back on the beach with your toes in the sand to watch a movie on a 30-foot screen? See Wonka this month on August 10 as the summer fun continues.

There's plenty of music this month as well. Slack-key tributes to Gabby continue.

Hey, did you realize that this year marks 25 years that I've been putting out The Oahu Concierge? Holy cow that's a long time, but we'll talk more about that later. Happy August!

SHARING HIS LOVE OF SLACK KEY

Milton Lau has been promoting and producing the annual Hawaiian Slack Key Guitar Festival for over 40 years. In 1982, he organized a slack key concert to pay homage to his pal Gabby Pahinui at Waimanalo Beach Park.

Although he only planned to put on that one festival, it took on a life of its own, and 42 years later, the festival is going strong.

Over the decades, the festival has been staged at several locations, including the McCoy Pavilion at Ala Moana Park, Bishop Museum, Waterfront Park, Royal Hawaii Hotel, Kapiolani Park, Turtle Bay Resort, Kailua Town, Windward Mall, and this year, the festival will be held at the Waikiki Aquarium. The event is a benefit for the Waikiki Aquarium, but at the heart of every festival is the core of the mission - to promote, preserve, and perpetuate slack key guitar – or, as it is called in Hawaiian – ki-ho'alu.

At around 80 years old, Milton Lau has devoted more than half of his life to this festival. We asked him why he does this year after year. "In our eyes ki-ho'alu is a cultural treasure of Hawaii like the hula," says Milton, "It is in our best interest to keep this art form alive and thriving. For us, it is rewarding to attend festivals and see the smiles and happiness in the eyes of the audience. This alone validates what we are doing. It's become a labor of love for us all." He continued, "We've actually embarked on an ambitious program to expand the festival to cities in Washington State, Oregon, California, Nevada, Colorado, and elsewhere," he continues. "We've also traveled to the East Coast to do the festival in New York,

New Jersey, Maryland, Washington D.C. Of course, we've [taken the festival] to Japan. We've also done programs with the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C. In the future, we believe that the art form we represent will continue to grow all over the world. And now, with social media and new technologies, we have tools to help us grow worldwide without leaving Hawaii at all."

When asked about his unwavering commitment to the festival, Milton's response is simple yet profound. "This is a lifetime job, and the fuel that keeps us going is the love and passion for the art form and the joy it brings to people's lives. Seeing the smiles and happiness in the eyes of the audience is the ultimate validation of our efforts, making it a labor of love for us all."

The art form of ki-ho'alu sets us apart and makes us (Hawaii) special in the eyes of visitors around the world. Through workshops, concerts, and festivals, slackkey has grown worldwide. Lucky for us, we don't have to go anywhere to hear the melodic tunes of these fantastic musicians when they take the stage. Tickets are $10 for kama'aina and $20 for our visitors, and all proceeds will go to the Aquarium. Come celebrate the slackkey guitar – Waikiki Style on August 31st from 5 - 9 p.m. For more information, head to facebook.com/slackkeyfestivals.

MAKALAUNA 2024 RETURNS TO WAIKIKI BEACH WALK

Don't miss this annual powerful tribute to late-great slack key virtuoso, Gabby Pahinui, at Waikiki Beach Walk on August 17. Join Gabby's grandson, Kunia Galderia at 4:30 p.m. as he presides over a powerful lei draping ceremony at Gabby's statue with other members of the Pahinui family, followed by live musical tributes from some of the islands best musicians until 8 p.m. For more details head to waikikibeachwalk.com.

NEW SHOW "NĀ LEI ALOHA" LAUNCHES AT THE HYATT

The long-awaited evening show from the Kilohana Hula Show and the Council for Native Hawaiian Advancement opened in late July at the Hyatt Regency Waikiki. Its new production, "Nā Lei Aloha," is a spectacular presentation of the rich cultural history of the art of lei told through music and hula in a way it's never been seen before. Nothing says " I love you" in Hawaii like a lei. Guests may choose a show-only or dinner package to "Celebrate Hawai'i's Unique Expression of Love" Sunday through Thursday evenings. Dinner packages include buffet dinner at The Buffet At Hyatt, and a complimentary beverage. To purchase tickets or find out more details, including times and prices, go to naleialoha.com

DOLE PLANTATION ENHANCES ITS GARDEN TOUR

Dole Plantation has upgraded its twoacre Plantation Garden by adding a new Native Species & Medicinal Garden where visitors can learn about Hawai'i's natural & cultural history. The new garden includes a wide variety of native plants with healing properties such as flower trees like red 'ōhi'a lehua, which were used to relieve the pain of childbirth, and canoe plants such as the red and green sugarcane, whose internal fibers from the stalk were used to clean teeth and gums. DRIP HAWAII

Drip Hawaii, a licensed medical spa at the 'Alohilani Resort, providing advanced anti-aging and wellness services tailored to each client's specific needs, has been a hit with visitors seeking those extra vitamins they need while traveling. They also offer micronutrient therapy, body sculpting, intimate health enhancement, and aesthetic services such as Botox, fillers, and more. driphawaii.com.

WAIKIKI'S ALOHA AMBASSADORS ARE NOW 24/7

Exciting news: The Waikiki Business Improvement District received a onetime grant of $250,000 that they are using to provide around-the-clock service from its Aloha Ambassador Program for up to a year. The ambassadors provide a wide array of services, including hospitality, safety, custodial tasks, and landscaping. As of last month, three Ambassadors are now working overnight shifts, specifically patrolling around Kuhio Beach Park.

was the first person ever inducted into the International Swimming Hall of Fame and the International Surfing Hall of Fame.

Duke's Oceanfest is held each summer in late August and celebrates Duke through his favorite sports. Throughout the week, multiple events will be held every day for visitors to watch and enjoy as they wander through Waikiki.

The festivities kick off on Friday, August 16, at the iconic statue of Duke Kahanamoku located alongside Kalakaua Avenue. With his arms outstretched in greeting to welcome all who pass by, local dignitaries will drape the statue in lei during a traditional opening ceremony to kick off the festivities. Competitors and visitors will come together to witness this vibrant opening ceremony filled with traditional Hawaiian music and hula dancers, showcasing the islands' rich cultural heritage. The ceremony will set the stage for the week ahead, capturing the essence of Hawaiian culture and fostering a sense of camaraderie among all in attendance.

The following day starts with a special event honoring our nation's wounded warriors. The Na Koa Wounded Warrior Canoe Regatta occurs on Fort DeRussy Beach. I had the honor of steering a few of these races in years past, and it's truly inspirational to see these warriors give it their all during this canoe regatta - and it was really fun, too. The more people they can get on the beach to cheer them on. the better!

Most events run for a few days right on Queen's Beach. The Outrigger Resorts & Hotels Volleyball Challenge will set up camp at the beach courts, and there will be action on the waves almost every day. All of the events are spectatorfriendly.

Aside from your typical surfing events featuring kids to pros, there are a few to watch for. Don't miss the Hawaii Tandem Surfing Challenge on August 19 and 20th, as beach-goers can see the moves from some of the most progressive and acrobatic tandem surfers from around the world. But some of the most entertainers surfurs will be strutting their stuff Tuesday morning as the comPETition goes to the dogs. The event started with four dogs and a pig back in 2015. Since then, the contest has seen all sizes of dogs, from chihuahuas to Mastiffs to ducks and even cats. You'll never know what kind of animal might pop up on a wave, so keep your eyes on the water.

There's plenty more to see and do throughout the week. Waikiki will be bustling with activity from August 16-25, as this beloved community and cultural event brings some of the more exciting events. Visitors can have a front-row seat, lie on the beach, and watch all the excitement unfold right in front of them on the ocean while getting a tan. Talk about multi-tasking!

Made in Hawaii

Over 700 vendors will be bringing their wares to the Hawaii Convention Center for customers to browse through at the biggest Made In Hawaii Festival ever like Keaka Lee from Kapa Hale, Paul Rivera from Hula Grill, and Foodland's Keoni Chang will be stopping by to offer cooking demonstrations that you get to try. For the most part, each day will include three 30-minute chef demos, followed by three live performances and a fashion show.

Outrigger Resorts & Hotels also continues its support of Hawai'i musicians through its annual Kani Ka Pila Grille Talent Search. The four finalists will be announced at the end of July and be invited to perform live at the Made in Hawai'i Festival on Saturday, August 24, from 3-6 p.m. in front of a panel of renowned Hawaiian music industry professionals. The winner will receive a month-long contract at Kani Ka Pila Grille amongst other prizes. In the past 17 years Outrigger has hosted the contest. Over the past 16 years, the talent search the winners have taken home 14 Nā Hōkū Hanohano awards. Don't miss your chance to see the next big thing in Hawaiian music make their big breakthrough!

That's not all; the Made in Hawaii Festival Beer Garden that appeared last year was so popular that it is making its return available to guests ages 21 and older. The beer garden will be the perfect spot for the latest from Hawai'i's local breweries, and after a few tasty beverages, you might head back to the booths and buy that item you just needed to think about.

Hawaiian Airlines 30th Annual Made in Hawai'i Festival returns to the Hawaii Convention Center August 23-25, filling Exhibit Halls I, II, and III. The Festival opens Friday, August 23, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and continues Saturday, August 24, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Sunday, August 25, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information and a complete schedule of chefs and performers, head to madeinhawaiifestival.com.

I don't know what's happening, but suddenly, it seems all-you-can-eat (AYCE) is becoming a thing. I'm used to breakfast and dinner buffets, but now it's hot pot, BBQ, and sushi! Not only did Mikiya and 'I'O just open, but Bluefish

DINING , ENTERTAINMENT

Waikiki just added an AYCE menu option for lunch and dinner with three different price tiers - and theirs comes with a 2hour time limit instead of 90 minutes. That's crazy. When we went to Mikiya, we were full within an hour. I am happy to say they also include a $10 fee for any leftover food. Eating to your heart's content is one thing, but sheer waste is a shame. For those in your group with big appetites, see the different price tiers and what's included on their website, thebluefishsushi.com. • Kapa Hale has launched its first happy hour. On weekdays from 5 - 6 p.m., find six of the restaurant's favorites on the happy hour, specialty cocktails, and $2 off select beer and wine. 888-2060. • Looking for a lovely poolside lunch option? Quiora has launched a new $45 daily lunch set featuring your choice of beverage, entrée (select from 4), and side from 11:30 - 3:30 p.m. 729-9757. • Restaurant Suntory has also launched a new hot pot lunch set for the summer. Choose from shabu-shabu, seafood, or sukiyaki hot pot for $26 through August. They also offer the "komachi Bento" (a classic collection of iconic Japanese favorites) along with donburi set meals ranging from $28 - $38. 922-5511. • We all know Chinatown took a big hit recently during the power outages in late June, so supporting our small businesses down there is more important than ever. My pal Melissa Chang took me to check out Tlaxcalli on Smith Street. Wow, what a find! Did you know these guys have been here since 2001? I didn't, and I'm sorry I missed them for so long - this menu was great! Chef-owner Julio Gutierrez Santacruz hails from Sinaloa, and his menu features items only found in his hometown of Culiacán. His Scallops and Shrimp Culichi are delicious! Smothered in a creamy culichi sauce and cheese au gratin, it's as authentic as it comes. (if you want a good chuckle — look up that word!) The Duck Mole is also fabulous, and, usually, I'm not too fond of mole, but this one was great. We tried the duck taquitos, turkey tostadas, and scallop aguachile - all surefire winners. Sadly, I left before dessert because the churro bread pudding looked out of this world! Support Chinatown and treat yourself to delicious Mexican food Tuesday to Sunday, a tough find in Hawaii! @tlaxcalli_hawaii.

Chef's Corner

Chef, TV Personality Nyesha Arrington

Did you know long before Nyesha Arrington started her TV career on Top Chef or became a mentor on FOX's Next Level Chef, she worked in a taco shop on Front Street? Cooking has been a way of life for this chef since she was young. She says cooking is more than just a profession for her; it's a way of connecting with people and celebrating different cultures through food. She's passionate about promoting sustainability and using her platform to inspire others to explore and appreciate diverse culinary traditions. Meet her at this year's Hawaii Food & Wine Festival.

Tell us about your first childhood food memory. Helping my grandmother make her famous spicy pot roast. The rich, comforting aroma of the simmering beef and vegetables filled our home and left a lasting impression on me.

When did you decide to be a chef?

I decided I wanted to be a chef in high school when I took a culinary arts class. The experience of creating dishes from scratch and the joy it brought to others sparked my passion for cooking.

What was your first job in the industry?

I was as a line cook at a local Los Angeles restaurant called Jiraffe. It was a challenging but invaluable experience that provided me with a strong foundation in professional cooking.

How did you develop your view on food?

Growing up in an Afro-Korean household, I was exposed to a diverse range of flavors and culinary traditions. This multicultural background taught me to appreciate and blend different ingredients and techniques, creating unique and vibrant dishes that reflect my heritage.

How did working for some of the best chefs in the nation make you the chef you are?

They taught me the importance of discipline, creativity, and a relentless pursuit of excellence. These experiences shaped my culinary philosophy and inspired me to constantly push the boundaries of my craft.

Who would you consider your mentor?

My mentor is Josiah Citrin, a Michelin-starred chef who has greatly influenced my career. His dedication to precision and innovation in the kitchen has inspired me to refine my skills and approach each dish with a creative mindset.

Describe your style of cooking?

My style of cooking is modern, eclectic, and deeply rooted in my multicultural background. I love to experiment with bold flavors, fresh ingredients, and diverse cooking techniques to create dishes that tell a story.

Pineapple Chutney Recipe

Ingredients: Pineapple, med. dice (divide in two) 2 cups golden raisins 3 ½ cups water 1 cup sherry vinegar

Is it true you used to work in Maui?

True. I worked for a year at a Hawaiian-style taco shop on Front Street. A colleague who thought the opportunity would be a great fit for my skills and interests. It was an amazing experience that allowed me to explore island cuisine.

How did you end up on Top Chef?

I was encouraged by colleagues and friends to apply, but Top Chef reached but to me while I was in Maui. The opportunity to showcase my skills on a national platform and challenge myself in a competitive environment was something I couldn't pass up.

How did that experience help your career?

Being on Top Chef opened many doors for me, giving me exposure and credibility in the culinary world. It helped me build a network of industry professionals and provided me with opportunities to further my career.

What's your favorite part of being a mentor on Next Level Chef?

Guiding and inspiring the next generation of chefs. It's incredibly rewarding to share my knowledge and help aspiring chefs develop their own unique culinary voices.

What do you have planned for HFWF?

I'm planning to showcase a menu that highlights the fusion of Afro-Korean flavors, using locally sourced ingredients. I'm excited to share my culinary vision with festival attendees.

What's on your must-do list while here ?

I plan to explore the local farmers' markets, visit some of my favorite eateries, and spend time at the beach enjoying the beautiful Hawaiian scenery and culture.

What's next for you?

I'm working on opening a new restaurant at LAX that will feature a menu inspired by my multicultural background. I'm also looking forward to expanding my role as a mentor and continuing to innovate in the culinary world.

- - 1 ¼ cup brown sugar 1 vanilla bean split, seeds scraped
 - 3 sprig of thyme
 - 1 cinnamon stick
 - 3 star anise

Directions - makes approx. 2 guarts

In a large saucepan, mix together all ingredients except for half of the diced pineapple. Bring to a simmer over medium heat. Once it reaches a simmer, reduce heat to low and cook gently for 25 minutes. Stir occasionally to ensure even cooking and dissolve sugar. After 25 min., stir in remaining half of the diced pineapple, and continue to cook for another 20 min. stirring occasionally. It should thicken slightly as the pineapple breaks down and flavors meld. After 20 min. check consistency. It should be thick but still a bit chunky. If it's too thin, cook it a bit longer, but be careful not to overcook to where it loses its texture. Once it reaches the desired consistency, remove the vanilla bean, thyme sprigs, cinnamon stick, and star anise. Cool to room temperature and transfer to jars or airtight containers. Store in refrigerator for up to a month.

You can meet Nyesha Arrington at this year's Hawaii Food & Wine Festival She will be at Behind the Cellar Door at the Convention Center on November 8th. For tickets go to HFWF.me Web: nyeshaarrington.com • Instagram/TikTok: @NyeshaJoyce • Facebook: /ChefNyeshaArrington

The Korean Festival returns for its 20th annual celebration of everything Korean! Every year, the event presents authentic Korean culture through food, dance, art, music, and entertainment. The purpose of the Korean Festival is to share, promote, and raise awareness of Korean culture in the community. Put together by the Hawaii Korean Chamber of Commerce, the event is supported by dozens of community organizations and businesses, as well as hundreds of volunteers.

Proceeds from the Festival are not just for the event, but they are used to fund service projects and ventures that benefit the Korean and larger community in Hawaii. This includes an annual scholarship fund for outstanding, civicminded students entering or currently enrolled in college. Your participation in the Festival directly contributes to these initiatives, making you an integral part of our community.

The Korean Festival presents a unique, authentic taste of Korean culture through food, dance, art, music, and more. This year, it kicks off on Friday, August 2, from 6 - 9 p.m. with a special presentation of the 2023 film The Night of the Assassin. Starring Shin Hyun-Joon, the actor will be on hand for a meet-andgreet at Ward Theatre.

On Saturday, August 3, head to Kaka'ako Mauke Gateway Park from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for the Festival itself. Wander through a variety of craft booths and cultural displays. There will be plenty of food booths with traditional dishes like bibimbap, kalbi, and kimchee fried rice. For those of you who dare, there will be a Kim Chee Eating Contest. There will be special performances from Korea, and since it's K-Pop Dance Night, after the Song Contest, there will be a special performance at 5 p.m. from brand new South Korean K-Pop girl group, Spia, whose first single was released last April.

For more details and a schedule of events, head to koreanfesthawaii.com.

Margotto Hawaii is pleased to announce Chef Shiori Okuya from their Japan location will be taking over as Executive Chef in August and presenting new menu items at that time. To show its appreciation to those that refer it most often and to allow concierge them to experience the flavors and service for themselves that their guests will have when dining at Margotto, it was a delicious evening. Want to go next year? Hint: The guest list is based upon who sends them the most reservations. Open daily from 5-10:30 p.m. 592-8500. margotto-hawaii.com.

S55-ALOHA held a huge reception to introduce the community to their new restaurant, offering their playful take on a classic Japanese izakaya. The team, led by general manager Matteo Giacomazzi and Chef No, spent time meeting their industry colleagues and showing everyone what makes their restaurant so special. Located on the ground floor of the new Romer House at 415 Nahua Street, it is open for dinner starting at 5pm daily. The Bar opens at 4pm and offers happy hour from 9-11pm daily. izakaya855aloha.com
