Waikiki Beach Walk

ANNIVERSARY

How many of you remember the Lewers Street of old? Restaurants such as Waikiki Broiler, Lewers Street Fish Company, Pieces of Eight Restaurant, Chuck's Steakhouse, and Davey Jones Ribs lined the road throughout the years, with the Trattoria Restaurant around the corner tucked underneath the Outrigger Edgewater hotel. After dinner you could get your drink on hopping from the Jazz Cellar to the Red Lion and Lewers Street Annex. (Fun Fact: the Annex was next door to Wendy's and they shared a bathroom. For a while there, those of us who weren't quite old enough to get in through the front door, could walk into the bathroom on one side, and walk out the other! Not that I would know anything about that of course!) At the end of the night, if you had overindulged a bit too much to drive home, you could stumble up to the front desk of the OHANA Waikiki Village or the Edgewater and usually grab a reasonably priced

It's a tradition of every luau – a bare-chested Polynesian man in a lavalava quickly spinning a fiery pole so quickly the fire looks like a burning "O" in front of them. The fire dancer is an integral part of any luau or Polynesian Show and is always a crowd-pleaser. Every year it seems the speed of twirling and variety of movements are constantly increasing, thereby increasing the excitement of these performances.

For centuries, performers have been twirling, throwing, catching, and dancing with a Samoan war club known as a nifo oti. Still, it wasn't until 1946 when a young street performer in San Francisco named Uluao "Freddie" Letuli noticed a Hindu fire eater and a baton twirler nearby and became inspired. The story goes that Freddie asked the fire-eater for some fuel, wrapped towels around his blades, set them on fire, and started his routine again.

Since 1992, the Polynesian Cultural Center has held an annual competition to name the World Fireknife Champion. Those that attend this competition will be treated to a cultural experience unlike any other they have ever seen. In addition to crowning the best in the world, the festival seeks to maintain the integrity, quality, and high level of performance of this ancient skilled art form and serves to educate the public about the history and culture behind this ceremonial dance. Since its inception, the competition has grown from an original thirty competitors to over 65 performers last year from around the world.

The most talented fireknife dancers from across the country, Samoa, Tahiti, Japan, and Australia, will come together at the Polynesian Cultural Center for four nights of fiery competition. Competitors ranging in age from as young as six years old to the most experienced and celebrated performers will compete in their respective divisions seeking to win the coveted title of World Fireknife Champion.

To do so won't be easy. Fireknife dance judges have an extensive checklist. In addition to how skillfully and dramatically dancers twirl their nifo oti, fireknife dance judges are also looking for several traditional movements or actions. They will judge them on the difficulty of their motions and the speed of their spins. The

Getting back into the swing of things

Here we go! Every day that goes by, things seem to be getting closer and closer back to normal. The calendar is chock full of live entertainment. It seems every artist who canceled a show one, two, three, or even four times is beelining back to the Islands to fulfill their contract. And every event save for two in our calendar is actually live. There are two holdouts. Hawaiian Airlines May Day Celebration and the highly popular Lantern Festival remain virtual one last time. But, aside from that - everything else seems to be all systems go!

So much so that I finally decided its time to bring back the That's Entertainment page. There were just too many changes, and most hotels had not brought back all of their lobby entertainment that it didn't make sense before now. It's by no means as complete as it once was. I expect it will grow as we go forward, but for now, you can find all sorts of free entertainment options at hotels and shopping malls. In addition, I have moved some of the events you've been seeing in the continuing events section of the calendar to this section. If you're looking for cultural activities at a mall or a farmers market, they are now listed on page 19. Lastly, I have also included some basic information on some of our top attractions and museums on that page as well. You can rest assured I have spent the past two weeks updating this, so the information there is current as we go to press, but I'm sure I have missed some. Please bear with me as we all get things back up and moving, but slowly but surely, we should have this section filled back up again.

I have also re-introduced the concierge card. Remember, this is not a card. You simply need to mention the offer and show them your hotel ID to get the discount, so please do not cut up the magazine. They don't need to see it. Lastly, we have added a help wanted section. There are many places out there looking for full- and part-time help. If you are looking for some extra hours to pay your gas bill or have a friend not working, please share the information. Hope to see you around soon!

height of their throws has to be at least twice the dancer's height. They will even judge them on their entrance and exit. The men will be judged on their aggressive warrior-like moves, while the ladies are judged on how they maintain their grace as they perform their movements. Winning the Championship is not easy, and the dancers will put on the performance of a lifetime. Attendees will be treated to a cultural experience unlike any other, and the best of the best will be crowned a World Champion in Women, Junior, and Senior Divisions.

While visitors may think of the fireknife dance as simply an exciting part of a luau, it is so much more than that. For most of the competitors, this is a way of life. Some of these competitors have lived and breathed fireknife all their lives – as these are traditions passed down through generations. For them, it's a mindset. Fireknife dancing isn't a team sport. It's a competition against yourself. Whether you succeed or fail is all on you. A close look at the competitors' last names will show how deeply these connections run.

The Polynesian Cultural Center has created a special film series to showcase this lineage. JERI is a three-part short film series that highlights the story of a woman fireknife dancer named Jeri Galea'i. The films, directed by Tay Steele, showcase the history and importance of fireknife dancing in the Samoan culture. Born into a fireknife dynasty, Jeri is the daughter of 3x world champion David Galea'i, who learned the art from his mother. Alongside the cultural background of fireknife dancing, the film follows her journey in preparing to compete in the 2019 World Fireknife Championships on her way to becoming the first-ever women's world champion.

The World Fireknife Championship is one of the highlights of the We Are Samoa Festival, Hawaii's largest Samoan cultural gathering and the premier showcase of Samoa's traditions. Hawaii high school students of Samoan ancestry will demonstrate their knowledge of Samoa's culture by competing in a series of traditional practices, including protocol and speech-making, basket weaving, coconut husking and fire making, costuming, and poise, dance, and interpretation.

These events are a unique celebration of cultural traditions that is fun and fascinating for the whole family. The World Fireknife Championship is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for many of our visitors who may never have a chance to see a competition like this again.

Tickets to attend the Junior and Intermediate on May 4 and the Men and Women's Competition on May 11 cost $15 for all ages.

The Men's Division Finals take place on May 12 during intermission of Ha: Breath of Life. Tickets start at $89.95 and include admission to 'Ha'.

room for the night so you could put off the drive until morning. It was a young adult's dream, but the street had more than its share of problems and the buildings were quite old, and it was an expensive struggle to keep them up. So, although the Trattoria is still missed by many to this day (can we talk about their cannelloni!), when Outrigger came up with a master plan to redesign that area of Waikiki, although it was a daunting task that took well over a decade to complete, but succeeded in not only completely revitalizing the area, but it did so in a way that was inviting to visitors and locals alike. Many say that the Waikiki Beach Walk redevelopment was the turning point for the transformation of Waikīki and re-establishing Waikiki as the preeminent urban resort destination.

Waikiki Beach Walk was the largest project in Waikīki since the 70's and played a significant role in reversing Oahu's decline in visitor arrivals and welcoming residents back to Waikiki. "Reflecting on Waikiki of 15 years ago, our iconic Waikiki Beach Walk project was the catalyst and turning point for the renaissance and revitalization of Waikiki," said Barbara Campbell, vice president/retail, Outrigger Hospitality Group. "We are pleased that 15 years later the project's original vision is still very much alive. It's our hope that through our dining and merchandise mix, combined with our Hawaiian cultural offerings and special events, our customers will find Waikiki Beach Walk to be every bit as exciting as the day it opened."

This month they celebrate 15 years in Waikīki, with Hawaiian culture inspiring its architecture, landscaping, tenant mix and an outdoor entertainment plaza. It is a shopping and dining destination with an emphasis on local businesses. Among its collection of small, locally owned businesses are Blue Ginger, Big Wave Dave Surf & Coffee, Coco Mango, Hele Mai Salon, Kahala, KaiAloha Supply, Kolohe, Mahina, SoHa Living, The Ukulele Store and Hele Mai Salon.

Outrigger has long been committed to preserving and perpetuating Hawaiian music and culture over the years, and its deep connection to Hawaii's music

Open Monday to Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., it is closed on Sundays.

Therefore, it comes as no surprise that Waikiki Beach Walk has decided to celebrate their anniversary with a special musical performance. From 4 – 5 p.m., guests can participate in 'ohe kapala," the art of stamping by using carved wooden sticks that are inked to create intricate patterns on the Plaza Lawn. Taking the stage from 5 – 6 p.m. is Kumu Hula Hiwa Vaughan, daughter of the late, great Palani Vaughan, and her Halau Hula Ka Lehua Tuahine. Palani Vaughn performed at Waikiki Beach Walk many times over the years before his death in 2016. # Chef's Corner

Ruth's Chris Executive Chef Ricky Murakami

Chef Ricky began his culinary career as a food runner and then jumped to the back of the house as a dishwasher. From there he started working and training his way up through the ranks, eventually landing a job as part of the Ruth's Chris Steak House opening team at Waikiki Beach Walk as a broiler cook. Just over a decade later, he successfully worked his way to the Executive Chef position and now helms the 33rd year old Restaurant Row location

Where are you from?

Born and raised in the islands.

What's your first childhood food memory?

One of my fondest childhood food memories is "Breakfast for Dinner!" My mom would cook us a typical local breakfast for dinner – eggs, rice and spam, bacon or Portuguese sausage.

What made you decide to pursue culinary?

When I was working as a server at Hale Ikena, the Kapiolani Community College Dining Room, I was asked to step in to help the kitchen as a dishwasher... and that began my career in the back of the house.

What was your first job in the industry?

My first job was a food runner at Perry's Smorgy, one of the first Waikiki buffet restaurants, located at the corner of Kuhio Avenue and Kanekapolei Street.

Who would you consider your mentor?

Leighton Miyakawa, the opening Executive Chef at Ruth's Chris Waikiki. Leighton is well-respected in the local culinary scene and I am grateful to have honed my culinary skills with him during my 12 year tenure at Ruth's Chris Waikiki.

Can you name a dish you remember most?

My SMOKED BRISKET! I spent 17 hours preparing and smoking the brisket which I shared with family and friends.

When did you join Ruth's Chris Steak House?

I began my career with Ruth's Chris in 2007 as a broiler cook when we opened our Waikiki location and now 15 years later, I am proud to be the Executive Chef at our Honolulu location.

What did you do during the shutdown?

We never closed during the pandemic and during lockdown we were able to provide our To Go Menu to the community.

Describe your food / leadership philosophy and where you find your inspiration?

I believe it is important to lead by example. My General Manager Jon Kobashigawa has also had a positive influence on my management style and is supportive of my efforts.

How are things going since it settled down?

We are thrilled to be getting back to normal and our team is excited to be welcome our guests back to Ruth's Chris. It's wonderful to see our dining room filled with guests celebrating with family and friend.

What's your favorite thing on the menu?

Bone-In New York Steak!

What do you like to do on your days off?

I enjoy spending time with my daughter taking her to movies and shopping.

Where do you like to go when not working?

I love to explore Chinatown and shopping for "unique" items to incorporate into my cooking.

Any other information you'd like to share?

Every single Ruth's Chris Steak House is run by Ruth's own philosophy that real Southern hospitality makes even the best steaks taste better. We have a great special this month. From now thru May 31, 2022 we are running a Prime Time All Night Long Special. The special is available Monday through Wednesday. Guests can enjoy a 3-course menu starting at $57.95

One of the more distinct traditions is the placing of lei upon every gravesite within Punchbowl for Memorial Day. The City requests donations of loose plumeria flowers or strung lei – to be dropped off at Honolulu Hale Courtyard on King Street or Kapolei Hale between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Donate fresh flowers, learn how to make a lei, and help make the lei yourself! The lei will be taken to Punchbowl Cemetery on Memorial Day, May 30th to honor all U.S. military personnel who have died while serving. 768-3002

Old School Feel - Quality Meals

Hole in the Wall

Restaurants

I love a good hole-in-the-wall just as much as I love a 5-star restaurant. Let's be clear, a hole-in-the-wall does not mean the place is beat up or the food is junk. But it does mean it's probably a mom-and-pop type place that didn't waste much time and effort on design. In fact, people may often discount a place based on its looks or lack of decor. However, these small businesses tend to put their focus on the quality of their food, and oftentimes, they tend to focus just on a few items and do them well. After all, it's the quality of the food that will keep their customer coming back -- not the trendy decorations or fancy Instagram reviews. And lastly, the price point is fairly comfortable because they don't have to pay for all that other stuff. I have a few favorite hole-in-the-wall's in town, and I just added another one to the list.

Beef Volcano opened at 429 Nahua Street, just up the road from Legends Sports Bar across from the back side of the White Sands. Offering new approaches to the Japanese gyu-don concept this tiny storefront offers premium roast beef bowls using tender slices of high-quality USDA black Angus beef tenderloin slow cooked at low temps for maximum flavor. Owner Shoko Yamanaka, a yoga and fitness instructor who designed her own brand of fitness-wear that she sells at Kaplili Hawaii at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, was looking for healthier dining options and decided to open her own place serving premium roast beef bowls. She knows what she does well, and she focuses on that. They offer four types of beef bowls with several toppings to add on if you wish. They offer a Japanese-style, Spicy Korean, Hawaiian-style and Maui Onion. Personally, the creamy pineapple sauce on the Hawaiian-style bowl with truffle mash was my favorite -- but to each their own. The Roast Beef

Musubi's were also winners. Open for lunch daily from 11:30 a.m. - 2:30 p.m. and dinner from 5 - 8 p.m. 650-8907. beef-volcano.square.site

I asked around for some of your favorite hole in the walls, and the responses were pretty varied. One name that popped up again and again was 8 Fat Fat 8 Bar & Grille. It definitely hits all of the checkmarks. A no-frills dimly-lit neighborhood gathering spot offering great Chinese food, darts, pool, and kraoke since 1986. Known for their Fat Fat Special Chicken, it's a 1/2 chicken cooked so that the skin is super crispy, but the meat inside is tender and juicy. They are also known for their Gau Gee, cake noodle and lup chong fried rice. Hear pretty consistent things about their cold ginger chicken and tofu. Definitely a dive-bar kind of feel to the place, but it's clean and the food is spot on. Open Mon-Fri 11 a.m. - 10 p.m. and Sat-Sun from 2 p.m. - 11 p.m., they'll close early if it's dead or stay open a bit later if it's packed. Located at 1327 S. Beretainia Street. The share the parking lot with Midas next store after 5 p.m., and there's usually plenty of street parking. 596-2779. 8fatfat8hawaii.com

Adela's Country Eatery

During a trip to Japan, Adela and her team learned about Japanese ramen noodle making from the masters. They decided to bring a noodle making machine back to Hawaii with them and Adela's has become known for their famous Noodles made from scratch each day using fresh, locally grown Ulu, Taro, Okinawan Sweet Potato, Moringa and Avocado (when available). They are passionate about working with local farmers which enables them to create the freshest, seasonal dishes while also providing real support to Hawaii's farming communities. The noodles have received rave reviews and one of their most popular dishes is the Lechon Malunggay Pasta. The portion sizes are huge. Open Monday - Saturday. Closed Sunday from 10:30 a.m. - 8 p.m. Located in Kaneohe at 45-1151 Kamehameha Hwy. 236-2366. adelascountryeatery.com

Ray's Cafe

This popular old school eatery is known for their home cooking comfort food. Some menu favorites include the Fried chicken thighs and prime rib. They also run daily specials and weekend specials usually includes Rack of Lamb, and either Lobster or King Crab Legs. Most days they post a picture of their menu on Facebook. Leave your credit cards at home, as this place is cash only but they have an ATM on site if you don't have enough. They have moved around a lot over the years, but are currently located at 2033 N King Street, it's street parking only. Open at 6:30 a.m. daily, they stay open until 7 p.m. during the week and 5 p.m. on weekends. 841-2771

Kyung's Seafood

We've talked about this place before. A chef favorite, they are known for their meat jun, kalbi, poke, and super fresh sashimi. Open Wednesday thru Monday from 10 a.m. - 11:45 p.m., closed Tuesdays. 1269 S King Street. 589-1144.

Sam's Kitchen

You can't talk about hole in the walls without bringing up Sam's Kitchen. They're famous for their steak and garlic shrimp, their fried chicken, their fresh fish caught daily, and the seven delicious side sauces. It's Waikiki, so parking is slim. Open daily from 10 a.m. - 1 a.m. 353 Royal Hawaiian Avenue. 491-6266. samskitchenhawaii.com

Harbor Pub

I'm not sure if this is a hole in the wall or a dive bar, but whichever one it is, it was mentioned several times, and I happen to love it! They have some of the best pizzas and nachos in town, and if you haven't checked out their breakfast, their crab benedict on the weekends is a must. Breakfast begins daily from 7 a.m., and is served until 11:30 a.m. on weekdays, 12:30 p.m. on Saturdays and 1:30 p.m. on Sundays. The place is open until 2 a.m. daily. Bonus points: you never know what, or who, you're going to see in there. 941-0985. harborpubhawaii.com

La Mariana

Again, is it a hole in the wall - or is just off the beaten path? Whatever it is La Mariana is one of the best kept secrets in town - although Magnum P.I. isn't helping with that much. It's been closed since the pandemic, but they are gearing up to open soon. They thought they would April 1st, but it didn't work out, but they are actively trying to reopen so keep your eyes on their Facebook Page.

I am a Front Desk Host

Years ago, Laura LinKee of the Ilima Hotel sent me this article to make me smile. It certainly did. Sadly, she passed on years ago, and this is only a fraction of the entire article, but given the chaos that is about to descend, I figured it was as good of a time as any to bring a smile to your face!

I am a front desk host. I have a degree in accounting, public relations, marketing, business, computer science, psychology, civil engineering, Hawaiian history, and Chinese. I also read minds.

Of course I have the reservation that you booked six years ago, even though you don't have the confirmation number and what nae you booked it under.

Of course I know that when you booked your reservation for Friday, you really meant Saturday, and I'll be sure to have the beach moved closer to our hotel before you arrive.

I am a front desk host. I am expected to speak all languages but even though I don't. Don't worry, I can yell the words slowly if you still don't understand me.

I am a front desk host. I'm quite capable of checking three people in, two people out, while taking five reservations and answering fifteen phone calls, running interference for the manager, while getting last minute instructions from reservations, all at the same time.

I am a front desk host. I take personal blame for the weather, lost luggage, traffic jams, rental cars, flat tires, the national economy, and pandemic.

I am a front desk host, an operator, bellhop, houseman, lei maker, concierge, housekeeper, sales coordinator, a map, entertainment critic, restaurateur, hula dancer, computer technician, postman, dispatcher, bank teller, Hawaiian cultural expert, travel agent, psychologist and verbal punching bag ... and I also know why so so-and-so isn't answering the phone.

I am a front desk host. I do all of these things and more. Hear me roar!

INTERNATIONAL MARKET PLACE The International Market Place kicked off their Restaurant Week with The Taste of the Grand Lanai, a fabulous dine-around event. Although the event sold out on the consumer side in days, IMP held back a few dozen seats for industry VIPs and a handful of concierge to allow them to see how the event worked, as IMP is looking forward to offering a similar dine-around experience in the future. We'll be sure to keep you informed once they make any decisions going forward. shopinternationalmarketplace.com
