KEEPING THE HOSPITALITY INDUSTRY INFORMED SINCE 1998

19th Annual Shopping Marathon returns at the MADE IN HAWAII FESTIVAL

Shoppers paradise happens Friday, Saturday, Sunday, August 16, 17, and 18th as the 19th Annual Made in Hawaii Festival takes over the Neal Blaisdell Center's Hall and the entire Arena. 399 vendors will fill 482 booths with every imaginable Hawaii product.

Your guests staying in Waikiki will be pleased to know about the new-this-year feature – free transportation between Waikiki area hotels and the Blaisdell aboard a dedicated Waikiki Trolley. The service will be offered between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday. Pick-up/drop-off points will be Hilton Hawaiian Village (Kalia Road), the Duke Kahanamoku statue on Kalakaua Avenue, Aston Waikiki Beach Hotel, Ohana West and the Neal Blaisdell Canter.

Whether your guests are in need of the perfect omiyage or an original artwork to take home, this month they can choose from amazing local crafts, jewelry, foodstuffs, books, and much more created on the island of O'ahu or flown in from around the state. The show is simply bursting at the seams with unique products, music by award-winning entertainers and cooking demonstrations by celebrity chefs. Both seasoned sellers and budding start-ups will be showcased. Creations from O'ahu, Maui, Kauai, Molokai, and the Big Island reflect the best of locally-made products. Guests who have already made the rounds at familiar shopping destinations will be thrilled to check out this home-grown extravaganza.

What originated as a modest 61-booth exhibition to help Hawaii's local businesses network has now blossomed into a lucrative festival and is continuing to grow each year. Today over 35,000 attendees flock to the Blaisdell along with over 1,000 American and international buyers eager to check out what's new and exciting in Hawai'i. With a wealth of food, music, and non-stop shopping, for the small admission fee of $4, it's no wonder this festival just keeps getting bigger and bigger.

Adding to the local authenticity, you may assure your guests that in order for a product to receive that coveted "Made in Hawaii" label, state law decrees that the item must be at least fifty-one percent produced in the state of Hawaii. This ensures that each and every product or craft at the Made in Hawaii Festival is authentically local. Importantly for us, it also means that purchases at the Festival directly help to support our islands' businesses and workers, allowing small companies to continue serving as the foundation of commerce throughout our Hawaiian Islands.

WHAT TO BUY

Since ono treats are a staple of the islands, the best sweets, treats, and delectable will be flown in fresh from around the state. Just a sample of this year's food booths includes; Hawaiian Chip Company chips, Hawaiian Fish Bites, Waggin' Bakery, Anahola Granola, Surfing Goat Dairy, and Carousel Fudge. And, why not try a new coffee or coffee growing district. Aikane Plantation coffee is from Kau on Hawai'i island, called "the other Big Island coffee." Try Hoki Poki Kona Coffee or the Sweet Okole Coffee Co. You may remember the days when Chili Peppa Water was on every dining table. Rex Moribe missed it, got his family growing chili plants and now bottles the peppery juice by the thousand count.

Omiyage can be something as delicious as Pelekunu's Teri Sauces or as original as a museum quality carved Hawaiian gourd by renowned

As summer winds down, south shore swells give us a chance to truly celebrate the life and passions of our beloved father of modern surfing in his own milieu during Duke's OceanFest. Venues around Waikiki will be alive with celebration from Saturday, August 17 through Sunday, August 25, with plenty to see and try in honor of Duke Kahanamoku. The weekend's events include a wide variety of ocean sports that were beloved by Duke Kahanamoku, with opportunities for experts and novices to try their hand at surfing, swimming, stand-up paddling, and so much more. Highlights of the weekend's events include Hawaiian Airlines Legends Surf Classic and Duke's OceanFest Expo. Read through to the continuation on page 8 for a full schedule of all the exciting events.

While his successful 20-year Olympic career made him famous, it was his kindness and genuine Aloha-spirit made Duke Paoa Kahanamoku a hero. Though not an actual duke, he was a descendant of Hawaiian royalty and was always most at home here in the islands near the ocean and his family. Growing up as one of the famed beach boys along the shore at Waikiki, the water was his home and he swam, surfed, and paddled canoe for the Outrigger Canoe Club in any kind of water the ocean threw at him. But it was his swimming skills that gained him multiple Olympic gold and silver medals as he set a world record for speed and then

Playing Tourist

It's always hectic when friends come to town. Trying to fit in your everyday responsibilities and go to work while also trying to find enough time to not only spend with them but also play tour guide is usually a hard one to juggle. However, it really is fun if you can pull it off. Recently a friend came to visit and fortunately for me, my schedule was such that I was able to get most of my work done and escape the office by mid-afternoon the days she was here and ended up playing tourist with her in the process of showing her around. She was staying at the Sheraton Waikiki, and the first thing they did is send her to GIFT, their new amenity store. Totally cute concept. They give guests a bag and they choose their own amenity - from in-room snacks to beverages to souvenirs - and whatever they can fit in the bag is there's to take upstairs. It was a blast watching everyone, myself included, trying to figure out how to fit things into the bag. Hint - bottles work best if one is upside down. I love the Sheraton's infinity pool and enjoyed a few hours with my friend watching the turtles swim by in my floating beanbag with a frosty beverage in my hand. We went out on one of the catamarans for an afternoon sail, did a beachside Mai Tai crawl down Waikiki Beach and even went out on Atlantis. It's been over a decade since I was last on the submarine. I had never even seen those sunken boats or planes before. Definitely very cool. I'm not sure about her but I had a blast! That whole tourist lifestyle isn't so bad. I look at Waikiki as a work-related place. It's pretty neat to see it through a tourist's eyes every now and then. It was sort of one of those a-ha moments when you realize why we all do what we do... and the difference it really does make in their experience. I was sorry to have it all come to an end, I was just starting to get used that lifestyle.

Unfortunately all good things must come to an end and in that vein we want to wish our editor Kathryn Wheeler a fond aloha. Kathryn has been at the helm of the editorial here for about 7 years. I loved her perspective, as she was a concierge just like you for many years at the Kahala, which brought a reliability to the magazine I thought, had been missing. However she moved to the mainland a few years ago to be closer to her family and her trips back to the Islands have become less frequent. Life goes on, she has a new job and new responsibilities and the time has come for her to move forward with the life she has started on the mainland and leave her post with us. Please join me in thanking her for all she has done for the magazine over the years. She'll be missed. Lynn Cook and I will be working together to guide the editorial going forward and I look forward to your comments if you feel there is any way we can improve or better serve your needs. Mahalo and Aloha!

woodcarver, David Young. The health-conscious can find natural products from purveyors such as handmade soaps and salves from Tree Hugger Products. For the water-lover who has everything, check out Hammerhead Spearguns. Add Hawaiian flavor to the menu with Salty Wahine Gourmet Hawaiian Sea Salts or take the scents of the islands home with Hana Lima Soap Co.. For guests who have already perused Waikiki jewelry stores, there may be something unique awaiting them from Kaha Jewelry, Island Pearl Creations, G & G Handcrafted Jewelry, or a special piece from Lohikai 'O Moloka'i Shell Jewelry.

Neighbor islands will send their best from ono Maui Upcountry Jams & Jellies, Kona Natural Soap Company, Maui Mamaki Tea Co., and Kauai Tropical Syrup, Inc. Local favorites like Royal Hawaiian Heritage Jewelry and UH Rainbowtique are not to be forgotten. The Festival is the perfect spot to check out all they have to offer. It also gives visitors the chance to find a diverse selection of the best O'ahu and the rest of the state have to offer.

Just for fun, visitors can take home a backyard conversation piece – a surfboard swings. Pick up Kilauea volcanic eruption videos, clothing, handbags, baby bibs, sushi boards, and anything else you might imagine for that perfect gift. Even those impossible-to-buy-for relatives back home should be easy to shop for with the variety to be had at this event.

If all this retail therapy has your guests worried about luggage, never fear! The Festival folks make it easy to ship purchases directly home, or to friends and family, across the Mainland via the U.S. Postal Service's booth. With ever-increasing charges and restrictions on airline baggage, this is a huge plus for visitors and a great tip to make sure to mention when you send shoppers to the event.

Shopping isn't the only draw at this fab fest and rest-your-feet breaks between shopping sprees can be easily filled with live performances by Na Hoku Hanohano Award (Hawaiian Grammys) winning entertainers taking to the stage in the Pikake Room. Music starts at 10:30 a.m. on Friday and Saturday, 11 a.m. on Sunday. The all-star line-up includes talent like Frank DeLima, Danny Couch, Kapena, and many others. The entertainers are happy to sign their latest, or vintage, CD's after each performance.

In the Arena, some of Hawaii's top chefs tantalize the taste-buds, including demos by favorites like Chef Chai or Ronnie Nasuti of Tiki's Grill & Bar. A good hint is watching for clusters of shoppers as you walk the rows in the Arena and in the Exhibition Halls. A hundred food products are offered to taste. The wait isn't long but well worth a bit of standing. Packages of taste treats come in several sizes. Hint: if you love it, buy two!

Events run all weekend long, August 16 – 18 at the Neal Blaisdell Exhibition Hall and Arena, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Adult entry is $4, and keiki aged six or under get in free. For more information and updates on the events, call 533-1292 or visit www.madeinhawaiifestival.com.

Hooray for Sake!

Fans of Japan's traditional rice wine will find an unprecedented 384 sakes sample at this year's 2013 Joy of Sake Honolulu. Along with the cuisine of sixteen top local restaurants, the festival is guaranteed to be a celebration not to miss and a rare treat for our visitors. This year the Honolulu Convention Center serves as backdrop for the world's largest sake celebration outside of Japan, held August 16 from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Serving up top sakes from every sake-brewing region in Japan including many ultra-premium daiginjo sakes, festival-goers can taste 223 bottles not available anywhere else in the United States. Pre-fest entertainment kicks off the event at 6 p.m. with the mesmerizing taiko drumming of Kenny Endo. Following that is a traditional kagami-biraki ceremony in which the sake barrel lid will be broken open with wooden mallets and dignitaries share cups of sake marking the official start of the festival. Cuisine from top local eateries include the wonderful flavors of Nobu Waikiki, Hoku's, Pili Hawaii, Doraku, and much more. Tickets are $85 in advance or $95 at the door and are available at 222-0195 or joyofsake.com.

PARK RESTAURANT OPENING

The Aqua Lotus Honolulu has opened the doors of Park in the former David Paul's location on the 2nd floor. Dante Camara, former manager of Hoku's at the Kahala Hotel has taken over manager duties while introducing Executive Chef Michael Collantes who will bring skills he picked up in the kitchens of celeb chefs Eric Ripert and Joel Robuchon to the menu. This new Mediterranean-style restaurant promises to "add flair to Honolulu's dining and social scene". (Hmm, does that mean they'll be bringing back the old Wonderland days?) Open daily for dinner from 5- 10 p.m, the bar remains open until midnight. 791-5161

MAKANA AT THE KAHALA

Master slack-key guitarist Makana is performing at The Kahala Hotel & Resort on the last Sunday of the month throughout the summer. Catch him at the Plumeria Beach House on Sunday August 25th and Sunday September 29th from 6 - 9 p.m. featuring songs from his upcoming album as well as Hawaiian music from the 60s and 70s in honor of the hotel's upcoming 50th anniversary. The restaurant will be offering special pupus and cocktails from that era to celebrate. No cover and parking is free with validation, but reservations are highly recommended at 739-8760 or email restaurants@kahalaresort.com.

NEW SHOPS IN WAIKIKI

Award-winning local chocolatier Maile Kai Chocolates has finally opened a retail location in the Royal Hawaiian Center selling their mouth-watering bars, nibs, and more. In honor of the occasion, a new Hawaiian rum truffle will be available exclusively at the new location (Bldg. C, Level 1). Open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, your sustainable-conscious guests can satisfy their sweet tooth at this locally-sourced retailer. 599-8600. Also opening at the Center is a shiny new Silver Rhino on Level 2 of Building A. Featuring all of the silver, gold, and stainless jewelry you love, the new location that opened in June is open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. For more information, call 946-6671. Building B has welcomed the third Fighting Eel fashion boutique on the ground floor carrying original designs, as well as clothing line "Ava Sky" along with other brands, jewelry, makeup, and accessories. ## YOUR GUEST'S EVENT [HERE]

Hyatt Regency Waikiki Beach Resort and Spa is unveiling the latest cutting-edge event space next month with their Kou Ballroom. Located on the 2nd floor of the property's Diamond Head Tower, Kou will feature the latest technology in over 3,000 square feet of space including a reception room, boardroom, art wall, and meeting room. Complementing the space is a sustainable, farm-to-table menu fashioned by Executive Chef Sven Ullrich. For more information, call 923-1234 or visit Waikiki.Hyatt.com.

AIRSOFT PAINTBALL

This is not your average run of the mill tourist attraction to be sure, but for those looking for something off the beaten path, Hawaii Extreme Paintball offers a chance to practice your military and shooting skills against your friends in a fun, hot, intense fight on the island's largest Paintball & Airsoft Field. If you get hit, trust us, it will leave a mark, but one that dissipates quickly and all of the paint washes off. Cost are $45 per person plus a $20 cover charge to enter field. There is also a $45 fee for ammo can be split amongst your group. Note: if you have a group of 6 or more, call and make a reservation and they'll take off 20%. Good dirty fun! Open Saturday and Sunday 11-4. 838-9324. hawaiiextremepaintball.com

PCC's 2013 Te Manahua Maori

It's time for Polynesian Cultural Center's popular Maori Song and Dance Festival. What began as a series of Maori cultural competitions in the Center's Aotearoa marae (New Zealand village) has developed into its annual cultural Whakataetae (competition) with groups from PCC, around Oahu, and the mainland coming together to celebrate the traditions of the Maori as they vie for prizes and bragging rights. Audiences who get to see this annual event will be treated to some of the best performers around our island showcasing a variety of traditional Maori performance arts.

Despite Hawaii's definite Maori community, our performers have yet to participate in the national Te Matatini competition in New Zealand. With this ultimate goal in mind, though, the skill level of those competing in the annual Whakataetae is fierce, to say the least. Each year, hundreds of thousands of people attend one of the kapa haka (traditional Maori performing arts presentation) throughout New Zealand. Events are a lively and elegant blend of traditional chants, music, and dance with colorful piupiu skirts and the familiar poi ball dance. The famed, heart-pounding Maori war dances, known as the haka is always a crowd favorite. These dances were used to pump-up warriors before a battle and mesmerizes the audience with their rhythms, stomping, chanting, and that infamous Maori tongue.

The competition takes place on August 30 and 31 in the two days preceding PCC's weeklong golden anniversary celebration (September 1 - 8). For more information on admission and events, call 293-3333 or visit them at www.polynesia.com.

arts with aloha

How many of you speak English, French, German, Hawaiian, Korean, Japanese, Mandarin and Spanish fluently? If you did, most likely you would be working at the United Nations and not at the guest services or concierge desk at your hotel. Several of you out there are bi- or even tri-lingual, but I bet it would be hard to find anyone who spoke all eight languages perfectly. There are places in Honolulu's arts and cultural scene where language barriers are few and the experience for your guests extraordinary.

The big news this summer is BISHOP MUSEUM'S new audio tours in multiple languages that are accessible through smart-phones, tablets and other mobile devices. The tours were recorded in Chinese, Korean and Japanese as well as Hawaiian by native speakers. The audio tour includes a series of information short clips describing forty treasured objects throughout the Hawaiian Hall complex. Children's voices were used to create kid-friends versions of the audio tours targeted at children ages 5 to 12. Special audio resources like mele (song) and oli (chant), and recordings of Museum contributors such as Mary Kawena Pukui, are woven into a number of the audio tour stops, giving visitors a deeper understanding of the importance of the object they are looking at. To avoid the costs associated with using a third party company to provide the audio tour hardware, the Museum utilized the popularity of smart-phone devices, Wi-Fi hot spots, QR codes, and simple audio editing software like Garageband to build the audio tour system in-house. Later phases of the audio tour will include objects in all of the Museum's major exhibit halls.

Bishop Museum just got a bit easier for foreigners that don't speak English with their Mobile Audio Tours.

There are several ways your guests can access the audio tours. First they will be instructed to access the Mobile Audio Tour site with their Wi-Fi enabled devices. Then at each object on the tour, they will be instructional signage giving them the various options to download the audio tour:

QR CODES: Your guests can use a barcode scanning app on their mobile device to scan each QR code related to a particular object in the collection to access the each of the language tours online.

STOP NUMBER: Each tour stop also has a human readable three digit number that can be entered by hand on the Mobile Audio Tour site.

BROWSE LOCATION: When on the Mobile Audio Tours site, if your guests cannot find one of the audio tour signs, they can just browse by building and floor to see all of the tours available nearest their location.

Admission into Bishop Museum: Adults $19.95; Seniors (65+) $16.95; and Youth (4-12) $14.95; Children age 16 and younger must be accompanied by an adult. Bishop Museum is open from 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; closed on Tuesdays and Dec. 25. For information, visit BishopMuseum.org or call 847-3511.

In addition to those languages, IOLANI PALACE has its own audio tour, but the equipment is more traditional in the form of a wand device; however, the Palace's language selection is larger than Bishop Museum. It includes English, French, German, Hawaiian, Japanese, Mandarin and Spanish. It's not a surprise that the Palace offers tours in more languages than any other museum in Hawai'i, since King Kalākaua, who built 'Iolani Palace in 1882, was the first reigning monarch to travel around the world. The audio tours have added features of music and sound effects, including excerpts from the writings of Queen Lili'uokalani as she recalls her imprisonment in the Palace. Of course in addition to all these audio tours, the Palace provides docent lead tours in Japanese at 11:30 a.m. Monday through Saturday (subject to docent availability) in addition guided tours are available in Mandarin and American Sign Language but must be pre-arranged. For more details on these specialty tours as well as general tour information please call 522-0822 or visit IolaniPalace.org. Palace regular tours are Mondays 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Tuesdays, Wednesdays, & Thursdays 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Fridays & Saturdays 12 p.m. to 4 p.m. Audio tours are $14.75 for adults and $6 for children 5 to 12. Docent lead tours are $21.75 for adults and $6 for children 5 to 12.

DORIS DUKE'S SHANGRI LA offers tours in Japanese on the last Friday of every month at noon. Reservations are a must and can be made up to one month in advance for groups no larger than 12 people. For reservations please call 532-3852 or e-mail shangrilatickets@HonoluluMuseum.org. As most of you know tours for Shangri La are offered through the HONOLULU MUSEUM OF ARTS, which itself is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. General admission is $10 for adults and for children 17 and under admission is free. Their Japanese docent lead tours are Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 1:30 p.m. Guests can also request private hour-long guided tours for up to 15 people in English or Japanese for an additional $25 on top of the regular museum admission. This is a great way for your guests to create a specialty tour tailored to what they want to learn about. Please submit your requests for these tours at least 3 weeks in advance and payment is due upon arrival. Call 532-8700 or visit HonoluluMuseum.org and click on the TOURS button to find out more information on tours.

Auntie Lynn's Adventures X

Looking at the list of "things to do this summer" has me convinced that it just can't all be done - unless, of course, we can add more weekends in August. The marathon may not happen until December, but a music marathon seems to be inevitable for the next month - punctuated by art events and a food fest. On the subject of food, my new favorite thing is the Lobster Mac & Cheese at The Signature, atop the Ala Moana Hotel. Who, out there in readerville, remembers when it was fondly called Nickolas Nicholas, and then Aarons? The "new" place is beautiful, albeit missing the "wall of fame" where everyone hoped they would find their photo. Then there was a day when Nick Nicholas called us all together and said, "my nephew is coming in from Chicago. I don't know if he will like it here. Be nice to him. Introduce him to some pretty island girls. His name is Aaron." Turned out that lots of pretty girls introduced themselves and the nephew liked it here.

A second don't-miss gallery show, with a shorter run, is the ii gallery on Auahi Street in Kakaako, an exhibition of work by Maika'i Tubbs called Extended Play. Get your creative self out of the bottom drawer. You'll be invited to stretch VHS tape, composing it into a collective memory landscape on the gallery floor and think about our capacity to store, replay, retrieve, and distinguish our own memories in this media age. Huh? Not sure. Come on, chance 'em! And, bring your own old tapes to add to the collective memory. Maika'i Tubbs is one of the most creative young artists I've had the opportunity to interview. That was the day he showed me his gas mask and blow-torch tucked into an art box on the tiny studio apartment lanai. He melted plastic forks when his neighbors weren't home. He is about to go off to Parsons in New York to get an MBA. He is pressing eject to play in NY.

Unlikely pen pals, Minnesota and Hawaii artists started talking. The result, Changing Places, is a print show from August 12 to 25th in the Mezzanine Gallery of the HMA Art School at Linekona, Victoria and Beretania Street across Thomas Square.

FEAST FOR THE EYES -

One of the Georgia O'Keeffe paintings on display during the exhibit.

Georgia O'Keeffe and Ansel Adams. Paintings and photos at the Honolulu Museum of Art. If you are fans of their work you'll have the show on your radar. What you may not know is that Georgia came here to paint and the show of her work is pali cliffs with cascading waterfalls. What was amazing to me was the massive collection of Ansel Adams photographs taken in Hawaii. The show runs through the first of January and groups of fans and friends are already planning tours. Catch the show and send your guests.

More at the HMA, music of the night - three nights a month. In a creative re-vamp the schedule is Music of Hawaii every third Wednesday, Secret Sound Showcase of alternative music on the last Friday of the month, right after ARTafterDARK. Finally, the last Saturday of the month is Last Saturday Roots in Jazz. August 21 is Weldon Kekauoha, August 23 is Busekrus, Super Groupers, August 31st is An Evening with Benny Rietveld and Friends. The 31st will be a busy day with the last of three Waimea Valley concerts. Take the day, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. for music in a green paradise on the North Shore, drive home at sunset for an evening of jazz. Monday you can call in well.

FOR EAR CANDY - There is a place to rest your feet and re-group at the Made In Hawaii show. Half-way through 399 vendors filling 482 booths you can settle into a chair in the Blaisdell Center's Pikake Room on Saturday, August 17th. From 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. the Kani Ka Pila Grille talent search finalists will serenade, judged by Cyril Pahinui, Keala Chock, Jason Genegabus and Luana Maitland, events and activities manager for the Outrigger Reef on the Beach. If you love the winner, count on seeing them, four Thursday performances in September at the Grille.

Hawaii Theatre on August 24th for the 29th, Annual Ka Himeni Ana Hawaiian Music Competition. Be there. You may have friends and family performing. Count on thankful guests if you send them to Chinatown for this event with major harmony and some humor from emcee Manu Boyd.

FIND A KID - Young minds really make for summer magic. Read the BeachHouse Press book Twinkle, Twinkle Small Honu board book or mouse and mongoose Find a Rainbow in Hawaii. It is good if you have or can borrow a kid to read with you - but, really, no-need. Take a tide pool walk. "Like" the Waikiki Aquarium's Facebook page and enter an underwater photo. The rules say "photos taken in the Hawaiian Island Chain (including the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands). Wow, wish I had a chance to take over, under or on top of water photos at Papahānaumokuākea. Personally, I'm still working on saying that name without notes. See you there?"

DUKE'S OCEANFEST

proceeded to break his own record in the next attempt from 1912 to 1932.

Duke became the first person to be inducted into both the International Swimming Hall of Fame (1965) and the International Surfing Hall of Fame (1966). This fame was what landed him in the glamorous lights of Hollywood for several years where he played extra or bit parts. It was also through swimming that, for an exhibition, he traveled to Australia and forever influenced the rise of surfing in what is now one of the most popular places to ride. The board he rode at Sydney's Freshwater Beach is still kept there by the caretaker, and a statue stands as a tribute to his impact. A tall, powerful athlete and lover of Hawai'i and traditional ways, his beloved surfboard was a sixteen-foot koa board that towered over him. It was through his international fame and travels that Duke brought attention to the talents and beauty of Hawai'i, gaining him the title of "Ambassador of Aloha." But for world travel, he hauled his ten-foot, round-nosed, redwood board to the mainland and beyond, sharing the thrill of surfing. After years and years of swimming and longboarding, and close to thirty movie appearances that helped rocket surfing to international popularity, Duke returned to his hometown to become sheriff of Honolulu, a position he held for 26 years.

The Festival kick off in the morning of August 17th followed by a lei-draping at the Duke Kahanamoku statue at 5 p.m. and things heat up from there. For event times and information go to dukesoceanfest.com or follow them on Facebook.

PIRATE SHIP TRIPS

Ahoy mateys! If it's treasure ye seek yer path be not long! Shiver me timbers as ye gaze out yonder and spy the Jolly Roger flyin' as thar be pirates in these here waters.

That's right, a pirate ship has sailed off of Waikiki, but instead of making passengers walk the plank, the sinister looking ship known as the Treasure Seeker offers pirate-themed Waikiki cruises to delight children and adults alike.

The crew of pirates is comprised of local actors that stay in character at all times, sometimes even making passenger swap the decks or sending them to the stocks if they disobey orders.

During the 90-minute tour as the boat travels from Kewalo Basin to the Natatorium and back, the crew engages the guests with a variety of pirate-themed activities, search for treasure and even fires water canon's in the general direction of such potential threats such as surfers, kayakers, canoes and other sailboats.

For information go to hawaiipirateship.com or call 593-AHOY (2469).

Chef's Corner

Executive Chef Anita Lo

Chef Anita Lo is the chef and owner of Annisa in New York City and one of the most respected chefs in the country. Revered by many she is also the first female chef to ever win an Iron Chef challenge and you can meet her when she comes to Honolulu as part of next month's Hawaii Food & Wine Festival.

How made you decide to pursue a culinary career, especially after you had already graduated college?

I've always loved to eat and to work with my hands, and frankly, what's one to do with a degree in French? ;) It seemed at the time the best of all possible worlds to go work in a French speaking kitchen and I wound up at Bouley.

What was your first job in the industry?

I made canapes for David Bouley at his eponymous, one year old restaurant. Every guest got a plate of five different amuses bouches.

Who's would you consider your mentor and why?

David Waltuck has really helped me over the years. He taught me about flavor and about small restaurants

These days you're considered by many to be one of their mentors. What words of advice would you offer them?

You need to read as much as possible--food publications, cookbooks, etc, and eat out as much as possible to stay relevant.

Unfortunately the culinary world is often more difficult for a woman to succeed in than a man. Did you run into much gender disparity and how did you overcome it?

It's a lot easier than it was when I was coming up in the food world. That being said, it's still not equitable. Its important to stay focused, to be tenacious, and to believe in yourself without being overconfident.

If you had to choose one country (other than France) as your favorite for food, what would it be?

Japan. I love the zen contemplation of ingredients at the height of the season.

What's your favorite thing to do when not working?

I love to fish.

You've participated in Iron Chef, Top Chef and Chopped. What are your thoughts on the TV culinary craze?

Its great for business and great in general for culinary awareness.

In 2005 you became the first female to win Iron Chef. How was that experience and what happened because of it?

It was a blast. They Iron Chef team is amazing, and no one is more fun than Mario Batali. We were in a downturn in business, and this show saved us.

What's the farthest you have traveled in search of a food item and the strangest food you've ever tried?

I've been a lot of places, so the farthest? Not sure, but I've certainly had my share of 24 hour flights to the other side of the globe. The strangest food I've ever tried? Hakarl, fermented shark from Iceland? Various insects? (didn't love the water bug in Thailand nor the silkworms in Korea). Blow-torched marmot in Mongolia?

Have you ever been to Hawaii before?

Yes, at least twice. I spent an amazing Christmas in Kauai.

What's on your must-do list while you're here?

Eat something amazing!

What do you have planned for the Festival?

I will be using some of your local ingredients for a walk around tasting at the Modern Honolulu and for the "Girls Got Game" brunch.

What ingredients should everyone have on hand?

Lemons, onions, oil and soy sauce, and a million other things...

What's next for you?

Not sure! Hopefully something fun and delicious.

Seared Foie Gras with Foie Gras Soup Dumplings by Chef Anita Lo, annisa

INGREDIENTS

- 1 oz. slice Foie Gras A, deveined
- salt and pepper
- wondra
- 2 pig feet, split
- 1 pint veal stock
- 5 pints chicken stock
- 1 large stick cinnamon
- 4 pieces star anise
- 2 dried shitake mushrooms
- 2 slices ginger
- soy sauce to taste
- black pepper

- 1 quart balsamic vinegar
- 2 cups Chinese black vinegar
- 5 slices ginger
- 1 teaspoon black peppercorns
- 1 lobe Foie Gras B, cleaned
- foie gras scraps; salt and pepper
- 2 parts flour
- 1 part boiling water
- salt and pepper
- soy oil
- 3 pieces each jicama macedoine
- 1 pinch each scallion top julienne

DIRECTIONS: MAKE THE "SOUP": place the pig feet in a pot with the stocks and bring to a boil. Skim and add the remaining ingredients and simmer, skimming every so often, until pig feet are soft, about 3 hours. Strain. Taste and adjust seasonings; you may have to add a little water to dilute the soy. Shock and refrigerate until set.

MAKE THE FOIE MOUSSE: season the foie liberally with salt and pepper and let sit overnight. Pack into a terrine mould, cover and place in a hot water bath. Cook in a 275 oven about 45 minutes until it just starts to melt and is warm in the center. Place all in a food processor and run until smooth. Pass through a tamis and repack into the terrine mould. Cover and refrigerate.

MAKE THE VINEGAR REDUCTION: Place the vinegars, the ginger and peppercorns in a saucepot and reduce to a glaze. Strain and refrigerate.

MAKE THE DUMPLING WRAPPERS: Mix the salt and flour and add the boiling water. Knead until smooth and place in an oiled bowl, covered. Allow to rest 30 minutes, then roll to about <1/8" thickness and cut into 3.5" rounds.

TO FORM THE DUMPLINGS: brush each wrapper with eggwash and place a small square of foie mousse in the center of a wrapper, along with a few pieces jicama and a small dollop of the "soup". Fold in half and crease the top to form half moons. Freeze or cook immediately.

TO SERVE: steam 3 dumplings per order (if frozen, from the frozen state) until puffed. In the meantime, season and dredge in wondra the foie gras and sear. Decorate plate with the black vinegar reduction and organize the three dumplings on top. Top each dumpling with a third of the seared foie gras and place a pinch of the scallion julienne in the center. Serve with chopsticks and a Chinese soup spoon so that the diner can experience the juice.

Hot Lines

Here are a few important hotlines for you to find out the latest in live music since we can't possible list them all, especially those that change daily, or don't update us regularly.

Gordon Biersch	599-4877
Irish Rose Saloon	947-3414
Kelley O'Neil's	926-1777
Mai Tai Bar Ala Moana	947-2900
Moose McGillycuddy's	923-0751

Dining Dish

Hyatt's signature restaurants have recently updated their menus introducing several new items to choose from. At Japengo menu favorites like the Scallop Butter Yaki stayed on the menu but new additions include Honey Macadamia Nut Shrimp ($16) and Sea Treasure Cake Noodle ($38). SHOR kept their Seafood Tower but added items such as a Half Pound Bucket of Pacific Shrimp ($15) and Beer Braised Clams ($13). 923-1234. • Genki Sushi at Ala Moana Center has reopened after their recent renovation and has installed the first touch panel double rail ordering system in the country allowing customers to order and have the items delivered directly to them via the rail system without ever leaving their seats. Sounds pretty cool. 942-9102. • Football season is almost here and with 17 HDTV's and subscriptions to all the major sports channels, Giovanni Pastrami is the place to go catch all of your favorite teams. College games kick off August 29th. Reserve a table at giovannipastrami.com. 923-2100. • The Signature Prime Steak & Seafood opened with a huge grand opening party last month and it was great to see that old Aaron's space being used again. I think they did a great job with the renovations and the food was great. There was something very cool about being up there again and nice to see they paid so much attention to detail. 949-3636 • On a less positive note, I know that I harp on customer service a lot, but quite frankly it's the core of what we all strive for every day – and the single most important aspect that can differentiate between businesses of a similar stature. Late on a Friday afternoon, I walked into Assaggio's Kahala to grab a drink with a friend before we went on to our respective evenings. The bar holds six. The two center seats were taken, while the seats on either side were empty, yet a napkin and silverware were set up at each place. When I indicated I was going to take a seat I was told there were no seats available. I looked at four empty seats and repeated "no seats available?" The bartender brusquely said no. As I turned to walk away, but had yet to take a step, he said the two in center "That's how I make my money. I make sure my seats are held open for my "good" customers. Excuse me? How does he know I'm not a good customer and how dare he make that assumption? I bet there's no way in the world his manager knew what he was doing nor would they stand for it, and lastly had he inquired further, he would have realized we were not there for the duration, rather just to have a drink or two and be on our way. He could have increased both his total sales and tips for the evening and kept a customer. Politely telling me that the seats were reserved for people who were coming in for dinner later and we couldn't stay long would have worked as well. However, all he ended up doing is offend the living daylight out of somebody who not only lives right near the restaurant, but one who also happens to have the means to share the story with others. Remember that shopping scene in Pretty Woman where Julia Roberts walks back in to the store that wouldn't help her the day before and says "Big mistake. Big. Huge." Applies perfectly here. Refusing service and being rude and offensive? The bartender didn't even have the courtesy to wait until I had left the immediate area before speaking. This is the third time the customer service has offended me at this restaurant — and it was the last. There are just too many outstanding restaurants in this town with fabulous employees that I can't find enough time to visit as it is. I see no reason to waste any more time or money on a place that just doesn't want it. It really is the little things that make all the difference and reinforces just how important customer service can be. A smile goes a long way. ~Pam

EVENTS ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

Classic Gabby

Cyril Pahinui, and his wife, Chelle, honor Cyril's dad by putting on a party in classic Gabby style. On Saturday, August 10th, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., the 6th Annual Gabby Pahinui Waimanalo Kanikapila will bring together 150 musicians to jam. The thousands of fans who savor the free day of music at the beach park are the beneficiaries of their hard work. Musicians play solo or in their usual groups. Then someone will say, "hey, we are short a guitar player," and in the time it takes to tune the strings someone jumps in and a new group is formed. This concert is a time machine into Hawaii's music.

Stories of weekends at the Pahinui home in Waimanalo are about one long jam session. Word would go out, Gabby was playing. The yard would fill with guys with guitars. Fans just followed the sound of Gabby's voice – somewhere between a bulldozer and a train wreck, with moments of falsetto that made everyone cry. Hard work, a dozen kids and a hard life took Gabby away early – born in 1921, he died in 1980 at the young age of 59. Musicians who were in his backyard never forgot.

Cyril Pahinui laughs and says his dad's legendary music history sometimes makes people remember creatively. "Often young musicians who were too young to hold a guitar come up with a memory of playing with my dad, and, who knows, maybe their own dad did."

Cyril and Chelle Pahinui started the now 6 year-old festival to honor Gabby, keeping the backyard -style kanikapila alive with musicians who play for love and a plate lunch. "They jam and stay all day," Chelle Pahinui says, "hanging out in the open pavilion at Waimanalo Beach Park." She says the musicians are very accessible for photos or music questions, with answers coming from half a dozen of their music heroes.

The day opens with a hula halau who present hula and chant and then take over the shave ice booth. Plate lunch, community organization and cultural booths are plentiful. The talent line-up is a hundred names long. The list includes dozens of Na Hoku Hanohano Award winners. Cyril says, "the only musicians not playing have a gig somewhere else, usually out of state."

The sale of $15 Gabby t-shirts helps fund the musicians food and the security. Calling the shirt a "collectors item" is for real. A first year shirt was recently listed on e-bay for $500. Concert details: www.gabbypahinui.com

The Waimanalo Kanaikapila happens on Saturday, August 10th, followed on Sunday, August 18th by the Annual Hawaiian Slack Key Guitar Festival in Kapiolani Park. Both events are free, last the better part of the day and are perfect for locals, visitors, families and anyone who ever wished for Hawaiian music heaven the way it was way back when. One festival is good, two is even better: www.slackkeyfestival.com. ~ Lynn Cook

Nightlife options have increased – at least on the weekends – with the addition of Na Kane, a highly entertaining male revue on board the Ali'i Kai catamaran. But keep your dollars in your wallets folks, it's not that type of show. Created by former lead Chippendale's dancer David Abrahms, this two hour cruise every Friday and Saturday night offers ladies (and gents) a show, plenty of opportunities to meet the guys and turns into a dance party at sea with DJ Rayne before bringing you back to shore. Perfect for girls night out, bachelorette parties and more, the crowd was equal parts guys and gals every time I was onboard. www.menofparadise.us. 954-8643

Concierge of the Month

NAME: David Nakamura
COMPANY: Halekulani Hotel
TITLE: Concierge

This month's winner is another of our highly regarded Les Clefs D'Or members and we are thrilled to have a chance to learn a little bit more about this hotel veteran who is very helpful assisting guests according to his coworkers. Congratulations David!

Q: How long have you been at Halekulani??

A: 9 years.

Q: How big is your team there now?

A: We have a total of 10 concierges, 7 of which are members of Les Clefs d'Or.

Q: Do you work in conjunction with an activities desk?

A: We are actually a full service concierge desk and don't have an activities desk on property

Q: How did you come to work in the industry?

A: I always enjoyed working with guests and customer service and thought it only made sense in Hawaii to work in the industry. Prior to Halekulani, I started at the front desk of a smaller hotel [where] we had to do everything from check in, phone operator, concierge, [etc.].

Q: What's the biggest perk of being a concierge?

A: [Being] able to interact with guests from all over the world. This is helpful when traveling as I can ask guests what they recommend in their hometown or country.

Q: What do you think is the one skill that a good concierge has to have to succeed?

A: Being resourceful is very important and having a good network of concierges.

Q: What's been your biggest challenge at the desk?

A: The biggest challenge for me has to be shipping items internationally since I dislike itemizing the contents and the paperwork involved, but I still do it of course.

Q: Any stories of memorable guests you can share?

A: I had a guest who was visiting from Japan and looking to contact her friend who she had lost touch with. All she knew was the name and that her friend was the owner of a popular restaurant on Kauai. Since I am from Kauai, I ended up calling a few contacts and a local chef whose mother was a good friend of this person. I then called the mother, who no longer had the friend's number, but referred me to another person who supposedly knows this person since he ran a smaller take-out restaurant across the street from my guest's long-lost-friend's restaurant. Long story short, I was able to get the cell phone number and my guest was able to get in touch with her long lost friend.

Q: What's a favorite restaurant to recommend?

A: I like to send guests to Alan Wong's. I love his twice cooked short ribs and nori-wrapped tempura ahi.

Q: With the final rush of summer upon us, any fun family things you recommend??

A: The water park is always a fun way to cool off and it's fun for the entire family.

Q: What do you love best about living in Hawaii?

A: I love the weather and the people.

Q: Do you have a secret hobby we'd never guess?

A: My hobbies are pretty much doing anything that my son enjoys doing, so I guess at the moment, I am an assistant coach on my son's tee-ball team. I'm not sure if I'm skilled, but I sure is fun.
