Buy Local. We've all heard it before. Hawaii supports it's own, and is proud to call things their own. But you better make sure you tick all the boxes if you're going to say something is made in Hawaii. Just ask Kona Brewing Co, who is expected to pay around $4.7 million in partial refunds for 'deceiving' customers that all their beers were made in Hawaii. Kona Brewing does in fact produce 12,000 barrels in Kona, but its bottled and canned beers, as well as its mainland draft, is brewed at breweries across the mainland US. To be perfectly fair, Kona Brewing actually does state that in several places, but, you know how litigious a society we seem to be these days, so once some guy decided to file suit, and a federal class-action suit was certified, Kona Brewing decided to enter mediation and reached an agreement in principle without admitting fault. Really, why drag it on?

That may be a rather extreme example, but it highlights something the State of Hawaii take pretty darn seriously. Protecting products that are actually made in Hawaii. Years ago, they created the 'Made in Hawaii with Aloha' (MIHA) branding program. The program was established to protect the integrity and value of authentic Hawaii branded products. It helps identify those products that are actually made in Hawaii, from those products that really aren't. Consumers can trust any product that has the MIHA label on it is from the Islands, and that is a great thing. Let's face it – products made in Hawaii are special. They should be cherished, sought and celebrated. Fortunately, for you and your guests, the Made in Hawaii Festival has been celebrating their love for everything local for a quarter of a century – and you and all your friends are invited!

The Hawaii Food Industry Association (HFIA) produces the festival to support these locally produced items, so when you see the special "Made in Hawaii" label on your item, you know you can trust it. In order for a product to receive that label it must (by state law) be at least fifty-one percent produced in the state of Hawaii, which ensures that everything you find at this festival, is authentically local. Even more importantly,

Duke Kahanamoku, arguably one of the greatest watermen who ever lived, would have been 129 on August 24th if he still lived today. To celebrate Duke's life, his athletic contributions and his spirit that continues to live on, the 18th annual Duke's OceanFest will be held the week of his birthday at venue sites throughout Waikiki from August 17-25, featuring a variety of ocean sports that were close to Duke's heart, including surfing, paddleboard racing, swimming, volleyball, and more.

By now you all should really have Duke's history committed to memory. He is after all one of Hawaii's most revered residents of all time, and literally help put Hawaii on the map. At the age of 21 he broke 3 freestyle world records in his first swimming races, followed by his first Olympic gold medal (with yet another world record), then went on to represent the United States in the Olympics for 20 years, winning not only medals, but, the hearts of people all over the world.

Duke was a star athlete, earning a total of 6 Olympic medals, 3 gold, 2 silver, and a bronze in water polo (he was an alternate on the 1932 team). If that wasn't enough, his honors go on and on. He is the single-most influential Whew... it's been a busy few weeks for FAMS. Apologies for overloading you, but since my 1st quarter schedule was so overloaded, I had to push off 99% of the concierge events I had agreed too. Many mahalos for those of you that took the time to come out and support. These events cannot happen without you! My rule of thumb is no more than 3 a month and I try to put in at least 10 days in between each event whenever possible, since I know you all have such busy lives yourself. But given this, that, and the other thing, it just didn't work out that way recently, so thank you.

That being said, we do have some newbies to these events these days and I need to remind you of a few rules. First off and most importantly, please communicate with me. There are simply more of you than available seats, so the sooner you take or release your seats, the sooner I can reach out to other properties to pass along unclaimed seats or let those waiting for more seats know if they can have them or not. If your property doesn't get invited to certain events, it's nothing personal. It's simply a numbers issue. If you're not getting invites at all - let me know. I'm not perfect and there a lot more of you than there are of me, I'm sure I'm missing properties out there. Remind me you're out there! Secondly, if you do reserve a seat, please show up! Life happens, I get it. I never need a reason as to why you aren't going to make it - I just need to know. Please let me know as soon as your schedule changes so I can pass along your seat and let the host know of the head count. If you're stuck at work, just shoot me an email that night. If you have a hangnail and don't feel like coming, please make that decision early enough in the day for me to pass your seat along. No shows (those that do not communicate at all) are not invited to the next event, and then everything reverts to normal. Also, please always remember to tip your servers. Take care of them!

Lastly, please do not extend the invitation to anyone in another department. Every host has shared with me what properties and departments they want to reach. Some are firmer than others. I've gotten in hot water this past year by people bringing co-workers in departments the host wasn't looking to, well, host! Any questions, just ask. I am always willing to check and see if it's ok, and often it is, but it's simply common courtesy to the company hosting you to check first. And for god sakes, do not bring a plus one. Sadly, we don't have room for guests given how many of you guys there are. We try to fit in as many of you as possible each time.

Veronica Oldham from The International Market Place has recently been promoted from Customer Service Manager to the Director of Customer Experience. Many of you remember her from her time as Chef Concierge at The Modern Honolulu. Congrats! • We would like to wish Doug Okada well. After 41 years with Aston hotels, he retired last month. Personally I am going to miss asking him how many days he had left before retirement. He had his smart watch set to a countdown forages. I think the first time I asked, he had over 500 days left. What a great idea! Happy to say a very familiar face is stepping into his most recent role as general manager of the Aston Waikiki Sunset Hotel. We'd like to give a warm welcome to Dean Nakasone, who has taken over the GM position at the hotel. • Speaking of Aqua-Aston Hotels, the renovation of the old Aston Waikiki Beachside is nearing completion, Brent Kitsu has been named General Manager. The hotel, has been named ESPACIO The Jewel of Waikiki, and will be absolutely nothing like the hotel you remember. The $50-million luxury renovation includes metalwork from Morocco, marble from Italy, high end personalized Japanese service. Each of the nine floors of the hotel will be its own suite. You read that right. Nine floors, and only nine suites. Each suite offers two or three separate bedrooms and their own butler. Opens next month.

this also means that purchases at the Festival are supporting our islands' businesses and workers, allowing small companies to continue to be the foundation of commerce in the Hawaiian Islands.

On August 16 - 19, the 25th annual Made in Hawaii Festival returns to the Blaisdell Exhibition Hall. The festival began in 1995 with only 61 booths. Since then, the festival has grown into one of Hawaii's signature events, featuring over 450 booths that contain a diverse array of locally made products.

Festival-goers will find everything from food products to gifts, hand-crafted items to clothing, hand-made jewelry to home accessories, personal care products, artwork, fresh produce and more... all made, drawn, produced, grown, crafted and picked from across the state. There will be some tried and true vendors that have been there for years such as Kanemitsu Bakery, Anahola Granola and Auntie Lilikoi Products, but this year, there are nearly 4 dozen new vendors coming to the Festival including Kunoa Cattle Company, Upcycle Hawaii, Hilo Hemp and Aloha Aina Poi Company to name a few. Fans of Uncle Louie Sausage Co. Portuguese sausage will be happy to know they are coming back to the festival after a brief absence. A couple of well-known local designers such as fashion designer and Project Runway alum Ari South and jewelry designer Leighton Lam are new to the festival this year as well.

Festival attendees can look forward to stage shows throughout most of each day, with cooking demonstrations in the Blaisdell Arena and live Hawaiian music in the Pikake Room alternating on the hour. Produced by the Hawaii Food Industry Association and sponsored by First Hawaiian Bank the festival is proud to be presenting Na Hoku Hanohano Award winning artists such as Bobby Medeiros, Danny Couch, Jay Larrin, Jerry Santos, Melveen Leed, Kupaoa and Frank Delima. Don't forget, the Made in Hawaii Festival will also be the venue for the finalists of the annual Kani Ka Pila Grille Talent Search on Saturday from 3 - 8 p.m. The winning artist or group will receive a one-month paid contract to perform at Kani Ka Pila Grille in September, and are sure to pop up at venues around town going forward.

Make sure you bring your appetites. Most every food-related booth will be offering samples. I've found some of my favorite foods at this festival over the years. In addition to that, some of Hawaii's favorite chefs such as Sam Choy, Ronnie Nasuti from Tiki's, Anthony Smiley from Koko Head Grill and Jason Ichiki from Roy's to name a few will be heating up the Arena stage with special cooking demonstrations, using local ingredients of course, and offer plenty of samples.

Over 60,000 people attended last year's festival throughout the 3-day weekend. This year should be no different. The festival runs Friday & Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets cost $7, while kids six and under get in free. As before, look for $1 off coupons at First Hawaiian Bank branches starting in mid-August. For more information and an up to date list of vendors, chefs and musicians and the times they will be on stage, please head to their website at madeinhawaiifestival.com. ~ Pam

30 YEARS OF UNDERSEA EXPLORATION

Not sure how we missed it, but we wanted to send belated anniversary wishes to Atlantis Adventures, who recently celebrated their 30th anniversary in June. 30 years of their popular, environmentally friendly undersea tours off of Waikiki. Just amazing. Mahalo for what you do!

SEABINS COME TO HAWAII

Living in Hawaii we are all too aware of the dangerous levels of plastics and rubbish in our waters. The Great Pacific Garbage patch continues to grow daily. An Australian surfer decided he wanted to try do something about it and created Seabins, basically a recycling bucket for the sea, that has captured over 126 tons of debris with only 719 Seabins around the world. Seabins was just introduced on Oahu, and the first two will be installed soon. This is just one part of the solution, but every plastic piece and bottle counts. seabinproject.com.

MORE ELECTRIC BUSES HIT THE ROAD

E Noa Corporation recently unveiled two new open air electric buses that will join its existing fleet of 40 buses and 80 trolleys. The two 35-foot buses can accommodate 47 passengers and travel up to 150 miles per charge. Available exclusively for ANA Mileage Club members, the buses feature ANA's flying honu design that complement their new Airbus A380 that began service to Hawaii in May, and provide daily shuttle service between Ala Moana Center and the DFS Galleria in Waikiki every 15 minutes from 9 a.m. – 10 p.m. enoa.com.

arts with aloha

This August I have a lot planned on my arts and cultural calendar, so I hope you and your guests are in the mood for a revamped opera, indigo-blue fun, and some Lego-licious madness.

First up, Phantom is Coming. That's right, The Phantom of the Opera is coming back to the BLAISDELL CONCERT HALL. I am so excited that the famous chandelier is going to be falling onto unsuspecting audience members from August 7th through September 1st in Cameron's Mackintosh's newly reinvented musical production which is based on the classic novel Le Fantôme de L'Opéra by Gaston Leroux. For those of you unfamiliar with the show, the musical tells the story of a masked figure, aka the Phantom, who haunts the Paris Opera House living in the catacombs beneath the city. He causes havoc with every theatrical production until he falls in love with an ingenue soprano named Christine. He kidnaps her and devotes his life to train her to become the greatest of opera singers. There of course is a love triangle, Christine has a love interest named Raoul, who is a patron of the theatre. Please don't let the word "opera" scare off your guests from Iowa, it's a spectacular production that will sweep any non-theatre goer off his or her feet.

I went to the opening night of the original touring production of Phantom that came to the Blaisdell over 20 years ago. I sat in the front row and was enthralled by the magic of the music and staging, even more than the Broadway production, which has been running at the Majestic Theatre in NYC for the past 30 years. I recall that everyone was dressed up as if attending a real opera ball that night and at intermission, as I walked to the exit, I watched all these lovely women dressed in long evening dresses glide graciously to the doorways only to hike up their skirts once they made it to the hallway sprinting all the way down to the ladies room in their stilettos. For you theatre geeks out there, you know that moment in The King and I when all the king's wives get spooked when they see an English man with whiskers while wearing European dresses for the first time and pull up their skirts running a way in terror without any petty coats underneath? It was hysterical.

This blockbuster production is part of a three-show series presented by Broadway in Hawaii beginning in the fall of 2019 that also includes The Illusionists - Live From Broadway and RENT - The 20th Anniversary Tour. For more information on this production or to order tickets visit BroadwayinHawaii.com.

After I get my Phantom fix, I'm heading over to the HONOLULU MUSEUM OF ART to check out this new exhibit called Something Borrowed, Something Blue: Monochromatic Prints in 20th-Century Japan. I know the title

Starlit Night, Miyajima
by Kawase Hasui 1828

doesn't sound sexy, but the prints are just stunning. Blue wasn't the easiest color to come by before the 19th century in Japan. Artists used organic pigment like indigo and dayflower to produce blue. Then in the 1820s Prussian Blue or Ferric Ferrocyanide, as it is known in scientific circles such as the characters in The Big Bang Theory, was introduced to Japan. So, with this new more resilient, synthetic blue, Japanese artists went crazy and created such mesmerizing works as The Great Wave off Kanagawa by Katsushika Hokusai and Starlit Night, Miyajima by Kawase Hasui pictured above, which is my favorite in the collection. The exhibit runs through September 15th. Don't forget the museum is open Tuesdays through Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Visit honolulumuseum.org for more info.

I love the color blue and it's also my favorite color of LEGO®. Most of my friend's kids love creating stuff out of their LEGO® blocks, but they never seem to have enough to finish off the roof of the house or the back of the truck. Well, that is not the case at TRAVELLING BRICKS: An Exhibition Made of LEGO® Bricks at BISHOP MUSEUM. There are almost one million blocks in this exhibition featuring 120 models in 60 different scenarios and landscapes. There's a 22-foot-long Titanic, a 10-foot-long Zeppelin, and several spaceships in outer space. You will also find replicas of Aloha Tower and Hōkūle'a. These structures are so amazing and sturdy, the City & County of Honolulu should hire these LEGO® builders to take over HART. You can't touch the models, but you can play with over 300,000 bricks afterwards in a special area. I know your guests will use their kids as an excuse to visit, but I'm pretty sure it will be the adults fighting over the blue LEGO® bricks in the LEGO® mosh pit. There will be an additional fee of $4.95 to the regular museum admission price for this special exhibit. The museum is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Who doesn't love LEGO's® Happy building! person in promoting surfing worldwide; he rode a wave for what is thought to be longest ride in history at the time; a champion canoe paddler and steersman, conducted a heroic rescue pulling 8 men out of heavy seas in California. That "superhuman rescue act" led to lifeguards using surfboards in their water rescues; he was a successful actor appearing in nearly 20 films, he was the sheriff of Honolulu for nearly 30 years, become the first person to be inducted into both the Swimming and Surfing Halls of Fame; was posthumously inducted into the U.S. Olympic Hall of Fame, has statues in Hawaii and Australia, a surf festival named in his honor in France and his name is inscribed on the Huntington Beach Surfer Walk of Fame. He even has his own commemorative stamp. Duke travelled the globe throughout his lifetime, bringing with him extraordinary athletic skills and an overall presence that inspired and amazed, while inviting others to experience some of the aloha Hawaii has to offer. He was such an Ambassador of Aloha, it no wonder he is honored so often and so prolifically.

The festival shares Duke's spirit throughout nine jam-packed days of beach and water activities. The events will be going on all week long, but if you need a few to recommend, here's a quick not-miss guide. Duke's OceanFest Opening Ceremony at 6:30 p.m on Sunday, August 18th is a sure-fire winner to send your guests to.

Foiling is the latest craze. Be sure to recommend the Surf Foiling Exhibition Monday morning at 9 a.m. You can never go wrong with the Dogs SurFur ComPETition Tuesday at 9 a.m., followed by the tandem competition at 11 a.m. The tandem competition continues the next few days. Sunset on the Beach will take place Friday night at 7 p.m. and don't miss the Red Bull Hawaiian Party Wave on Sunday at 10 a.m. Think giant handmade contraptions that sub as surfboards ridden by Avatars. It's hilarious.

Most competitions and events are taking place at Queen's Surf on Kuhio Beach in Waikiki, a favorite surfing spot of Duke and home to the magnificent statue honoring his lifetime of achievements and furthering the Aloha Spirit which looks magnificent after the leis are draped upon the state after the opening ceremony.

The events are all spectator friendly. All in all, there will be nearly 20 ocean and beach events to choose from, offering plenty of action to catch along Waikiki shores. An expo and merchandise tents will be set up all week long at Queen's Beach. Not all times have been announced yet, so be sure to check the website for the most up-to-date schedule info there is. # Chef's Corner

Celebrity Chef Jonathan Waxman

Jonathan Waxman's family taught him an appreciation for food arts from an early age. He received a Grand Diplôme from La Varenne School in Paris and was mentored by Alice Waters at Berkeley's legendary Chez Panisse before graduating to executive chef of Michael's in Santa Monica. His restaurant Barbuto was a smash hit for 15 years before he decided to close its doors a few months ago. You can still find the the 2016 James Beard Award winner for "Best Chef: New York City" at Jams in NYC or Adele's in Nashville.

What is your first childhood food memory?
Tacos

You were a musician. What made you decide to become a chef instead?

A long story involving Ferrari's, Hawaii and serendipity.

What was your first job in the industry?
Kaanapali Beach at the Rusty Harpoon

The Rusty Harpoon? I loved that place! How long did you work there and what did you do?

I started as a boy Friday, basically doing everything. I soon graduated to prep cook, then bartender, and finally, manager. I stayed a year. It was heaven. I got to explore Maui, Oahu, and Kauai. I had a perfect life.

Who would you consider your mentor and why?

Alice Waters - she is a quintessential educator and tireless seeker of potential greatness in food.

How does it make you feel to be called one of the founders of California cuisine and now a mentor yourself?

It feels wonderful. I love passing on the history of the American food movement to those who do not know it or want to learn more.

What's the most difficult part of this industry?

Perseverance

You studied in France, are a pioneer in American cuisine, began fusing French techniques, opened an Italian restaurant, consulted on a Mexican restaurant. How would you describe your style?

Simple, a custodian of the bounty that the earth and sea provide.

TV has thrust chefs into the forefront of pop culture. Your thoughts on the TV chef craze?

It helps bolster business, illuminates our work to a wide audience and helps to document recipes and techniques,

You appeared on Top Chef Masters. How much of the competition is real, versus made for TV?

Totally real and fun!

Describe your food / leadership philosophy.

Be true to your passion, try and be kind.

What do you have planned for HFWF?

[Not sure yet, but] I love using local ingredients and of course, locally sourced fish like Opah.

How often do you do these types of food festivals? What's your favorite part of them or what do you get personally out them?

Interacting with my colleagues.

What's your must-do list while in the Islands?

Mai Tai's, beach time, trying new restaurants and visiting old friends.

Insalata Zucca

serves 4

Ingredients:

- |                               |                           |
|-------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 3 medium summer squash        | 1 piece parmesan to grate |
| 1 cup crushed marcona almonds | 1 lemon                   |
| good extra virgin olive oil   | salt & pepper to taste    |

Directions:

1. Lightly toast almonds in a dry pan over medium-low heat for 3 minutes. Immediately season with a pinch of salt. Set aside and cool.
2. Shave summer squash lengthwise on a mandolin 1/16th inch thick. The squash should be thin enough to easily fold but thick enough to hold its shape.
3. Lay almonds between two pieces of parchment paper and gently crush with a heavy rolling pin or pan.
4. Place squash in a mixing bowl. Season with salt, pepper, lemon juice and extra virgin olive oil. Gently toss to keep the squash intact.
5. Gently fold in crushed almonds and grated parmesan and serve & enjoy.

You can meet Chef Jonathan Waxman at this years Hawaii Food & Wine Festival

Dining Dish

Did you know August 5th was National Oyster Day? In honor of that, Herringbone Waikiki will be offering its popular 2 Buck Shucks all day along with a few Chef's oyster specials. Great news for those of us that never seem to make their daily Oyster Houe from 4-6 p.m. and Late Night Oyster Hour from 9 p.m. to close. 797-2435. • Basalt has changed their happy hour times to 3 - 5 p.m. daily. You still get the same great prices ($2 - $9) but an hour less to enjoy them, so get there on time! 923-5689. • Wai'olu Ocean Cuisine, located at the Trump Waikiki has introduced a special lunch-only deal of 25% off your entire bill for members of Hawaii's travel & tourism industry. Must present valid employer ID or business card. Lunch is served is from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Offer is good thru July 1, 2020. 683-7456. • I keep hearing about Cattleya Wine Bar at the Halekulani. I'm told it features Mediterranean influenced tapas style cuisine paired with curated wines by the glass, through a Coravin system (I bought one of those - big fan!) They have launched Wineview events, which are informal, informative tasting with visiting winemakers or industry professionals. On August 1st, Silvio de Silvio, sommelier for the Moretti Wine Company will showcase Italian Wines, and on August 18th, a journey or international Rose wines will be featured. Wineviews are $59 per person and include light bites. Guests may arrive any time between 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. If any of you have gone, reach and tell me about it. • A wine bar I am familiar with, and often duck into to get some work done if I find myself with extra time in Waikiki between meetings is Dean & Deluca at the Ritz. It was my secret hideaway with one of the best happy hour deals in town. I was somewhat taken aback when I dropped in last month that the special had jumped from $10 to $20, but then I ordered it. After tasting the dishes I was no longer bothered by the price change since recently appointed Executive Chef Kevin Carvalho really stepped up the offerings with some tasty, high-end dishes to choose from such as charcuterie, duck prosciutto or a bruscetta trio with, paired of course with a glass of wine. Happy Hour is from 3 - 6 p.m. ~ Pam

WAIKIKI BEER FEST!

Beer has been around for thousands and thousands of years. Literally. Did you know that beer is one of the oldest drinks known produced by humans? Beer was recorded in the written history of ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia, dating back to at least the 5th millennium BC. It seems chemical tests of ancient pottery jars reveal that beer was produced as far back as about 7,000 years ago in what is today Iran. This discovery reveals one of the earliest known uses of fermentation and is the earliest evidence of brewing to date. The list goes on. In Mesopotamia, the oldest evidence of beer is believed to be a 6,000-year-old Sumerian tablet depicting people consuming a drink through reed straws from a communal bowl. In China, residue on pottery dating from around 5,000 years ago shows beer was brewed using barley and other grains. A 3,900-year-old poem honoring Ninkasi, the patron goddess of brewing, contains the oldest surviving beer recipe, describing the production of beer from barley via bread.

Fast-forward a few thousand years. Turns out George Washington kept a notebook during the French and Indian War in the 1700's, that can be found in the new York Public Library, and on the back page was a recipe for "small beer," referring to lower-quality, lower-alcohol brews typically drunk by paid servants. His recipe included three gallons of molasses. Perhaps that was the beginning of the craft beer craze. Fortunately, in the hundreds of years since then, the craft beer recipes have become more refined.

People love to drink beer. Case in point, 6.3 million people from 67 different nations attended Oktoberfest in Germany last year, and drank a record-setting 7.5 million liters of beer in 16 days. That's nearly a half a million liters of beer a day!

While they won't come close to touching that record, the Hilton Hawaiian Village will be hosting the 5th annual Great Waikiki Beer Festival on Saturday, August 24th. Over 100 seasonal, local, and craft beers; wine and signature cocktails will be available with plenty of food for purchase. Live music from Shar Carillo, Willie K, and a special performance from a San Diego-based Johnny Cash Tribute Band called "The next best thing to Johnny Cash." Tickets are $75, $55 for designated drivers. Military take 15% off with ID. hiltonhawaiianvillage.com/beer. ~ Pam

60 YEARS

ALAMOANA

HAWAII'S CENTER

Hard to believe, but on August 13th, it will have been 60 years since Ala Moana Center first opened to the public. The first phase of the center opened with 87 stores on two levels, including 680,000 square feet of leasable area and 4,000 parking spaces. Sears, Shirokiya and The Slipper House were a few of the original stores. Seven years later, in 1966, the second phase opened, doubling the size of the center to 1,351,000 square feet, with a total of 155 stores and

Early 60s sidewalk sale

7,800 parking spaces. Some of the new stores included JC Penney and Liberty House. I don't know about some of you that grew up here, but I still call Macy's as Liberty House half the time!

Ala Moana Shopping Center, as it was called at the time, has been a part of everyone's life who lived here. Think back.. what do you remember about the Mall? For me, it was birthday parties at Farrell's, (remember the Zoo?). I clearly remember my mother always shopping at Ethel's and Carol & Mary's, or buying clothes for my dad and brother at McInerny's and Kramer's. Speaking of Kramer's, who remember those ads? I remember always looking at the paper to see which guy was in their ad that week. I loved going to Yami Yogurt after school. I was grounded by my best friends parents for buying her cheesy lingerie from Hartfield's as a prank, and leaving it at her door pretending it was from some guy she had just started dating at the time. I have no idea why, I was 15 at the time. It sounded like a good idea. I even worked at Woolworth's one summer selling fake perfume as part of their 'blue light special'. I think if most of that grew up here think back, you'll find you have just as many memories of Ala Moana as I do.

Keiki Hula back in 1972

In honor of 60 years of bringing fun, fashion, food and festivities to the island, Ala Moana has been featuring 60 days of Celebration, with plenty of special offers, events and commemorative products such as wine stoppers, ornaments, and a commemorative book. There's a 60th anniversary Sweepstakes taking place from August 10-13 for a chance for six winners to win a $250 Gift Card. Entry forms can be found at Guest Services on Street Level 1, Center Court behind Centerstage and winners will be drawn on the anniversary day of August 13. For more information on their various celebratory offers, go to alamoanacenter.com.

In honor of the fun, fashion, food and festivities Ala Moana has brought to so many of us throughout the years, we thought we'd mention a few of the highlights of the mall's growth throughout the years after the 1966 expansion mentioned at the beginning of this story. Happy Anniversary Ala Moana. Here's to another 60 and beyond!

Activity Conciierge of the Month

NAME: Mariam Beard
HOTEL: Expedia Local Expert®
TITLE: Lead Conciierge

Q. How long have you been with the Expedia?

A. I've been with Expedia a little over 5 years. I was looking to try something new & learned about familiarization (FAM) tours. It seemed like a great way to experience more of Hawaii & get paid to do so!

Q. Where did you work before Expedia?

A. Before Expedia, I worked as a receptionist & I did bookkeeping work for a tea shop.

Q. What desk do you work at primarily?

A. Outrigger Waikiki Beach Resort. The Outrigger 'Ohana make the location feel like home. The staff is so friendly & helpful. It truly makes me appreciate working at that location.

Q. What do you like most about this industry?

A. I love experiences all the things that Hawaii has to offer & sharing that with guests. I like being the insider in the know.

Q. Do you have one guest that stands out? Why?

A. I met two Australian ladies who had been friends for over 50 years. They were the sweetest guests I have ever had. We spent about 10-minutes booking their week of activities, then about an hour just chatting. They gave me tidbits of wisdom & had me laughing so hard that my face hurt! Every time they have come back to Outrigger, they stop by the desk & it's such a pleasure to catch up.

Q. What's the most unusual request you've had?

A. A guest wanted to go zip lining, but did not want to sit in traffic to get to the North Shore. I told them no problem, and got to work. I booked them on a private shuttle to a Honolulu heliports, private helicopter ride for the guest & his daughter to fly over the traffic, & land at the zipline site. Traffic was no longer a problem. The guest had a blast & definitely had a memorable James Bond moment to arrive via helicopter.

Q. What one question are you asked the most?

Where's the lava?

Q. What's your favorite thing to recommend?

A. Any snorkel trip that takes you to the west side of the island. It's a beautiful area, less crowds, & you can see Hawaiian spinner dolphins. You get to go for a swim, have a tasty lunch, then relax in the sun. It's one of my favorite things to do!

Q. What's restaurant do you like to recommend?

A. Hula Grill. It's less busier than other hotel restaurants but the same ocean views as Duke's. I also like Top of Waikiki if guests are looking for something unique with good food & nice views.

Q. I understand you received Conciierge of the Year from Expedia last year - tell us about that!

A. It was truly a humbling experience & I am grateful to have been given the honor. This is a state-wide award that begins at the team an individual manager level Managers determine 3 nominees on a team level & select one finalist each. The LX Hawaii Leadership team outside of the managers then votes. For my nomination, I received kind words from my teammates & the Outrigger 'Ohana.

Q. What do you like to do most on your days off?

A. I love to sail so you can usually catch me out on the water.
