FOW! WOW! HEND!

"Welcome to Paradise" mural by Trav. Located on Auahi and Koula Street at 233 Hawaii Loa Street.

In 2011, an innovative platform for celebrating the art world made its way to the Hawaiian Islands. Through the foundational efforts of Honolulu's own Jasper Wong, POW! WOW! crossed the Pacific, after the inaugural event a year earlier in Hong Kong, bringing life to and beautifying the Kaka'ako community.

Soon, fellow artist and Kalani High alumnus Kamea Hadar joined Wong, and, together, along with other amazing creatives, they continue to envision a society where art, especially street art and unrivaled music, teachings, and learnings, are appreciated for collaboration and collective joy.

2020 marks the 10th anniversary of POW! WOW! Hawai'i, and from the beginning, POW! WOW! has invited people into the process. While this multiday event is meant to blend imagination with invitation and street art with spirit, the movement has even spread to other parts of the island such as Hale'iwa and Kaimuki.

One of the many murals adorning the walls of Kaka'ako from last year's event. This mural created by Tara McPherson.

From February 7 to the 15th, renowned artists such as Tristan Eaton, Hush, Tokidoki, Jay Howell, Alex Pardee, and dozens more will descend once again into the Kaka'ako neighborhood to beautify the area with their electric and dynamic murals with this festival of mural painting. From 'Ohe Street to Kapiolani Boulevard and Punchbowl to Kamake'e Street – come down to witness new murals being created on multiple walls.

Globally, POW! WOW! exists as an invaluable place for individuals to share their carefully honed craft. Artists from Taiwan to Israel to DC to Guam and many places in between have joined the fold with their own artistic creations. Hawaii's annual and related artistic expressions present opportunities for even lesser-known artists to establish a following of appreciators.

Wong explains that the name adopted for the global movement is drawn from the comic book tradition of cartooned images often combined with ballooned or captioned text. Wong points to the fact that "POW!" is what we read when a superhero lands a punch; when one experiences something of impact—especially artful impact—it's all about the "WOW!"

In ancient times, Kaka'ako low-lying wetlands were dotted with fishponds, lo'i, and salt flats. Then, as westerners made their way to the islands and Honolulu became more industrialized, Kaka'ako was no longer a place based in island aquaculture and agriculture.

VKULELE PICOIC12

The 12th annual 'Ukulele Picnic in Hawai'i will return to Oahu on Sunday, February 16th, featuring well-known local and international 'ukulele musicians. Hosted by the 'Ukulele Foundation of Hawai'i, the 'Ukulele Picnic in Hawai'i is a free event that uses the 'ukulele to connect people across the differences of language and race. Since the first event in 2009, more than 5,000 people participate in the event from all over the world each year, increasing awareness about the 'ukulele, and building a strong following for Hawaiian music.

"We are excited to welcome back 'Ukulele Picnic in Hawai'i for another year and to bring the beautiful music of the 'ukulele to a new venue for even more guests to enjoy," said Kazuyuki Sekiguchi, 'Ukulele Picnic in Hawai'i creator and producer. "Since we started this event 12 years ago, it has been overwhelming to see how the event has grown and touched the lives of so many—from aspiring musicians to music enthusiasts--it's a great chance for everyone to celebrate our island music and the aloha spirit."

Kicking off at 9 a.m. at Victoria Ward Park at Ward Village, which is located at the area that was previously occupied by Marukai. The free event will showcase musicians

Publisher's Letter

Hug your Loyed ones tighter today

I had a perfectly normal Publisher's Letter penned, and I thought once or twice about just going ahead and using it, but after what just happened at the base of Diamond Head, it just seemed too disingenuous to write silly, happy, nonsensical dribble when our community has been struck by a tragedy of such mammoth proportions. This tragedy has touched virtually every person I know in one way or another. Every time another story came out, I heard another name I knew. I know the lady that was walking her dogs, hiding behind a wall next to SWAT live streaming while shots rang out, I know the neighbors who ran across the street to get the victims out of the way, I know the young couple who lived next door with their newborn baby who fortunately, were safely in the air when everything transpired, only to land and discover everything, everything, they owned was gone except what was in their suitcases. I know the next door neighbor who had been suing the guy for years, I know multiple others who live on thay street that fortunately were spared, and most of all, I knew the homeowner my entire life. A dear friend of my mothers, she was actually supposed to spend Christmas Eve with my family a few weeks back, but called up late that afternoon to cancel because she was dealing with the fact her tenant had locked her out of the house. I personally did not know the officers, but based on the pictures I am seeing out there, a lot of you sure did. Tragic. If only we knew then what we knew now, maybe this could have been prevented, but somehow I doubt it, because in any scenario I could ever envision evicting a tenant, I never ever, ever would have come upon this devastating of a result. The magnitude of this tragedy is beyond the scope of anything I could ever imagine. The healing will take a long time, but Hawaii takes care of its own. The Go Fund Me's have been going strong in mere days as the community rallies around those that lost their lives or their homes in this tragedy, and banks are now getting into the act, giving people a safe place to donate to the families of the fallen police officers. What struck me most was the memorial at the Waikiki Police Substation, and to see how many visitors were there shedding tears and sharing their aloha as well. In Hawaii, aloha lives, even through tragedy, so keep sharing your aloha, and be sure to hug those you love a bit tighter when you go home.

The show will also include performances from 2019 Nā Hōkū Hanohano Favorite Entertainer of the Year, Taimane, in her first headline show in the State since receiving her Hōkū award, as well as Hawaiian Supergroup, Iron Mango, comprised of four Hōkū-award winning local musicians: "Pure Heart" members Jon Yamasato and Lopaka Colon, Richard Gideon of "Maunalua" and 'ukulele superstar Kalei Gamiao. Two shows available. Tickets: $35-$45, are available at bluenotehawaii.com.

Both 'Ukulele Picnic in Hawai'i events are open to the public and free of charge. All funds raised from the event will benefit the development of the 'Ukulele Museum in Kaka'ako. Once complete the museum will bring together 'ukulele fans from around the world, contributing to children's educational development as well as providing a venue for musical events and a place to gather. In in 2010, the State of Hawaii agreed to give the Ukulele Foundation a site by the Kaka'ako Waterfront Park for the museum, but after OHA took over the area, the agreement fell apart and they continue to seek a location for the museum that will offer a permanent collection about the history of the 'ukulele and its contribution to Hawaiian music.

There is still time this month for your guests to catch the final weeks of three engaging plays that opened earlier this year. All three deal with murder, hopefully this is not a sign for things to come in Honolulu's arts and cultural scene in 2020.

MANOA VALLEY THEATRE has successfully mounted a production of the 2015 Tony Award winning play The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time which runs until February 9th. The play is adapted by Simon Stephen from a mystery novel written by author Mark Haddon that surrounds the death of a neighbor's dog in Swindon, England that leads to self-discovery for the main character. The play is narrated by a 15-year-old boy named Christopher Boone, who suffers from autism, but is high functioning enough (think Rain Man) to launch a detective investigation that is spawned by the above mentioned murder of Wellington, the dog, by a pitchfork. The audience gets to see the ordinary world through Christopher's eyes as he journeys off on his own to discover the many truths about his life that his father has hidden from him. I don't want to give away any more of the plot, but I can write that this play is an excitedly intense theatrical experience where the ensemble of actors not only perform a variety of characters but are also used as the scenery. The set is comprised of a series of lights and projections that showcase what is going on in Christopher's mind. Tickets are $40 for adults, $35 for seniors & military and $22 for patrons under 25. Performances run Wednesdays & Thursdays at 7:30 p.m., Fridays & Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 4 p.m. Call 988-6131 or visit manoavalleytheatre.com. This is truly a theatrical experience not to be missed.

Another experience not to be missed is anything theatrical regarding Agatha Christie, who wrote several plays for the theatre, the most popular entitled "The Mousetrap" which has been running for over 65 years in London's West End. One story she did not write for the stage is "Murder on the Orient Express" which has been adapted to the screen twice, most recently by Kenneth Branagh. The stage retelling of this story has been adapted by prolific playwright Ken Ludwig and a new production can be seen at DIAMOND HEAD THEATRE. The play, which has been extended to February 16th, showcases the talents of deduction by Agatha Christie's most famous detective, Hercule Poirot. The plots surround the murder of an American Tycoon on the famous Orient Express train from Istanbul to Paris. The cast of murder suspects on board the train, that is stranded by a snowdrift in the mountains of Yugoslavia, include a Russian Princess, a protective Count and his beautiful wife, an American actress, as well as an assortment of passengers ranging from the murdered tycoon's personal assistant to a car salesman. Monsieur Poirot discovers that they all have something in common, but the question is... is it murder? Well, you'll have to buy a ticket to find out, which range from $15 to $50 and performances are Thursdays through Saturdays at 7:30 p.m., Saturday matinees at 3 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 4 p.m. To purchase tickets, call 733-0274 or visit diamondheadtheatre.com.

If your guests are looking for a murder with some Hawaiian connections, I suggest sending them to see KUMU KAHUA THEATRE's new production of "Way of a God" which also runs until February 16th. Written by one of Kumu Kahua Theatre's founders, Dennis Carroll, with Hawaiian scenes translated by Tammy Haili'opua Baker, the play chronicles the infamous and tragic final journey of Captain Cook as he returns to the Hawaiian Islands and is mistaken as the God Lono. Very much like a Greek tragedy, the character of Captain Cook believes that he is a god and ultimately it is that embodiment that is his ruin. The play bounces back and forth in time with Cook speaking to King George III, The Earl of Sandwich and his wife Betty while being treated as a god by the Hawaiians. It is through these conversations that the audience gets to understand Cook's inner thoughts and challenges. What's even more exciting about this production, is that all the scenes with the Hawaiian characters are spoken in Hawaiian. Don't worry, there will be subtitles. The performance runs Thursday, Friday, Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 3 p.m. Kumu Kahua is truly the theatre to send your guests when they want to know more about the real Hawaii. For those who want to learn more about Hawaiian history, but are just not museum people, this is the perfect place to send them. Tickets are $20. Call 536-4441 or kukukahua.org. Don't forget to also send them to Smith & Kings afterwards for a shot of tequila. ~ Lamce Rae

Looking for Pancakes on Fat Tuesday?

Americans love a celebration, so even non-Christians dive wholeheartedly into Mardi Gras or Fat Tuesday, which takes place February 25.

Honolulu's Chinatown is the place to be for a night of revelry with four nightclubs teaming up to present the Mardi Gras Bar Crawl, with DJ music, live bands, food and drink specials, and free beads for celebrants. Tickets are $15 to $25 at eventbrite.com, and allows single point registration for entry to each venue, NextDoor, Bar 35, Downbeat Diner and Manifest.

The celebration marks the start of Lent, a 40-day period of self-denial before Easter, when centuries ago, Christians abstained from eating all animal products, from meat and lard, to eggs and dairy products.

At a time when there was no refrigeration, families used up all the eggs and dairy in their pantries ahead of Ash Wednesday, hence the preparation of cakes, pancakes, malasadas and other pastries, leading to today's tradition of starting Fat Tuesday with pancakes galore.

On Oahu, there's no shortage of places to get your fill of pancakes day and night. Here are a few places where you can indulge in some unique pancake offerings, including some very Hawaii-style treats.

Bills: Australian chef, restaurateur and author Bill Granger is known for a healthful take on contemporary cuisine, but many flock to his restaurants around the world—and Hawaii is no exception—for his ricotta pancakes. They start off light and fluffy, with tangy ricotta to cut the sugar of accompanying maple syrup and honeycomb butter. These favorites are on the menu for breakfast, lunch and dinner. 280 Beachwalk Avenue, Waikiki. 922-1500.

Dean & Deluca Hawaii: The second-floor

Souffle-style pancakes. Picture by Nadine Kam

Artisan Loft provides an ideal setting for gourmet brunches, lunch, happy hour and dinner. One of Chef Kevin's brunch specialties, available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., is a short stack of light souffle-style pancakes served in a cast-iron pot with layers of ohia lehua honey mascarpone, wild berry minute jam, and finished with lberico prosciutto salt and seasonal fruit. Ritz-Carlton Waikiki, 383 Kalaimoku Street. 729-9720.

IHOP: It's hard to beat free, and it's been IHOP's tradition for 14 years to offer one free short stack of its buttermilk pancakes per guest on National Pancake Day, which this year falls on Fat Tuesday. In return, they are hoping guests will make a donation to Children's Miracle Network, Shriners Hospital for Children or the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society. The free pancake special runs from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., or while supplies last. On Oahu there are three IHOP's located at 2211 Kuhio Avenue in Waikiki (921-2400), 1850 Ala Moana Boulevard (949-4467) and 98-1254 Kaahumanu Street. in Pearl City (486-4467).

Mac 24/7: This Waikiki restaurant quickly became known for its stack of 14-inch, buttermilk pancakes that can take three to four people to finish. Out of this legend came the M.A.C. Daddy Pancake Challenge in which a lone contestant is challenged to eat three of the pancakes, which weigh in at 5 pounds, in 90 minutes. Winners receive an official T-shirt, a photo on the restaurant's Wall of Fame and website, and get the $25 pancakes free. Outside the challenge, glutenfree mochi pancakes with a pleasantly chewy consistency, and red velvet pancakes with chocolate chips, made-bourbon glaze and lemon cream cheese icing, are worth trying. Hilton Waikiki Beach, 2500 Kuhio Avenue. 921-5564

Moke's Bread & Breakfast: There are two locations where you can fill up on Moke's divine lilikoi pancakes. The signature pancakes are highlighted by a pour of creamy, mellow lilikoi sauce. When other fruits are in season, you may find other tropical flavors, such as a delicious mango sauce, with the pancakes finished with a dusting of li hing salt to balance its sweetness. At 1127 11th Avenue in Kaimuki (367-0571), and 27 Hoolai Street in Kailua (261-5565). Note: You'll have to start this celebration a day ahead because Moke's is closed on Tuesdays.

Yogurstory:

This eatery as a frozen yogurt shop in 2010, but has since become best known for its vivid purple ube pancakes. They start with a batter that incorporates Okinawan sweet potatoes, which are then layered with a purple ube sauce comprised of mountain yams, Okinawan sweet potatoes, coconut milk, condensed milk, butter and sugar, true to the indulgent spirit of Mardi Gras. Located at 815 Keeaumoku Street #105. 942-0505.

Imagine being inspired by a musical idol at a young age to earn an instrument, and then have that idol pick you to portray him onstage That's what happened to Michael Cavanaugh, but the writing was on the wall a long time earlier, In his case, fate actually intervened to make his dreams come true.

Inspired by the music of Billy Joel, after his dad played him the song "Big Shot" when he was kid, Cavanaugh has idolized Billy Joel ever since. He began playing piano at seven years old, formed his first band at the age of 10, played his first bar at 12 and by the tender age of 14, he was performing in bars up to five nights a week. With his impressive piano skills Cavanaugh and dead-on vocals, he evn earned himself the nickname "Young Joel" as a teen.

Fast forward a few years and Cavanaugh landed his first full-time musical gig at a piano bar called Blazing Pianos in Florida. From there he went to Vegas, and landed a gig at the dueling piano bar at the New York-New York hotel. It was there that his life would change forever. It seems he had met and become friends with Joel's tour manager after he had heard Cavanaugh's set, and a few months later, Billy Joel was coming to town for a concert. Cavanaugh was hoping since he knew the tour manager that he might actually be able to meet his hero. The manager came through, not only introducing Cavanaugh to Billy Joel, but bringing him to the show to hear him play. A few songs into the set, the Piano Man himself sat down across from him and started playing with him. It was if all of Cavanaugh's dreams had come true, since, as he sid himself, "Billy will always be my musical hero!" Little did he know, that evening would change his life forever. Turns out, famed choreographer Twyla Tharp was working on a musical featuring Joel's music at that time, that eventually became the hit musical "Movin' Out," and Cavanaugh's hero, Billy jJoel, hand selected him to portay him on stage. Talk about dreams coming true!

The show first opened in Chicago, before moving to Broadway, where it played for three years where Cavanaugh handled about somehwere between 1,000 -1,200 of the show's 1,300 performances himself, receiving critical acclaim and rave reviews. The show was nominated for nine Tony Awards, Cavanaugh went on to receive Tony and Grammy award nominations for his Broadway role as Joel in "Moving Out."

After the closed in 2005, Cavanaugh was approached by the Indianapolis Symphony about being a guest performer. He had actually performed with a symphony once before, at Carnegie Hall no less, and the thought excited him. He accepted his first orchestral booking, "Michael Cavanaugh – The Songs of Billy Joel and More," which debuted in April 2008 with the Indianapolis Symphony and began touring in his own right, creating 3 more symphony shows featruing the songs of Elton John, Paul Simon, Neil Diamond, James Taylor and more.

Michael soon became one of the hottest artists in the private events market, and he continues to perform worldwide for company and charity events as well as sporting events including many PGA tour events, the Indy 500, and even the SuperBowl. His interpretation of the modern rock/pop songbook led to Billboard calling him "The New Voice of the American Rock and Roll Songbook," and he was recognized by Reuters as Entertainer of the Year for the private events market. He continues to tour all four symphony productions today, along with performing with his band in performing arts centers and other public venues.

The Hawaii Symphony Orchestra #musicthatrocks series has garnered quite a fan base since its inception a few years ago, and the HSO is thrilled to be bringing Michael Cavanaugh and The Music of Billy Joel to the Blaisdell Concert Hall on Friday, February 28th at 7:30 p.m.

With comments such as "Pure Talent" "Blew me away!" and "Simply Amazing" and based on Windborne's Music success with shows such as the music of Queen, this show will definitely sell out. Tickets: $36-$95 and are available at hawaiisymphonyorchestra.com.

FOW! WOW! HEWA!

During the 19th and 20th centuries, the area was filled with local businesses, but it lacked vibrancy. According to a current University of Hawai'i student who grew up knowing Kaka'ako Shaun Barte, "[lt] was nothing but parking lots. The city did not look like it was being taken care of, and it was not one of the nicest places to visit on the island."

Today, Kaka'ako is inviting and active with energy and diversity. SALT spans an entire city block with a bustling of shops, restaurants, and condos celebrating entrepreneurs, signature chefs, and an unrivaled nightlife. And murals created by the very best of POW! WOW! Hawai'i's paint masters delight the eyes and nurture the soul.

In September of 2018, POW! WOW! artists joined artists who live, work, and go to school in the Kaimuki–Palolo area to transform traffic sign boxes into canvases so as to bring beautification beyond town and into other areas of O'ahu. The goal was to make multisided mini murals out of what had previously been graffiti targets with the hope of establish a sense of enrichment through outreach and engagement. Many of your visitors will see their work as far as Haleiwa as they drive throughout the island.

POW! WOW! HAWAII! Twenty Twenty will showcase the work of dozens of local and visiting artists along with some of the most progressive musicmakers and dancers. Grounded within our local island businesses, POW! WOW! promises to impress through expression from start to end. For more info, go to powwowworldwide.com. ~Karyl Garland

Dining Dish

Viaggio celebrated its first anniversary by giving its kitchen a complete overhaul and bringing in Jeffrey Vigilla as their new Executive Chef and he brought in an entirely new kitchen staff. The results breath new life into this restaurant. Although only there a few weeks, Chef has already updated the menu, adding some exciting new traditional Italian dishes with local flair, which means incorporating as many local ingredients as possible. If his name sounds familiar to you, it may be because he spent over 6 years as the Executive Chef at the Hilton Hawaiian Village. He is a firm believer in sourcing local whenever possible, to not only support our local farms, but also gives the guests the freshest and most flavorful ingredients. If his new dishes are any indication, he is on the right track, wowing diers on his debut, and the yuzu vinaigrette he created to go with the crudo was as good as that fresh Kampachi he used. Other menu stand outs included the Fritti Antipasti, featuring Kauai shrimp, calamari and red pepper lemon cream ($18); Spanish octopus with sautéed potatoes, saffron aioli ($24); and the Filet di Manzo with Gorgonzola and Porcini sauce ($42). I didn't get to try his Pappardelle Bolognese with a beef-pork ragu ($24) but it looked absolutely outstanding as it passed by, and I will certainly order that the next time I am there. I'm excited to see what else he does with the menu after he gets settled there. His flavors and presentations are on point! Open 6 days a week from 4 - 9 p.m., the restaurant offers happy hour from 4 - 6 nightly, and is closed Mondays. Go to viaggiohonolulu.com to see the menu and call 592-8881. • Another favorite chef of mine, Chef Chai, has introduced an Early Bird Dinner Special. Enjoy a 4-course prix fixe meal for only $42 per person from 4 -5 p.m. Enjoy a family-style appetizer sampler with some of Chef's signature appetizers like chefs Kataifi and Macnut Crusted Jumbo Black Tiger Prawns and Smoked Duck Tacos, choose from a choice of entree and dessert. Last seating is at 4:45 p.m. See the full prix fixe menu online at chefchai.com. • Bogart's Café@the popular Monsarrat eatery, is now offering dinner Wednesday through Sunday from 5:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. In a sharp contrast from their popular Acai bowls and breakfast bagels, their new dinner menu includes such items as Sauteéd Scallops ($16) with cauliflower puree, white truffle oil, black tobiko; fresh, housemade pastas and risotto including a Uni Tagliatelle ($23) with homemade pasta, sea urchin and crab; as well as a Basque Fish Stew ($30) featuring Atlantic salmon, Kauai shrimp, smoked paprika and aioli. Breakfast will continue to be served from 7 a.m. - 2 p.m. with the cafe staying open fin between breakfast and dinner for drinks and acai. Check out the menu at bogartscafe.com or call 739-0999. • The Moana Surfrider is bringing back their Moana Masters Cooking Series for 2020. These events began last year after Moana's own Chef Colin Sato was named one of Marriott International's Masters of Craft in 2018 after advancing to the finals of the competition designed to discover and showcase some of the best talent behind Marriott's restaurants and bars that featured more than 2,200 of the company's best. See the dining calendar for their latest offerings. • 12th Ave Grill's Kevin Hanney has opened a quick and casual eatery on Hobron Lane in the former Da Smoke House location called Chopchop Rotisserie. With a multi-layered rotisserrie that slow-roasts a variety of meats and vegetables (such as miso pork, short ribs, chicken, cauliflower and brussel sprouts) all day long, quest can choose from plates that come with a fresh salad and and made from scratch sides or over rice in a bowl. we're talking high quality plates and bowls for fast food prices (around $9-$15). Kevin's wife Denise says "Somewhere neighborhood residents and visitors alike can count on for a warm delicious meal several times a week without the fuss of making a reservation or resorting to fast food. Open from 5 - 9 p.m. Sunday - Thursday and until 10 p.m. Friday and Saturdays. Call 425-4268. • Lastly, Highway Inn has relocated its Waipahu location after 35 year. The new 5,000 square-foot venue is located at 94-830 Moloalo Street, next to the Waipahu Rail Transit station, and provides more seating, a bar and space for live music on Fridays. Currently opening for breakfast at 10 a.m. daily, earlier hours are expected to be announced this month. 677-4345.

Chef's Corner

Deck's Executive Sous Masatsugu Kubo

Chef Masa as he is known, first started in the industry washing dishes in a small mom & pop Italian restaurant in his home town of Kobe, Japan. After graduating high school, the owner of the Italian restaurant saw his passion towards culinary and gave Masa a chance to go to Italy to train under real Italian chefs. He didn't exactly know what he wanted to do at the time, so he said why not? It was then that he decided to actually make something out of his passion towards cooking.

What first sparked your interest in culinary?

I started working at an Italian restaurant when I was in high school. At first it was just an after school thing to earn money to buy a motorcycle, than I realized I was actually interested in cooking. Since I was a child I've been the type that once I find something that strikes my interests I become absorbed in it. After my interests for science projects and bugs, cooking became my devotion.

Where did you receive your training?

I like to think I'm always training, trying to be a better self tomorrow than I am today. After graduation, I picked up a backpack and my kitchen knives and went to Italy not knowing anyone or a word of Italian. From the day I arrived there over 20 years ago, I often put myself in challenging positions so I can thrive to become a better chef and a better being.

You once apprenticed with a reknown pizza maker in Italy, do you still make pizzas?

The highlights of my experience under him in Italy wasn't exactly that I learned how to make pizza, it's more how he treated his ingredients, the way he kept the kitchen clean, how he worked with his team. I watched and learned the basics of how to become a great chef. And of course, how to make amazing tomato sauce.

Who would you consider your mentor and why?

I had the opportunity of joining one of the best restaurants in Japan, and one of the first to serve western cuisine influenced by Japanese ingredients and skills. I wanted to learn from a great Japanese chef, and Kihachi Kumagai, the chef of the restaurant had amazing techniques choose the best ingredients, treated them in the most delicate way, and found the best ways to cook them to bring out the best out of them. My cooking has been influenced by him ever since. Simplicity is key.

How would you describe your style of cooking? I like to keep things simple, and find ways to bring out the best of the ingredients that I use.

I've been lucky and have had chances to work in many different environments, from high-end dining, to casual Italian restaurants, to a 400year old authentic Japanese restaurant. When making the menu, I always think in the guests' perspective...what would they want to eat?

Explain how you work at Deck but not for Deck?

Plan Do See, a hospitality group out of Tokyo, is the company that runs Deck. I've been with them for over 13 years now, and oh boy, I've been through a lot with them. Being in the same company has given me a whole range of chances (challenges) that I've always said yes to, and I will probably keep on this journey.

When did you move to the states?

I came to the states 5 years ago, to Miami to open up a Japanese restaurant, Azabu Miami.

What changes have you made since arriving?

Before, the dinner and lunch menu were quite similar, burgers, tacos, very casual. There's nothing wrong with that, but when I saw Deck, and the gorgeous sunset views reflecting on Diamond Head, I wanted our guests to be able to have a more relaxing dinner time here. I created more shareable items. I could see people popping open a bottle of wine, gathering around a table and enjoying things family style. I also made the menu more seafood focused

What are your plans there going forward?

I think I want to make deeper connections with the local farms and chefs here, and I'm hoping to have some fun collaborations here at Deck.

What's the best part about living in Hawai?

Aside the beautiful views and the gorgeous weather, I like the unique culture Hawaii has from its' history. The 'Aloha spirit' is something very unique to these islands are definitely something I'm proud to be a part of.

What do you like to do most on your days off?

I like to go fishing, I actually always have a fishing rod in my car so I can fish anytime. And of course, I love to cook what I catch and explore new flavors.

Mediterranean Style Grilled Octopus

Ingredients: Octopus: Octopus Legs Salt (to taste)

Fresh Lemon (to taste) Mashed Potatoes (to taste) Arugula (to taste)

Ingredients: Herb salsa: Sprig of Fresh Rosemary Sprig of Italian parsley Sprig of Dill

1 Shallot (chopped) Sprig of Thyme White pepper (to taste) Crushed chili pepper (to taste)

Salt (to taste) 2 tbsp Extra Virgin Olive Oil (or until smoothly blended)

Direction: Sous vide octopus for 1-2 hours until tender with light salt and lemon.

Herb Salsa: Prepare house herb salsa by mixing rosemary, italian parsley, dill, shallots, thyme, white pepper, crushed chili pepper, salt and extra virgin olive oil. Set aside. Whale Season is here!

Our cetacean friends are already halfway through another wonderful season of tailslapping ocean antics here in the islands, and it's no surprise that their annual visit is one of the mostanticipated season in the islands.

A whale breaches off of Koko Head

February is prime viewing time to make sure your guests get a chance to see the gentle ocean giants before they swim away. Although I rarely start seeing these beautiful giants around Oahu before February, I was pleasantly surprised to see multiple active pods on New Year's Day, and they have just kept popping up to say hello ever since. That bodes well for a great whale watching season, but as most whales only stay here for a few weeks, I wonder if that means they may leave sooner than expected.

From around November to May, the warm, shallow waters around Hawaii are ideal for whales to mate and give birth, which is why these peaceful mammals return year after year. When summer comes, they return to the cool, planktonrich ocean off the coast of Alaska to stuff themselves before they have to trek south again. Humpbacks live between forty and sixty years so it's almost like visiting with old friends when they come back to visit each winter.

Weighing in at a massive 25 to 40 tons, humpbacks are the fifth largest species of whale, growing up to 50 feet long. Calves are 12 to 15 feet at birth and weigh in around 3,000 pounds or so. They are easy to identify by their distinctive gray or black coloring contrasting with the white underbelly and underside of their pectoral fins and fluke (tail). The white pattern on the bottom of the fluke is unique to each humpback and can be used to identify individuals just like a fingerprint. These markings can often be spotted when they breach. The best way to get a great view of their playful jumps and tail slapping is on the water. Luckily for your quests, there are plenty of chances for great photo ops on a wide range of sails around the island.

Your guests do not have to get out on the ocean to see whales. If they are lucky, they can spot them from the beach or their room, and often those beach booze cruises get lucky and catch sight of one. There's even been some amazing stories from Atlantis Submarines when they have been lucky enough to have a whale swim right past them underwater. But, if your guest wants to take an official whale watch, where whales are often guaranteed or they reride for free, here are just a few options to choose from.

Atlantis Cruises offers a whale-watch onboard the Majestic from 11:30 - 2 p.m. with prices beginning at $48 and lunch available for those who want it for a fee. Tours are 2.5 hours and whales are guaranteed through March 31st. Call 973-1311 or log onto atlantisadventures.com.

Hawaii Nautical offers two whalewatches daily from Kewalo Basin. A 2-hour morning sail at 8 a.m. for $89 and and 1.5-hour afternoon sail at 3 p.m. for $69. They also offer a 2-hour sail at 1:30 p.m. out of Waianae Harbor for $89. Call 234-SAIL (7245) or hawaiinautical.com.

Star of Honolulu offers 2-hour whale-watches at 8:45 a.m. and noon, with prices starting at $42 and breakfast or lunch available for those who want it for a fee. Whales guaranteed through April 5th and kids go free. Call 983-7730 or log onto starofhonolulu.com.

Wild Side Specialty Tours uses small boats for more intimate tours offering dolphin, whale watches, and turtle encounters for 5-10 people. Prices start at $175 and depart from Waianae Boat Harbor. Call 306-7273 or sailhawaii.com.

And for the ultimate in private charters, call Hawaii Sailing Adventures at 821-1502 or hawaiisailingadventures.com. ~ Pam

Concierge of the Month

NAME: Allison Hamilton

HOTEL: Expedia

TITLE: Expedia Concierge

Q. How long have you been with Expedia?

A. 6 years, I tried to leave Hawaii once & instantly regretted it. Expedia gave me the opportunity to come back with a fresh perspective!

Q. Where did you work before?

A. Make-A-Wish Hawaii planning trips for wish kids to visit the islands.

Q. Are you at one hotel or do you move around? A. I typically move between the Hilton Waikiki Beach Hotel & Outrigger Waikiki Beach Resort.

Q. What is the biggest challenge at the desk?

A. Trying to show our value face-to-face in an ever-changing digital market

Q. What do you like most about this industry?

A. The people! I have the best team in the world at Expedia, amazing staff at our hotel properties, and the guests bring excitement to this job.

Q. What's the most unusual request you've had?
A. A gentleman visiting from India asked if he could ride a dolphin home. I laughed, but he was dead serious. I told him it would be a long was dead serious. I told him it would be a long journey & I wasn't sure customs would approve. But he did create unique memories snorkeling with them on the west side & had photos to capture that moment. So, it felt like a win.

Q. What one question do you hear the most? A. Tell me about Pearl Harbor...

Q. Is there a guest that stands out? Why?

A. I recently had a family planning a luau. When I asked if they were celebrating anything special, the mother teared up and explained they were celebrating her son's life, as he recently passed away from cancer. I hugged her & explained that Hawaii has this special way of making your loved ones feel close. I made it my mission to find little ways to bring joy to her vacation.

Q. How do you deal with those "difficult" guests?
A. Listen first & use lots of extra aloha! So many times, people just want to be heard. Every challenge is an opportunity for us to turn it around to a positive resolution.

Q. What's your favorite thing to recommend?

A. Explore the island! Waikiki is only the jumping off point, there's so much more to see & do.

Q. What's your fave restaurant to recommend? A. Hula Grill, it's the perfect combination of local ingredients & great ambiance.

Q. One of your nominations said you embody Expedia's love for travel. Do you travel a lot?

A. YES, travel is my passion! I set a goal to see 100 countries, and I'm currently at 83. When I'm not at the desk, I'm usually on a plane overseas.

Q. Where are you from originally?

A. Tennessee. I definitely love my Southern roots. I moved to Hawaii right after college to escape & figure out my next steps. Life has a way of bringing you where you're meant to be.

Q. Any other comments you'd like to share?

A. How lucky are we to have such a beautiful home, where people save up just to come & visit once in their lives. Don't ever take it for granted!
