KEEPING THE HOSPITALITY INDUSTRY INFORMED SINCE 1998

LEBRATES 110 YEARS From the time we keiki. the Waikiki Aquarium was always an adventure. It was the place where the creatures of the ocean became real, sometimes scary-real, but we wanted to go back, over and over, press our nose to the glass and watch them wiggle.

Tiny fishes were in the waves at the beach, uncles brought home bigger fish for dinner, and the fresh fish cases at Tamashiro Market always held amazing creatures, both facinating and scary. The only place to really learn about our ocean friends was, and still is, the Waikiki Aquarium.

On March 19 and 22 the Aquarium has an offer no one can refuse. In honor of their 110th Anniversary, they will be offering $1.10 admission all day into the Aquarium celebrate. See, it turns out that our Aquarium happens to be the second oldest aguarium in the nation, established on March 10, 1904.

On March 19th, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., the day will begin with a performance by the Royal Hawaiian Band as they lead everyone is a rousing version of Happy Birthday. Guest speakers and booths filled with Aquarium partners will take over the Great Lawn to discuss ocean issues and the Aquarium's various internal research projects with free birthday cake for all while supplies last.

March 22, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. families are invited to enjoy a variety of activities. Arrive early to catch three noted local artists, Patrick Ching, Scot Goto and Mike Furuya as they create "Great Marine Chalk Art". At 11 a.m. Johnson Enos will present his musical "Honu by the Sea". The Aquarium will celebrate a seal and shark themed birthday party, arts and crafts, a Lego build and other family friendly activities.

Here's a bit of history you may not know. The Waikiki Aquarium opened in 1904 as the Honolulu Aquarium, established as a commercial venture by the Honolulu Rapid Transit and Land Company, who wished to "show the world the riches of Hawaii's reefs." As directors of the transit company, Charles M. Cooke gave a gift of $8,000 for the Aquarium's construction, and James B. Castle contributed the lease for the building site. Their practical objective was enticing passengers to ride to the end of the new trolley line in Kapi'olani Park, where the Aquarium was located, directly across from the trolley stop.

The Aquarium opened with 35 tanks and 400 marine organisms, and during its first year, the internationally renowned biologist David Starr Jordan proclaimed it as having the finest collection of fishes in the world. Considered state-ofthe-art at the time, the Aquarium also received positive comments from such notable visitors of that era as William Jennings Bryan and Jack London.

Frederick Potter, a clerk for the Honolulu Rapid Transit Company, was transferred to manage the aquarium, becoming the first Director in 1904. Despite his lack of formal training in marine sciences, Potter was a great fan of Hawaiian ichthyology, serving as director until May 1940. Potter's Angelfish Centropyge potteri, was named in his honor.

For 15 years the aquarium was privately financed with display animals collected by local fishermen. In 1912, the C.M. Cooke Estate donated funds for a marine biology laboratory adjoining the Aquarium, beginning its research tradition. The property lease expired in 1919, the Cooke Estate then ceded the lease to the Territory of Hawaii, and the newly formed University of Hawaii assumed administration of the Aquarium and the laboratory.

In the 1940's Spencer Tinker was director, writing books on Hawaiian fishes, Pacific

ALA MOANA SHOPPING CENTER

This year's

Shop a Le'a

gift is by

Kipling

Fashionistas and shopaholics rejoice! The 7th annual Shop a Le'a returns to Ala Moana Center this month with seven days of shopping euphoria to be enjoyed by all. This spring fashion fling has become quite the event in Honolulu since it's debut back in 2008 that coincided with the completion of their last massive redevelopment project and the Nordstrom opening. Seven years later it is has become one of Honolulu's premier shopping events attracting everyone from local shopping divas to visiting fashionistas in need of some retail therapy.

Kicking off on Monday, March 17th the Center will feature live entertainment and fashion shows all week long. Gone is the innovative pink-carpet throughout the mall that models strutted down during construction in years past. Now that the newly renovated Centerstage has reopened, all entertainment and fashion shows will take place there. At 6 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday there will be live musical performances, then the fashion shows kick off on Thursday with Reyn Spooner at 6 p.m. On Friday. the ultimate invitation-only red-carpet event, Passport to Luxury will start at 5 p.m. Shoppers are still welcome at the mall during the private event. Over the weekend, the fashions shows start getting serious, with one taking place every hour, beginning at noon on Saturday until 5 p.m. and again on Sunday until 3 p.m.

Publisher's Letter Spring Føvør bøgins

It feels like this year is whizzing by. My schedule is already booked solid clear though April and things have been so busy everything seems to be on overdrive. This month is no exception. I've been sitting here making cuts to the editorial as there just simply isn't enough room to fit everything in. Normally I relate March to St. Patrick's Day, Shop a Le'a and the Honolulu Festival, and that's about it. Nothing else really. Not this time. All three of those are happening again this month, but in addition there are some really exciting things going on – from the Aquarium hitting a milestone anniversary of 110 years, to the excitement brewing around Hokule'a's upcoming voyage around the world, and that's just the beginning. There's really a lot of things happening around town these days and we're going to do our best to get all the information out to you. The way it's going I think my next three issues are out of space already!

Speaking of space issues, your surveys are coming in fast and furiously and as always your responses are fascinating, and usually polar opposite from one survey to the next. For example one survey states that Yada Yada is one of the top 3 sections that person finds the most useful since it lets them keep track of who is where, followed by the very next survey I pick up which states Yada Yada is the section they use the least. The same thing happens section after section, survey after survey, that it's going to take me some time to put all the results together. I figure you guys would probably be as interested in the results as I am, so I'll work on putting it all together and share that with you next month. Same thing goes for sending out the prizes. The surveys are still coming in, so I'm going to wait a little while longer before I draw the winners so that everyone has a chance to enter. I'll announce the winners of the gift certificates next month when I post the results. Thanks to all of that are taking the time to share your opinion. Your input is valuable and I will take it all into consideration.

I also wanted to thank all of you that reached to me in response to last month's publisher's letter. I know a few of you took it the wrong way and for that I apologize. I am not trying to tell anyone to stop contacting me, just to have a bit of patience when you do if I do not get back to you immediately. It doesn't mean you shouldn't reach out if you have a question either. I am always happy to answer your questions, however random they may be. Honestly because of some of your questions over the years I have discovered discounts and opportunities for you that I never would have known about otherwise if I hadn't been asked to look further. I may not know the answer myself, but I almost always know someone I can ask who would know the answer. I am firmly of the mindset it never hurts to ask because the worse someone can say is no. So please, continue to ask away. I was just asking for a little patience and consideration throughout the process and it sounds as if most of you understand that, so thank you... and for those of you that always RSVP on time. Mahalo!

Children of all ages are fascinated by the Waikiki Aquarium.

crustaceans, and other marine life: his book "Hawaiian Fishes", remains a classic. To honor his service, Tinker's Butterflyfish Chaetodon tinkeri, was named after him. In 1949 the Territorial Legislature funded construction of a new building to be called the Waikiki Aquarium that opened in 1955. Tinker stayed on until 1973. During this time admission fees were deposited to the State General Fund. With no money for upkeep, the facility fell into disrepair and the Aquarium was in soon in urgent need of a new vision.

In 1975 Dr. Leighton Taylor was appointed the third Director. An ichthyologist by training, and a world-renowned expert on sharks, Dr. Taylor was on the U.H. Zoology faculty. By accepting donations, memberships and grants, the Aquarium was able to fund increased services and to renovate exhibits. He produced a revitalized institution and nurtured innovative exhibits, including the chambered nautilus and living corals, and improved the water quality on exhibit tanks, maintaining health of exhibit specimens. As before, Taylor's goby Trimma taylori is named in his honor.

In 1990 Dr. Bruce Carlson became the fourth director, and worked to design new and more naturalistic exhibits that focused on the marine life of Hawai'i and the western Pacific and developed a set of clearly defined goals and plans. He also initiated the coral propagation program, for which the Aquarium is now world-renowned. He increased staffing, revenues and oversaw the $3.2 million renovation. The Aquarium was then designated a Coastal Ecosystem Learning Center of the Coastal America partnership. In May 2002, Dr. Carlson moved on to the Georgia Aquarium in Atlanta. Three reef animals are named after him: the damselfish Paraglyphidodon carlsoni, and anthias fish Pseudanthias carlsoni, and a nudibranch Halgirda carlsoni.

In April 2004, after an extensive international search, Dr. Andrew Rossiter was appointed the fifth director, joining the Aquarium at the onset of its 100th Anniversary celebrations. Since receiving his Ph.D. from the University of Wales in 1983, his career has taken him to five continents, and includes studies on the ecology, evolution and behavior of many different animals from freshwater insects to tortoises. He has published 30 scientific papers, four books, and received many awards, grants and accolades. An avid aquarium and pond fish keeper from an early age, in 1997 he left an associate professorship at Ehime University to join the staff of the Lake Biwa Museum in Japan to pursue his dual career passions: research on fish behavior and ecology; and public aquarium design and administration.

One of the main factors that first attracted him to the Waikiki Aquarium was its 'immense potential.' Dr. Rossiter's long-term ambition at the Aquarium is to increase public awareness of the ecology and conservation of marine life and reef habitats through aquarium exhibitory, research and education. Building upon the foundation laid down by his predecessors, he is actively modernizing, diversifing and expanding the Aquarium's facilities while increasing their research activities and educational outreach.

Dr. Andrew Rossiter

Under Rossiter's leadership, the Aquarium has undergone a program of gradual renewal, renovation and replacement, with new mission statement, a renovated and electronic classroom, several new and renovated exhibits, a new jellyfish gallery, and, most recently, a Northwestern Hawaiian Islands exhibit. Rossiter has been busy laying a special foundation at the Aquarium that will be appreciated for generations to come.

As the Aquarium enters its 110th anniversary year in 2014, it will again undergo a variety of improvements to its facility and exhibits including a green sea turtle exhibit with six hatchlings on loan from Sea Life Park, and a sea horse and sea dragon exhibit to launch in summer 2014.

To keep residents and visitors "in touch" with the ocean, the Aquarium will host five public invasive algae beach clean ups. The first hands on opportunity will be held on Saturday, March 29, and everyone is encouraged to join the effort. Bring sunscreen, a towel, water, snorkel masks and gear and help remove invasive algae biomass that distrupts the ocean ecosystem in Waikiki's reefs. Volunteers use snorkels and paddleboards to collect transport and separate the native algae from the invasive algae. Meet behind the Aquarium at 9 a.m. and dive into work that must be done for the health of the coast. Let's help the Aquarium continue to help Hawaii's eco-system thrive for future generations. waikikiaquarium.org. ~ Lynn Cook

POLYNESIAN FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME

An exhibit honoring football's greatest players, coaches and contributors of Polynesian descent is being created and the Polynesian Cultural Center will soon be it's permanent home. The Polynesian Football Hall of Fame's new exhibit will be in the area between PCC's main entrance and the Pacific Theater. The location will ensure the exhibit will be highly visible to the Center's visitors from around the world. The inaugural class honors 7 inductees including Honolulu's Olin Kreutz, a 14-year NFL center, including 13 years with the Chicago Bears; 4-time All-Pro and Junior Seau (deceased) – 20-year NFL linebacker, including 13 years with the San Diego Chargers; 10-time All Pro. The exhibit will open in January 2015.

In honor of Shop a Le'a, over 100 merchants will be offering special discounts and free gifts with purchase throughout the week. From Bvlgari to Beard Papas to Michael Kors to Macaroni Grill the list of participating stores is endless. Most stores will have a sign out front indicating their participation, but for a complete list of discounts, entertainers and fashion shows be sure to log onto alamoanacenter.com or pick up an event guide that will be located throughout the mall.

As part of Shop a Le'a, Ala Moana Center has again partnered with Dress For Success Honolulu, a non-profit organization that assists women who are re-entering the workforce. Customers who bring gently used suits & separates, shoes, unused cosmetics & accessories may receive special discounts and offers at participating stores.

Shoppers who spend $300 or more this year can receive an exclusive Shop a Le'a tote designed by Kipling. Receipts must be dated March 17th through March 23rd 2014 and redeemed within the same time period at the Customer Service Center for this exclusive tote.

To top off these seven days of shopping euphoria, one lucky shopper will win a 7-day getaway for two to New Zealand including air and hotel, on top of a $500 Ala Moana Center gift card! See the website for details on how to enter.

Tons of fun and deals are to be had March 17th through 23rd at Ala Moana Center. Follow the fashion by using #ShopaLea and by following @AlaMoanaCenter on Twitter and Instagram and be sure to log onto alamoanacenter.com for an up to date schedule of events.

ART COFFEE BAR

The Honolulu Museum of Art is opening a Coffee Bar in its stone-paved Palm Courtyard, where visitors wait to board the shuttle bus to Shangri La. Guests can sit at white bistro tables and chairs amid potted palms and a romantic Indian jali sipping French press Ka'u coffee and nibbling on chocolate torte or cookie or enjoy an OnoPop waiting for the bus. People wanting to come in only to visit the Coffee Bar will not need to pay museum admission. Honolulumuseum.org.

As you get ready for the onslaught of North Americans looking for "hot hula love" this Spring Break, the arts and cultural scene this month is "marching" to a totally different drummer. The Japanese are invading two of our museums with a gold rush from the past and a time traveling cat from the future. while one of our favorite theaters is getting down and dirty with some kids from the Lower East Side of Manhattan to recreate in their own style the story of a group of Parisian lovers who once lived in the Latin Quarter and whose story was told famously in an opera written by an Italian. So if you make it to the Ides of March without losing your Rosetta Stone, drinks are on me!

One place where you do not need a Rosetta Stone, unless you are learning English, is the HONOLULU MUSUEM OF ART. For the next three months until June 1, Light from Shadow: Gold in Japanese Art will be on exhibit. It's all about the significance of gold and its prevalence in Japanese works of art in the museum's collection which ranges from early Buddhist art to the genre of woodblock prints and paintings that flourished in Japan from the 17th to 19th centuries called Ukiyo-e. A piece not to be missed in the exhibit is the 17th-century "Merrymaking Under the Cherry Blossoms", which when you think about it, is the perfect fit for some of your guests on Spring Break! As in many cultures the use of gold is connected closely to royalty, in the case of Japan, the imperial court. The introduction of Buddhism in Japan and the notion that Buddha had skin of gold resonated with the upper classes and further solidified the significance of gold as something sumptuous to be used in art. This was used to lovely extremes in depictions of Buddha and can be seen in "The Descent of Amida", which was created during the Kamakura period (1185-1336) and used a technique called Kirigane, that uses intricate cut-gold to accent fine details in painting. In the exhibit your guests will also see examples of the practical uses of gold on screens. The rooms of most wood frame buildings were dark and the use of gold backgrounds on screen paintings helped to reflect light into the rooms. Kind of like a mirror over your bed! Whoops, there I go again, back to Spring Break shenanigans! This entire exhibition was organized in honor of the 30th anniversary of the Halekulani luxury resort, so let's give a special concierge "hana hou" to all of our friends at the resort. The museum is located at 900 South Beretania Street and is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. Admission is only $10 and includes entry to the HONOLULU MUSEUM OF ART SPALDING HOUSE. Don't forget that kids 17 and under are free, so visiting the museum won't break the bank of large families.

Another thing to do at the museum that won't break the bank and is a perfect fit for Spring Breakers on the prowl is the monthly ARTAFTERDARK event that occurs on the last Friday of the month. The theme for the March 28th event is Noruz: Persian New Year. It's a night to celebrate all things Persian, just like the stars of Bravo TVs Shahs of Sunset but without the big hair but definitely with the drinking. This art party is organized by a dynamic group of young volunteers dedicated to exploring the arts, and guess what, I am one of the co-chairs that night, so please put on your Shavlar (full-length pants) and Manteau (long overcoat blouse) and dance the evening away! The party runs from 6 to 9 p.m. on the grounds of the Honolulu Museum and admission is $10 but tell your guests to get their early and stand in the line to the right of the entrance to get in. The line to the left is for museum members only. This is a great opportunity for you to persuade those guests of yours who are looking for some fun nightlife to get into a museum for some culture.

BISHOP MUSEUM just launched a new exhibit that will there until April 20th -- DORAEMON: Japan's Time-Traveling Cat! Yes, the 22nd century robotic cat named Doraemon has traveled back to our time to help his friend Nobit Nobi, and ultimately your guests, learn about life, honesty and courage! The popular anime character is familiar to Hawai'i residents but may not be familiar to your guests. The Japanese manga series was created in the late 60s and ran for almost 20 years. It is still widely viewed by many around the world and this exhibit is a celebration of all things Doraemon! Your guests' kids will get a kick out of all the anime stuff in this exhibit even if they don't know anything about the characters. The lively exhibit features a large statue-like images of the characters as well as interactive stations that will allow kids and their parents to explore the universe of the fun cartoon series. A video theatre will also run clips from the TV show and many samples of the artist Fujiko F. Fujio, who created the characters, will be on display. Admission into Bishop Museum: Adults $19.95; Seniors (65+) $16.95; and Youth (4-12) $14.95; Children age 16 and younger must be accompanied by an adult. Bishop Museum is open from 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; closed on Tuesdays. For more information, visit BishopMuseum.org or call 847-3511. There is lots to do at Bishop Museum so tell your guests to allow for at least three hours to fit everything in.

Now, if you're trying to fit in a non-Hawaiian themed show where your guests can have some wine or beer before painting the town red, you should send them to Honolulu's Off-Broadway institution MANOA VALLEY THEATRE to catch RENT. This show revolves around a group of impoverished young artists and musicians struggling to survive and create in New York City. The song "Seasons of Love" may be familiar to many of your guests. This production runs from March 13 to 30, and most likely will be extended into early April. Tickets are $35. Call 988-6131 or visit ManoaValleyTheatre.com.

I look forward to seeing you out and about at one of Honolulu's arts and cultural activities this month and if you see me standing in line for a drink, please say "hi"! ~ Lance Roe

Marching along toward spring - just can't resist that line. Oh, that's right, we always have spring and summer and more summer. Granted, this island winter has provided us with some chilly nights and enough rain to keep Diamond Head so green it glows, but we can all do the happy dance when we watch the mainland weather reports. And write this in the record books - we didn't have rain for the Punahou Carnival! True confession: one of us had waaaaaay too many malasadas.

MAKING WAY - toward April and the 51st Annual Merrie Monarch Festival, in March Hawaii Theatre provides an opportunity for a sneak peek into what will hopefully be another MM-awardwinning halau presentation. The 2014 Holomua Ka No'eau, Maika'i Kaua'i I ka Malie, presented by Halau Mohala 'Ilima, is set for Saturday, March 15th at 6 p.m.Kumu Hula Mapuana de Silva and the dancers of Halau Mohala 'Ilima will share personal and combined stories of their travels to the island of Kaua'i. With chant, mele, and hula they will set the scene and offer the experience of a visit to the ancient hula site of Keahualaka at Ke'e. Wahine overall winners of the 2013 50th Merrie Monarch Hula Festival, the halau celebrates hula with their annual concert at the Hawaii Theatre as a glimpse of what's to come at the 2014 celebration in Hilo.

Without leaving their seats, the audience will be carried along on four decades of Halau Mohala 'Ilima's travels to the island of Kauai, sharing the personal and group experiences of dancers, age teen to kupuna. Kapua Sterling, representing the halau in the Miss Aloha Hula competition in Hilo, will dance, as will her sister, Lilinoe Sterling, named Miss Aloha Hula in 2012.

Halau Mohala 'Ilima, founded in 1976, is dedicated to the preservation of Hawaiian culture through hula, specializing in traditionally learned and transmitted chants and dances from the legacy of dances of the 18th and 19th century, celebrating the land and people, and modern hula with a spirit that carries forward the older traditions of hula. Kumu Mapuana de Silva graduated as kumu hula from Maiki Aiu Lake and continued her studies with Lani Kalama, Sally Wood Naluai and Pat

Namaka Bacon. A Halau Mohala 'Ilima concert offers a total experience of the joy of hula, balanced with discipline and commitment to excellence. Tickets are $25 - $35, available at the Box Office or at hawaiitheatre com

MAKING HISTORY - There is always art to see. While you are at the Honolulu Museum of Art School at Linekona looking at the quilt artistry, take a stroll across the street to the Museum and travel to World's End and the story of a shipwreck by artist Diane KW. She uses shards of Ming dynasty porcelain from an 18th-century shipwreck. In 1751, a Dutch East India Company ship voyaged out with 112 men, 700,000 pounds of tea, and chests holding 240,000 pieces of Chinese blue and white Porcelian. The ship sunk in the Java Sea in 1753 and the cargo was only found in 1985. The unbroken pieces brough $20 million at auction. The broken shards made their way into the hands of Hawaii based artist Diane KW. There is lots more to the story, perfect for Jack Sparrow and Indiana Jones.

MAKING WAVES – Music on the new CD by Makua will make you feel good. At age 17, he conquered a 66-foot wave at Jaws on the north shore of Maui and won the Billabong XXL Big Wave Award, earning a world championship. His CD, Sound Wave, debuted at #1 on Billboard's Reggae Chart. Local boy Makua Rothman is sweet, cute, humble, fun. Twelve songs, eleven of them originals, performed at his recent concert at Hawaii Theatre had everyone, from kapuna to kids standing and cheering. Mountain Apple's Leah Bernstein rolled her eyes as she mentioned that a singing surfer comes with challenges, including the fact that Makua broke three ribs surfing Back Door at Pipeline just three days before the concert.

Mid-concert, a young boy, maybe 9 years old, jumped on stage to answer Makua's quiz question. The prize was a surfboard, signed by all the big wave guys. Makua asked what he would do with it. "I'm going to surf Diamond Head" he answered, clutching the board to make sure it was real - and his. Mountain Apple's master of music and album producer, Jon de Mello might have been wondering if the kid could sing too. Really, buy this CD.

MASTERING SMALL TALK – On TV it may be hard to keep the names straight with the revolving door of talk-show hosts. At Native Books/Na Mea Hawaii in Ward Warehouse, take Tea & Talk Story with Nake'u Awai, 10:30 to noon every Sunday. Owner Maile Meyer says the famed clothing designer-turned-interviewer is hilarious. Next up in March, flower expert Brian Choy, graphic designer Momi Cazimero, Kamehameha principal and model, Pua Mills Ka'ai, artist/musician/ geologist Doug Tolentino and Temari CEO Ann Asakura. Tea time, how fun, see you there!

MARCHING TO THE FESTIVAL DRUMMERS

THE HONOLULU FESTIVAL PARADES, MARCHES & DANCES THROUGH WAIKIKI

Cooperation, harmony, and all the fun of a really big party are combined when the 20th Annual Honolulu Festival marches back into town on Friday, March 7. Bringing together the people and cultural diversity of Asia and the Pacific, the festival is family friendly and easy to enjoy. The March 7 - 9th event offers a variety of dance, music, exhibits, band and orchestra performances, choral festival presentations and the spectacular Grand Parade through Waikiki followed by the Nagaoka Fireworks Show over Waikiki Beach.

With the theme, "Jubilation, One Heart, One Pacific, One World," the Festival's weekend of activities also includes the Honolulu Rainbow EKIDEN relay race around Diamond Head crater.

The festival opens on Friday, March 7th with the deliciously popular Friendship Gala from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The Gala is a benefit for the Honolulu Festival Foundation to support educational and cultural programs. Featuring exciting cultural entertainment by Honolulu Festival performers and the cuisine of top restaurants on Oahu, the event takes place at the Hawaii Convention Center. The cost is $90 per person over age 21 / $70 for under 21, (children under age 6 are free). Includes food and one beverage.

On Saturday, March 8th, the Hawaii Convention Center is open for fun. Band and choral competitions, cultural presentations, games, arts and crafts will all be featured from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Fans of the event suggest that getting there early on Saturday is a good plan. Another suggestion – keeping the day, Sunday, March 9th, open to go back to do more arts and crafts and enjoy entertainment unique only to this festival – at the Convention Center, on Center Stage at Ala Moana Center and at Waikiki Beachwalk.

From 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday the party continues at all the venues. Starting early is again the rule of the day. The Honolulu Festival Parade begins at 4:30 p.m., winding its way along Kalakaua Avenue. No parade in Hawaii has as much color or diversity with floats, marching bands, more bands and costumes that out do each other as the marchers parade by. When the parade is pau there is time for dinner or a picnic in Kapiolani Park. At 8:30 p.m. the Waikiki sky will light up with the 20-minute Nagaoka City Fireworks show, which seems to get better, bigger and more colorful every year.

Supported by the Honolulu Festival Foundation, Hawaii Tourism Authority, and corporate sponsors, the Honolulu Festival is celebrating its 20th year. The Honolulu Festival's goal is to help perpetuate the strong cultural and ethnic ties between the people of Asia-Pacific and Hawaii. The Honolulu Festival Foundation supports educational and programs for the benefit of Hawaii's schoolchildren and community-at-large through public outreach and charitable efforts.

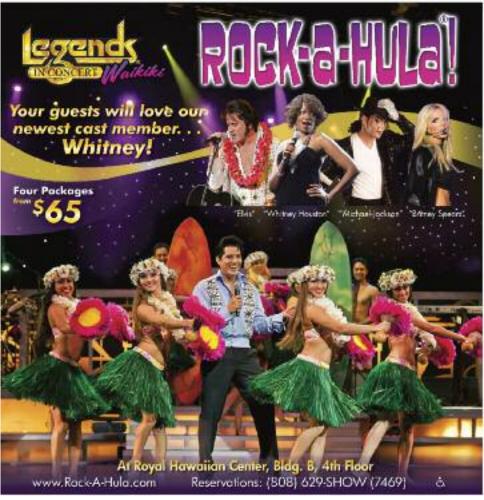

For those feeling energetic the 2nd annual Honolulu Rainbow EKIDEN long-distance relay race starts at 9 a.m. on Saturday. A tradition of Japan for over 90 years, EKIDEN brings teams of 3-5 runners ages 12 and older, together in the spirit of Aloha to compete in this scenic ocean view route around Diamond Head. Each team will run a total of 15.5 miles. Runners will wear rainbow-colored ribbon lei and be welcomed back with a public concert at the end of the race. This relay race welcomes running enthusiasts worldwide to join in Waikiki and compete on a fun, ocean-view 5-kilometer course highlighted by the beauty of

Diamond Head Crater and Kapiolani Park. The USA Track & Field certified 5K course begins and ends on the ocean side of Kapiolani Park fronting Waikiki Beach, continues alongside Diamond Head and passes the historic lighthouse, before returning to the relay hand-off and finish line. The course offers runners the ideal challenge of racing over Diamond Head. Registration and and more information can be found online at HonoluluEkiden.com

Both teams and individuals are invited to participate. Individual participants will be placed on "Friendship Teams" with runners from Hawaii, Japan, and other countries. The top three teams to finish will be recognized at the post-race awards ceremony, with awards also presented for the top seniors, women, juniors, and best performance. Each race participant receives a souvenir Honolulu Rainbow EKIDEN t-shirt, medal, and a complimentary drink from Lanikai Juice.

After the race, runners can join their family and friends to enjoy the post-race festivities at the new WaikiKitchen. This celebration of Hawaii's cuisine will feature a delicious variety of entrées and treats from gourmet restaurants, "plate lunch" vendors and local-style food trucks, plus a performance by the popular Japanese band Skimaswitch, which is an official supporter of the Honolulu Rainbow EKIDEN.

The Annual Quilt Show returns

"My Hawaiian Garden" by David Wotruba is one of more than 100 quilts at this years Hawaii Quilt Guild annual show.

It's time to marvel at the fine stitches and fine art created in cloth. E Ho'onanea I Ka Mili Kapa translates to Come and be Soothed by the Quilting, the title of the Hawaii Quilt Guild annual quilt show, March 28th to Sunday, April 6th at the Honolulu Museum of Art School, Linekona. This is the 30th anniversary of the Quilt Guild, but quilting in Hawaii has been an art and a craft since the late 1800's. Quilters will be on hand to demonstrate and talk about the vast array of styles and methods of quilting.

Fans of quilting make their way via Waikiki Trolley, rental cars and the city bus. The show is free. Quilt artists are often working in the lobby, ready to answer questions and listen to quilting triumph and tragedy stories.

Margaret Teruya is the featured quiltmaker for the show, selected for her unique designs and methods of quiltmaking. Not a life-long quilter, Teruya says her promise to herself was to join the quilt guild and master quilting skills as soon as she retired from teaching. Following the books with directions for quilting had too many rules. She now works free form in a style that might easily be called "painter-ly." Teruya describes her work as "playing with fabric, using intuition and trial and error.

Former islander, David Wotruba, now a Washington State pharmacist, will come the greatest distance with his entry, done in the traditional style of Hawaiian applique quilting, with about 500,000 stitches. The design is both contemporary and traditional. He calls it "My Hawaiian Garden", a midsize quilt, "merely 81 by 85 inches," he says. For anyone who has every tried to make a 4 by 4 inch Hawaiian quilted coaster, the size of this quilt is not "mid". Wotruba didn't design and make Hawaiian quilts until he moved away. He has completed more than ten quilts. His entry this year is a unique designed Hawaiian quilt included in soon-to-be published international art book, "500 Traditional Quilts," by Lark Crafts.

The annual quilt show is filled with both traditional and wild, unpredictable methods of turning fabric into a quilt. Japanese Sashiko stitching, hand and machine embroidered, more hi-tech fusible applique, and paper piecing where quilters stitch a paper over fabric pattern into place, then pull the paper away, leaving the design.

Celebrating our Voyaging Canoes

Learning about a training facility doesn't sound all that unusual until you hear that it is a double-hulled, all wood, voyaging canoe named Hawai'iloa. Even more interesting, the canoe builders, craftsmen and volunteers who have restored and are about to re-launch the canoe. Built in 1993 the all-wood, 57-foot Hawai'iloa voyaged to French Polynesia and the Marquesas. Now she will become the voyaging classroom in Hawaiian waters. Joining them will be crew and captains who sail Hawaii's great voyaging canoes, Hokule'a and Hikianalia, preparing to leave to voyage around the world.

The canoe men and women will talk story about voyaging across the Pacific with only the stars as a guide, show videos of the Pacific voyages, and offer hands-on lessons on lashing a canoe.

Saturday, March 15, from 9 a.m. to noon, on the 5th Anniversary of Kana Ka Pila Grille, Outrigger Reef on the Beach will host O Ke Kai, featuring the voyagers from the Hokule'a, Hikianalia and Hawai'iloa. The morning's events will be non-stop canoe crafts, temporary tattoos, petroglyph printmaking. Talk story sessions about the World Wide Voyage of Hokule'a and the launch of Hawai'iloa, ready to be a floating school for the training voyages in Hawaiian waters that will keep crew ocean-ready until they fly out to destinations around the world to sail one or more legs of the WWV.

At noon a ceremonial procession will celebrate the return of the steering paddle of Hawai'iloa, restored and on display at the hotel until the canoe is restored and ready for the re-launch, on schedule for March 24th at Sand Island.

From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. the lobby of the Outrigger Reef will become the Ka Pila Grille 5th Anniversary Luau, celebrating with great food and the all Hawaiian, all the time music and fun with a live broadcast on KINE radio with entertainers Cyril Pahinui, Mark Yamanaka Amy Hanaialii and interviews with voyagers. Check with the Reef for luau tickets. No charge for the O Ke Kai events.

On Sunday, March 16th, Science Alive! Family Sunday is an all day celebration of 125 Years of Discovery at Bishop Museum. More opportunities to learn about navigation and voyaging will come when Friends of Hawai'iloa and Hokule'a fill a tent with canoe building plants, demonstrations of adze work to hollow out a canoe, a model of the canoe and captains and crew to talk story.

The free to kaamaina and military Science Alive!, themed Then & Now, includes food trucks, entertainment, the new Meet! Doraemon exhibit, and everything future scientists and curious folks need to know bishopmuseum.org. ~ Lynn Cook

Chef's Corner

Cactus Bistro Chef & Owner John Memering

John Memering, chef and owner of the Latin-American bistro in Kailua began his culinary career in Portland, Oregon where he first recognized the importance of utilizing local ingredients. He moved to the Islands working at Alan Wong's and then as the executive chef of Kalapawai Cafe before opening Cactus, which focuses on using local produce, meats and sustainably caught or farmed seafood.

What is your first childhood food memory?

It would be either my great auntie 'Lou' who taught me how to prepare my first ever dish, scrambled eggs. But an at the table experience brings me back to my 'Mamo' (grandmother) cooking ground veal patties topped with asparagus and Béarnaise. The veal and asparagus were cooked together in the same cast iron skillet with lots of butter!

When did you first decide you wanted to be a chef?

When I realized how much more education it required to be an attorney. I was sick of school and just wanted to get my life started. The rest was just part of my pedigree.

What was your first job in the culinary industry? Washing dishes at a Stuart Anderson's Steak House.

Who would you consider your mentor and why?

Wow, There are so many people that have influenced and motivated me over the years. Some I have never even met. Just lots of people who inspired me. Guess I would have to say Mark Ross. He was the second generation of cooks that came out of the bay area in the 70's. He showed me how to truly be a cook and Chef. Respect the ingredients, but more importantly where they came from.

How would you describe your style of cooking?

I guess my philosophy would be, "ingredients and techniques are more important than recipes". Keep things simple. More ingredients doesn't necessarily mean more flavor. Latino cuisine obviously incorporates lots of chiles. That doesn't mean everything needs to be face numbing spicy. Showing restraint is much more difficult than to not.

What's the most unique or fave dish you've created?

That's a tough one, kind of like asking which is your favorite child (even though I only have one!). I am just really proud of what Cactus Bistro has been able to bring to Oahu's dining scene. Trust me, this has not been easy! There's real discomfort when a guest is unfamiliar with what they see, can't pronounce, or just don't understand items on our menu. We took a risk. But the best part is seeing a new guest's face light up after a couple of bites!

Who would you most like to see in your restaurant?

Well if my Mamo Lovette was still alive, it would definitely be her. She was an amazing cook. Her mother was a "professional", but back then women were considered servants or house staff, not Chefs.

What's one of your favorite restaurants to go too?

I really love and respect what Ed and Dave have been doing at TOWN for years. A new one Cocina, Quinten Frye's new place. Totally kills it! Just wish he was open on Mondays when I'm usually in town.

Best ingredient you like to work with and why

We work with just a ton of local farms, ranchers and fishermen. It takes a lot more work, but the end result really shows the effort! Two that come to mind, Tom just grows stuff on his Waimanalo property. He showed up one day with the most amazing Mountain apples this summer! They were almost as big as a commercial pear and perfect. Shinsato Farm's Pork. Glenn and Amy just do an amazing job and I am so proud to support what they do

What's your favorite thing to do when not working?

Beach time with Ohana and friends, catching a movie, cooking dinner for the ohana, the occasional pounding at Sandy's, or just actually relaxing.

What's your favorite dish to cook at home?

A big hunk of beef and a good bottle of wine or something ethnic. Korean, Lebanese, American south are my faves.

What's always in your fridge?

Condiments from all over the globe. They take up half the space in my fridge and drives my wife nuts!

What's the strangest thing you've ever eaten or made.

Well actually it might of been this morning. Not so much what, but the combination... a Jimmy Dean microwave sausage biscuit washed down with vintage French Champagne. Not proud, but it worked! Otherwise, it would have to be the calves brain tacos, I was dared to eat in Ensenada. [Haven't had them since a couple of decades ago]

Biggest pet peeve working in the kitchen?

People who can't seem to work neatly, organized and think the floor is the rubbish can. I refuse to accept it! I want to be able to invite dining room guests in the kitchen at anytime and be proud of what they see. It also sets the standard for how everything else should be done.

Any plans to bring Cactus to town?

When my partners and I first set out, we formed a corporation to allow us to open a few different concepts along with Cactus. It's taken a little longer than I wanted to move in that direction, but we are still moving forward. A town side location is always an option, just not sure I'm ready to give up my current five minute commute.

Is there any other information you'd like to share?

Just a big mahalo to all the wonderful people that have come in have supported us over the last twenty months. The best part of what I do is getting to experience the excitement and happiness from our guests as they leave. We also just started serving a weekend, Latino-inspired breakfast. Right now it's available 11-2 Saturday and Sunday. But as it begins to catch on, I am confident we will extend our weekend hours.

INGREDIENTS 2 tbl. olive oil

3/4 lb. onions, chopped 2 large garlic cloves, minced 2 tsp. paprika 2 med. tomatoes, peeled, seeded, chopped

1 lg. green bell pepper, diced 3/4 lb. fideo or angel 3 c. canned low-salt chicken broth Minced fresh parsley

Fideua Chilena 1 tbl. Merquen chile powder

1/2 c. dry white wine
1/2 c. dry white wine
5 oz. Spanish chorizo or other garlic sausage (such as kielbasa), cut into 1/2-inch-thick rounds
8 oz. chicken breast or firm fleshed fish cut into 1/2-inch-cubes
3/4 lb. fideo or angel hair pasta
Minced fresh parsley

DIRECTIONS: Preheat oven to 400°F. Heat olive oil in heavy skillet over medium-high heat. Add onions and garlic and cook until tender, stirring frequently, about 8 minutes. Add paprika, Merquen and stir until just fragrant, about 30 seconds. Add tomatoes and green pepper and sauté 2 minutes. Add chicken broth, wine, chorizo and cubed chicken or fish. Bring mixture to simmer and add pasta to pan. Cook until pasta is tender, stirring occasionally, about 8 minutes. Set pan in oven and bake until all liquid is absorbed and pasta is crusty, about 25 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley.

Dining Dist

Hank's Haute Dogs has added two new items to their menu featuring truffles. The Truffle Fries, featured daily, are natural cut french fries with a Truffled Cream sauce for $4.50. The Bratwurst François, available only on Saturdays, features a steamed Bavarian bratwurst with Truffle Mustard sauce, herb seasoned sautéed mushrooms and melted Swiss Cheese for $8.50, 532-HANK. hankshautedogs.com. • A few new restaurants to talk about. Chef Hide Yoshimoto, formerly of Doraku has just opened his own restaurant Izakaya Torae Torae located at 1111 McCully (across the street from CPB). Open from 6 -12 daily with Happy Hour from 10 p.m. to last call, the menu looks extensive with extremely reasonable prices. 949-5959 • On the opposite end of the price factor, Sushi Ginza Onodera sounds like it's here to give Sasabune a run for it's money. Chef Osamu Matsuura flies in around 80 percent of their fish from Japan other day for their offer 3 omakase menus. The first menu is priced at $160 and includes one appetizer and 13 pieces of sushi; the second is priced at $200 and offers 5 appetizers, and 10 pieces of sushi. The last menu is $250 and includes 6 appetizers, 13 pieces of sushi, a prawn and Wagyu Beef. However pricey, initial reports absolutely rave about the quality. Closed Mondays, reservations are highly recommended as there are only 18 seats in the restaurant. Seven at the counter, and two private rooms, seating 7 and 4 respectively. Located at 808 Kapahulu Ave, find street parking or there is valet parking, but you basically have to stop your car on Kapahulu Avenue to use it. 5 - 10 p.m. 735-2375. • Bali Steak & Seafood has reopened after finishing a multimillion dollar renovation and hiring a new chef. II Reinhart, who first came to Hawaii to open Morimoto Waikiki and then took over the helm at Sansei restaurant has taken on the challenge of heading the kitchen of this 32-year old restaurant that has won the AAA Four Diamond award the past 25 years. The restaurant has a new clean look, incorporating Balinese art inside the restaurant and the Paradise Lounge just outside as well as a new menu. Focusing on "island harvest cuisine," Reinhart has completely revamped the menu and will be sourcing ingredients locally. Aside from the set menu, guests can expect specials to pop up depending on seasonal items that strike his fancy. The 36-ounce Tomahawk steak is an eye-popping 2-inch thick, bone-in, dry-aged rib-eye steak, cut like a Tomahawk for $120 feeds two and is reminiscent of Fred Flintstone. Open Tuesday-Saturday from 5 - 9 p.m. 949-4321. • Also heralding a new menu is Japengo at the Hyatt. Highlights from Chef Jon Matsubara's new menu include the Seafood Cappuccino with lobster, crab, prawn and cabbage in a kaffir and lemongrass broth and his torched Hamachi Nigiri with garlic-miso glaze was exquisite. Be sure to check out his promotional four course tasting menu for $55 ($49 for kamaaina) while it's available. 237-6180. ~ Pam

The Annual Quilt Show

Traditional Hawaiian quilters are renowned for the symmetric applique patterns they design, cut, applique – all in a single piece. After the applique is basted and carefully sewn to a quilt top, tens of thousands more stitches are made, joining the top, batting and bottom fabric in echo lines.

The patchwork quilting method was introduced in the early 1800's, soon after the missionaries arrived in the islands with fabric. They taught pieced quilt making from tiny scraps of cloth but they offered the islanders bolts of fabric. It only took moments of logical thinking for the Hawaiians to see that cutting up large pieces to make small pieces to sew back into large pieces was not an economic use of time. With a heritage of kapa making, designs and layering came naturally. Today quilting techniques, textures and designs follow no rules.

Teruya says, like all quilters, she starts with an idea. Then she plays with fabric, cuts and sews using intuition and trial and error. She finds shapes and colors, ignoring quilting rules and making her own.

Quiltmaker, former Miss Hawaii, singer and past featured quiltmaker, Patricia Lei Murray, gave this 30th annual show it's name and will be entering again this year. She has shared her expertise with visiting and local quilters for years.

Looking closely at quilts, Hawaiian traditional or the innovative new designs, imagine how many hours they took to make. Ask David Wotruba, he can tell you exactly how many hours, stitches, and years go into a quilt to cover a king-size bed. Show runs Tuesday - Saturday, 10 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.; Sunday, 1 - 5 p.m. hawaiiquiltguild.org. ~ Lynn Cook

Concierge of the Month

NAME: Erena Takekawa

HOTEL: Halekulani

TITLE: Concierge

Q. How long have you been working at the Halekulani?

A. In March I will have been at Halekulani 27 years! I am a Les Clefs d'Or Concierge and a member of The Concierge Association of Hawaii. I assist our guests with any & everything their hearts desire to help make their visit to Hawaii as special and memorable as possible!

Q. How big is your team there?

A. I am one of 10 amazing Concierges!

Q. How did you come to work in the industry?

A. I started as wait help at the Hawaiian Regent in 1979!

Q. What were you doing before that?

A. I had my own photo developing business on Kauai. I worked three jobs and went to school part time.

Q. What do you think makes your property unique?

A. The majority of our staff has been here 20+ years! We're a family; it is such a great honor and feeling to personally welcome our guests back year after year to their Hawaiian home away from home.

Q. What is the biggest perk of being in this industry? A. Meeting all types of people from around the world!

Q. What has been your biggest challenge at the desk? A. There is no greater challenge than to challenge oneself! Being relevant and up-to-date with the most current information, activities, tours and restaurants is a passion!

Q. What is the one skill every concierge should have? A. Patience...and a sense of humor!

Q. Have you had any guests that stand out?

A. My family has a 'mochi pounding' every year. One year, I invited a very nice family from Japan to come over and partake in our tradition. Unbeknownst to me, it was the first time they had ever seen the actual process of pounding mochi! Where they lived in Tokyo, it was done by machine and they had never actually done it themselves!

Q. Have you earned your keys? What has that meant? A. I earned my Les Clefs d'Or keys in 2003 and wear them with the utmost pride! My keys are a symbol of the time, effort and dedication I have given to my colleagues and guests. It's our guests who truly benefit from my affiliation with such a beautiful organization. Our motto, 'In Service through Friendship,' is something we hold in the highest of regard.

Q. A guest only has one day her, what should they do? A. A helicopter ride with Makani Kai and by a private tour of Pearl Harbor & the North Shore with Keawe Adventures!

Q. What off-property restaurants do you recommend? A. Hula Grill for breakfast, Baci Bistro for lunch and Alan Wong's for dinner.

Q. Where are you from originally?

A. I am a true local girl, born & raised in Kaneohe/Kahaluu!

Q. What are your favorite off-property activities?

A. Swimming with the spinner dolphins with the Pickard brothers of SeaHawaii in Waianae and the shark cage with Captain Joe of North Shore Shark Adventures in Haleiwa!

Q. Any other thoughts you'd like to share?

A. I remember an occasion a return guests' daughter was diagnosed with diabetes. I learned how to bake 'sugar free' treats so she would always have a handy snack during their stay with us. I also remember I invited a Canadian family to a picnic at Bellows one year. They had so much fun that it's now an annual tradition to go every time they visit.
