

KEEPING THE HOSPITALITY INDUSTRY INFORMED SINCE 1998

Turning Tén Hawaii Book & Music Festival

For the tenth year the Hawaii Book & Music Festival will make words and music come alive – for two full days – Saturday and Sunday, May 2nd and 3rd. Stretching across the spacious Frank F. Fasi Civic Grounds at Honolulu Hale, the bestseller festival runs from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, and the best news is that it is all free. Even parking is free in the municipal and neighboring parking lots. Waikiki trolleys and shuttle vans pull up within a few steps of the center of the event.

Festival-goers will enjoy two days with a total of 100 events, packed with local, national and internationally known authors; performances by musicians, storytellers, actors and dancers and presentations by Hawaii's award-winning hula halau. Some stages will be populated with entertainment for and by the kids, plus the highly anticipated return of Mr. Steve, national host of PBS Kids. Mr. Steve is making his forth appearance at the festival, delighting young audiences with three performances every day, offering his fun and educational songs on the Keiki Stage. In addition to Mr. Steve, the Keiki Stage will be packed with two days of story-tellers, musicians, youth drama and dance performances.

The need to re-fuel and discuss can be found at the international, open-air food court, surrounded by tables and chairs, all in the shade of the Honolulu Hale lawn.

Hawaii's fine local publishers and book-sellers offer great prices, brand new book and music releases and tables where authors are ready to sign their newest book, at both the Barnes & Noble tent and the Festival's Publishers Village.

The two days offer the very best way to clear out space on the bookshelf, or trade in what came in a suitcase for new choices in vacation reading. The Bank of Hawaii Book Swap makes it easy. Just turn in up to five gently used books and pick out new ones at the Book Swap tent. Hundreds of titles for adults and children will be available, and any books that are collected and remaining at the end of the festival will be donated to Hawaii Literacy – it's the ultimate recycling project for readers of all ages.

Among the many national authors scheduled to present at the festival are Barry Lopez, Michael Gruber, Kathryn Ma, Jane Porter, Douglas Corleone, Sam Horn, Austin Aslan, Don Wallace, Kate Elliott, Jonathan Moore, Constance Hale and Jill Marie Landis.

Prominent local authors/presenters include, Michael W. Perry and Larry Price, Brenda Kwon, Richard Tillotson, Susan Scott, Jonathan Okamura, Jonathan Osorio, Lyla Berg, Frank Stewart, Ikaika Hussey, Dave Shoji and Ann Miller.

Ongoing stage performances include music artists such as Kupaoa, Kapala, Kimo Hussey, Brother Noland, Kenneth Makuakane's Singer-Songwriter competition, the Carmen Haugen Quartet, and the Royal Hawaiian Band. A panel of judges critiques the presentations, the audience reaps the benefit of their knowledge. Storytellers ready to charm or challenge include Jeff Gere and Moses Goods.

Be sure to grab one of the foldout programs, located free at tables around the event. With as many as six stages, it is good to lay out a plan for the day. The festival volunteers usually suggest making note of who you want to see on the Main Stage and arrive early for chair or grass seating. This year the main stage will featrue presentations by award-winning hula halau of kumu Mapuana De Silva, Blaine Kamalani Kia, Michael Pili Pang, Tracie & Keawe Lopes and Lopes and Maile Beamer Loo. among others.

Lantern Floating Ceremony

It's time once again for the Annual Lantern Floating Hawai'i Ceremony. This event, first launched in 1999, has grown steadily ever since and close to 50,000 visitors and residents are expected to crowd the shoreline of Ala Moana Beach Park this Memorial Day to watch thousands of candle-lit lanterns float into the sunset.

Everyone is welcome at this special ceremony led by Her Holiness Shinso Ito of Shinnyo-en Buddhist Order, remember those thathave gone before us.

The highly traditional ceremony begins with the blowing of the conch shell, followed by taiko drums and Hawaiian chants before the grand entrance of the Parent lanterns. These are six large lanterns that carry prayers for all spirits on behalf of everyone. Prayers are offered for all who are being remembered.. The lanterns are then floated with the hope of encouraging peace and harmony. More traditions are presented until Her Holiness rings the bell. The crystal clear sound of the bell is to focus everyone's thoughts and prayers and signifies it is time to float the lanterns. At that time Continues on page 16.

I wanted to extend a big mahalo to Dave Mark at Island Air for choosing us as a partner to help promote their first hospitality and service industry professionals month where they offered every member of the industry 20% off all fares during the month of April. Thanks to him, we were given a pair of round trip tickets to give away each week in April, and all you guys had to do to win was answer a trivia question on social media. Hilton Grand Vacations Club Nikki Nakamura was our first big winner, and there's still three more pairs of tickets to go before this is all over. I hope you all took advantage of their generosity, and maybe even learned something in the process! It's nice to see a local airline get involved with the industry again. With your continued participation, hopefully there will be other promotions similar to this in the future. Mahalo to Island Air for recognizing what a great job you guys do and rewarding you for your efforts.

With this issue, the summer festival season has started. Whether or not summer has 'officially' started or not, as far as I'm concerned, it's here. Summer to me means festival after festival, gorgeous weather (a given), and paddling season is underway. All of which are happening now and gaining speed quickly, and it's still only April as I write this, so get ready for the influx of festivals, parades and endless outdoor activities, so everyone can be lucky they live Hawaii, even if its only for the few days they are visiting our Islands.

A few housekeeping notes. There's been a lot of movement in the industry lately. Please try to keep me informed of when people leave or names change at your property. We want to make sure each person that wants their own copy who works in the front of the house gets one, and if they don't, it's ok! We're not offended! Let me know and perhaps we can save a bit of paper and postage. A simple email of who has left and who has come on board is sufficient. Please be sure to let me know which department they work in and I'll get it changed as soon as I can.

Secondly, I can tell we're going to run short of concierge of the month nominations before the end of the year. Keep in mind even though I still have a few dozen nominations sitting here, there can only be one winner per hotel/company per year, so a lot of the ones I have here are stuck waiting until next year. Know someone fabulous that deserves some recognition for the job that they do? Send me an email and let me know who they are, why they deserve it and how to contact them and we'll see if they don't end up on page 19 as many illustrious others have before them. Unfortunately someone can only be recognized once.. so if they've been there before, as fabulous as they still are ... they cannot go up again.

Hope everyone has a great month and I'll see you out there. Aloha!

It's a staple of every great lu'au or evening of Polynesian entertainment, the spinning, twirling fire dancers who leap and twist and lick the fiery flames right off of their whirling batons. For many visitors, this is one of the most exciting parts of the evening and each May we get a chance to see some of the world's most talented Samoan fireknife dancers live in Laie. For one explosive weekend, the Polynesian Cultural Center's main theater will be filled with flames, drumming, and rhythmic chant as dancers from around the island and the world don their lavalava as the competition literally heats up.

The World Fireknife Championships are part of the We Are Samoa Festival, Hawaii's largest Samoan event showcases their cultural traditions, and the Championships are definitely a highlight.

It wasn't until 1946 when a young Samoan man in San Francisco took inspiration from Hindu fire eaters and flaming batons by setting his nifo oti on fire. His bold move heightened both the danger and difficulty level of the traditional dance, making the whole spectacle even more exciting to watch. Modern fire dancers use a cotton towel wired to the knife blade that is soaked in gasoline or naphtha (a clear, flammable liquid) making the danger very real and very hot. In case they make it look too easy, you should know that even after years of practice, the dancers still get burned and occasionally cut by the knife end. Though it's hard to tell as they vigorously spin and dance, the heavy knife is hard to wield and the raw fire is very hot in their mouths and on their feet as they casually balance it on their tough soles. Over decades of friendly and serious competition, the fire knife dance has evolved and better dancers continue to raise the bar for new generations. The speed of twirling and variety of movements are constantly increasing making competition even tougher as judges look for a combination of traditional movements used in battle along with speed, tumbling, and flawlessness.

The 23rd Annual World Fireknife Competition will bring us three days of competition (May 7-9) culminating with the final three dancers performing in hopes of claiming the coveted title of World Fireknife Champion.

In addition to the main competition, the youngsters have their own category of competition that starts on Thursday (May 7) where warriors as young as six can try their hand at this challenging art. Starting at 7 p.m. at Hale Aloha the preliminary rounds for the juniors aged 6-11 and the intermediate competitors aged 12-17 are followed by the senior division. On Friday May 8th, the Junior/Intermediate Finals kick off at 7 p.m. followed by the semi-finals of the Senior Division. The final three competitors will face off during the intermission of Ha: Breath of Life on Saturday, May 9th with the winner announced at the conclusion of the evening show in a lavish award ceremony.

In conjunction with the fireknife competitions, the annual Samoan Cultural High School Arts Festival brings local high school students to PCC to demonstrate Samoan cultural traditions such as coconut husking, basket weaving, fire making, and more. The festival will take place in the Pacific Theater on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. before the evening's events.

These events are a unique cultural tradition that is fun and fascinating for the whole family and plenty of kama'aina show up in support of friends and family as they play with fire. Visitors to the island will love experiencing this unique festival and competition so make sure you pass along the information and send them up north. Admission to the Pacific Theater and Samoan Arts Festival is $10 for adults and $6 for keiki ages five to eleven. Full day tickets for PCC will also include admission to the first two nights of competition. For the final night of competition, guests must purchase a ticket to Ha: Breath of Life ($19.95 for kamaaina, $49.95 for visitors). This column usually focuses on the arts and cultural scene beyond the beach but this month with Mele Mei events and activities being so prevalent, I thought it might be useful to see what ROYAL HAWAIIAN

CENTER has instore during the month long celebration of Hawaiian music that our visitors can catch as they walk on by, and give a little history of the aina there.

This month the Royal Hawaiian Center will be expanding its mission to promote excellence in Hawaiian performing and visual arts with a month long series of events called "Discover Helumoa." There will be expanded complimentary live entertainment by award winning artists and demonstrations by expert kumu (teachers) in such arts as lei making, quilting, hula, 'ukulele playing and more.

"In the spirit of Princess Pauahi's commitment to Hawaiian heritage and education," says Aaron Sala, Director of Cultural Affairs, "Royal Hawaiian Center at Helumoa is proud to serve as a gathering place for kama'aina (locals) and malihini (visitors) and as a hub for Hawaiian culture through entertainment, cultural enrichment classes and festive community events such as this."

Did you know that land that is now home to Royal Hawaiian Center was once called Helumoa? In the 15th century, O'ahu ruler Ma'ililkukahi relocated his court from central O'ahu to Waikiki. The abundance of fresh water made the area ideal for agriculture. Ma'ililkukahi established Waikiki as the royal seat of government and brought about decades of peace and prosperity.

Six generations later, his descendent, Kakuhihewa, encountered the supernatural rooster Ka'auhelemoa who flew down to Waikiki from Palolo Valley to challenge him. Furiously scratching into the earth, the impressive rooster then vanished. Kakuhihewa took this as an omen and planted niu or coconuts at that very spot. Helumoa, meaning "chicken scratch," was the name he bestowed on that niu planting that would multiply into a grove of over 10,000 trees.

Following his conquest of O'ahu in 1795, King Kamehameha I established a home in the Helumoa coconut grove names Kuihelani, shaded by stately coconut trees in an area named Pua'ali'ili'i. In the 1880s, Helumoa was inherited by Kamehameha's great-granddaughter, Princess Bernice Pauahi Bishop. The fascinating history of Helumoa is part of the Center's experience at Helumoa Hale Guest Services and Heritage Room in The Royal Grove.

This is just one of the many things your guests will learn in The Royal Grove this month during "Discover Helumoa." which kicks off on Friday, May 1st. At the time of this writing, Grammy Awardwinner and Slack Key Master Cyril Pahinui has been confirmed for the May 9th performance and Na Hoku Hanohano Award-winner Weldon Kekauoha has been confirmed for the May 16th performance. I have been told there will be several more high profile musicians and halau visiting The Royal Grove this month, so please check the calendar of events page at RoyalHawaiianCenter or their Facebook page for up to date listings of performers. All performances are free and seating on the grassy area of The Royal Grove is on a first come, first serve basis.

On Saturday, May 16th from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. there will be poi pounding demonstrations in The Royal Grove. Your guests will not only get to see how poi is made but they can also sample it and get some great pictures of the men pounding away at their craft. And then on Saturday, May 23rd the Institute for Hawaiian Music (IHM) which consists of student musicians from UH-Maui will be performing on The Royal Gove stage.

The month's activities will end on May 30th with the HELUMOA NIGHT MARKET from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. where the entire Royal Grove will be turned into a Hawaiian arts and craft festival with local Hawaiian craftsmen selling and showcasing their products and live performances by local entertainers at 6 p.m. and 8:15 p.m.

MAMO, MAOLI ARTS MONTH, presented by the PA'I Foundation, is back with the 10th Annual Native Arts Market at BISHOP MUSEUM, May 16 and 17 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. showcasing as many as fifty native Hawaiian artists and practitioners. On Wednesday, May 20th, the finest of Hawaiian designers will dress a cast of dozens of halau members and fashion models, all strutting the catwalk in the annual MAMo Wearable Art Fashion Show at the HAWAII THEATRE. The show features both traditional and contemorary clothing, featherwork, shell work, tattoo, weaponry, weaving, carving and more. The show starts at 7 p.m. but doors open early for the MAMo Silent Auction in the second floor lobby. Following the show, narrated by emcees Kumu Vicky Takamine and Robert Cazimero, a neighboring gallery or courtyard is shoppers paradise with a the work of a dozen or more designers. Royal Hawaiian Center will also get involved with a special wearable arts fashion show in collaboration with the PA'I Foundation in addition to a 7 p.m. during their Helumoa Night Market. For all the details check out their website at maoliartsmonth.org.

While at the HAWAII THEATRE make sure to the IONA Contemporary Dance Theatre's performance of DOMINION, a moving original work by IONA Artistic Director Cheryl Flaharty from May 8 - 10th. Tickets $35 - $65.You also don't want to miss Jack Cione's Mardi Gras Follies 2015 on May 23rd at 7 p.m. This 4th annual fundraiser for the Hawaii Ballroom Dance Association features a talented cast of 60+ in lavish Las Vegas styled costumes of feathers, bangles, and bling. Tickets $27. If dancing's not your thing, how about a play? The hysterical play Defending the Caveman returns for six performances between May 27 - 31. If you haven't seen it before, this is an hilarious look at the misunderstandings between men and women that has been seen by over eight million people in forty five countries. The show will keep the audience in hysterics all night. Tickets: $35. hawaiitheatre.com or 528-0506.

There are a wide variety of family friendly events during Mele Mei for you and your guests to experience Hawaiian music, language and culture. Please take advantage of these celebrations, many of which are free, and give your guests something to share with their friends back home.~ Lance Rae

MAY – I have your attention please -- he he, pardon the pun, just had to say that. I do have to say, from the look of the events calendar, there will be no quiet days or nights in our town in the near future.

MOVE IT – around the Ward Warehouse amphitheater with Kanoe Cazimero and Iwalani Walsh Tseu, plus all the kumu hula and dancers they have invited to join them for a 12-hour hulathon. One of the aunties planning to be there mentioned that back in the day she danced a twelve-hour jitterbug marathon for the Red Cross, adding with a smile, "we didn't have to move our hips that much!" The May 1st event is for Breast Cancer Awareness. Cazimero says if you know a hula, get up and dance.

MANOA - is more than a cool, green valley with a jungle at the top. Pacifikology, a moving and temporary pop-up showcase featuring contemporary design, art, Hawaiian vintage and contemporary fashions and accessories, will have a ten day run at Paradise Park, May 6 to 17. Colleen Kimura of Tutuvi Sitoa and Marla Momi Musik of Laukoa Creative, have gathered twenty artists for the fun. Open daily 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Kimura is known for her stunning, hand screened fabrics from the early days of Na Mea Hawaii at Ward Warehouse and her shop, Mango Season on University Avenue. Interesting factoid, the twostory front of the building that held Mango Season and was home to Glenn Grant's Ghost Tour company, is still there, though the building behind is gone. The wall in front has a strange, somewhat ghostly, door in the center. Anyone have any ideas what's up?

MANY STITCHES - On Friday, May 8th, the Hawaii Quilt Guild opens their annual, ten day show at Linekona, the Honolulu Museum of Art School. At the entry of the show ten quilters will take the challenge to create quilt that presents their interpretation of Aloha. The big show will feature over seventy-five quilts of all styles and sizes, plus another seventeen quilts by the featured quilter, Shirfeir Sunada. One popular vote award-winner from the 2014 show, David Wotruba, is a returning quilter from Washington State. His 2014 entry, Hawaiian Garden, has been featured in the world's largest quilt show in Texas, and will continue to tour the U.S. for another year. Word has gotten around about this Hawaiian Quilts, thanks in part to concierge and hotel staff in Waikiki. Several trolley loads of visitors arrive daily, all quilters and fans, looking for inspiration or possibly a new quilt to take home. Yes, some are for sale.

MAYBE – the '80's music is not so square. After all, Taylor Dayne is guest artist on the final night of the 2014-15 Hawaii Pops Nightclub Series, May 9th, celebrating the music of the '80's. So, May 9th is the night to catch Dayne with Matt Catingub directing, playing piano and singing with his Hawaii Pops. Just watch or get up and dance the night away. Personal favorite for this year's Pops -- the Beatles tribute concert last fall. Rumor has it that even the orchestra is asking for another run down Abbey Road.

MELE WAHI PANA – is music and so much more, all under the stars. The Hawaiian Mission Houses will take you on a tour, via song, to Wai'anae. Only a short ride from Waikiki, the second in the summer concert series features music, hula, and story-telling by the more-famousby-the-day Kumu 'Ohu Sam Gon and Aaron Mahi. Even on the chilly March evening of the first concert, every chair was filled. Details, missionhouses.org.

MELE ANA – is more than a name. It is the new program called Outrigger E Mele Ana, encompassing many music events and hundreds of performances at various hotel locations. Beyond the seven night a week Kani Ka Pila Grille shows, free concerts will be presented two Sundays per month, through December, at the Waikiki Beach Walk Plaza Stage. May 10 is Del Beazley, May 24, Eric Lee. The Stage is a great place for families. Concerts are from 5 to 6 p.m. No worries for the folks, kids can be up front and personal on the grass in front of the stage, with the fountain water shut down. Food and shopping options are plentiful and every palm tree is lighted like Disney Mainstreet - kept that way after a filming of Hawaii Five-0.

MUSIC OF THE NIGHT – will be played by a planetarium director. What? Yes, really. Bishop Museum's Stars & Guitars, May 2 and 16 shows, will be serenaded by Mike Shanahan, director of visitor experience and planetarium and a highly accomplished classical guitarist. So, see the stars, hear the music and be dazzled by the ChronosII star projector, re-creating the night sky. At 9 p.m. when the last string is plucked, weather permitting, guests move to the Museum's viewing deck above the planetarium to look for stars in the real sky. Only in Hawaii. See you there!

Panelists Puakea Nogelmeier, Kamana Beamer, Noelani Arista and Tiffany Ing discuss the impact of the Hawaiian-language newspapers on new scholarship, and how that is changing perceptions of history and Hawaiian identity.

The fans of popular fiction, adventure, mystery and love should be very happy with the following list of key authors and presenters: Jay Asher, author of New York Times and international bestseller, Thirteen Reasons Why, a teen favorite that inspires anti-bullying discussions in schools across America. This school year he is hitting road to talk to teens about this important issue – making a stop in each of the 50 states, including Hawaii.

Kathryn Ma is the award-winning author of the novel The Year She Left Us, named a New York Times Editor's Choice, and selected by NPR as a Best Book of 2014.

Douglas Corleone is the author of contemporary crime novels. A former New York City criminal defense attorney, Corleone now lives in the Hawaiian Islands where he writes full time. His Last Lawyer Standing is on the shelves now. The good news for Robert Ludlum fans is that Corleone has been selected to continue the Robert Ludlum series with the first book due out in June, 2015.

Romance story lovers will be happy to hear Jane Porter, award winning author of romance fiction.

She wrote Take Me, Cowboy and Flirting With Forty, set in Seattle and Hawaii. Barry Lopez, author of Arctric Dreams, About This Life, and Of Wolves and Men.

Sam Horn, well known in Hawaii and across the world, is called the Intrigue Expert. A worldrenowned author, keynote speaker and communications strategist who has coached the world's top entrepreneurs and executives. She will be speaking on the topic of Got Your Attention? How to Create Intrigue and Connect with Anyone.

If the name Susan Scott looks familiar, it is. She writes the weekly "Ocean Watch" column for the Honolulu Star-Advertiser. Scott has written seven books about nature in Hawaii. In 2005, at 56, Susan sailed to Palmyra Atoll where she worked as a volunteer for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Her book, Call Me Captain, A Memoir of a Woman at Sea, is the story of that adventure in marriage, midlife and marine wildlife.

Chef's Corner

REAL, a gastropub Chef de Cuisine Michael Longworth Chef Mike has worked in several kitchens around town. From's Jackie's Kitchen to Sam Choy's, where he was given the opportunity to advance to Executive Chef, to Romano's Macaroni Grill and now leads the team at REAL, a gastropub where the food constantly explores the boundries of beer-centric pub-inspired food. Duck Confit Corndogs anyone?

When did you decide you wanted to be a chef? Not sure if I ever decided to be a chef. I always loved being in the kitchen, and the high level of intensity involved. I happened to be the opening sous chef at Sam Choy's Diamond Head and the chef decided to leave. Sam gave me the opportunity to become the chef.

What was your first job in the industry?

At the age of 16 my mom got me a job as a dishwasher at the restaurant where she worked as a waitress

Who would you consider your mentor and why? I think Sam Choy was a big mentor. He gave me my first opportunity as a chef. He also gave me a lot of freedom to run his kitchen, he let me grow.

You've worked at several different restaurants. How would you describe the difference?

Sam Choy's was my first chef position, lots of learning there. I had to take his ideas, and his style and make it work.We were super busy, and had a really small kitchen with very little storage. What a great challenge that was. At Jackies Kitchen I had the opportunity to design the menu for a new concept, and design the kitchen to my menu. Romano's gave me an opportunity to work for a corporate run restaurant. I learned lots of systems and how to keep the numbers tight. Here at Real I am fortunate to work with and for my buddy Troy.

You're from Boston. Die-hard sports fan?

Big sports fan! Love the Red Soxs, Bruins, Celtics, and of course the New England Patriots. If you ever poke your head in the kitchen at Real you will see the Boston everywhere.

What's your biggest pet peeve about a kitchen? Messy and unorganized cooks!

What's always in your fridge? Water, and maybe ... no that's about it!

What first brought you to Hawaii?

I was working at a summer spot on Cape Cod, and was supposed to go work at the sister restaurant in Boston, but they had a fire. One of the waiters where I was working was coming out here to Hawaii, and told me I would have no trouble finding a job. I always dreamed of coming to Hawaii, as a kid watching Hawaii 5-0, and then Magnum PI. Once I got here and experienced all the Aloha, I knew I would stay in Hawaii for some time.

Best part about living in Hawaii? Great people!

Name your favorite restaurant in town you like to go to when not working?

It seems like I am always working. I enjoy Ethel's, Hanks Haute Dogs, and I like 12th Ave Grill. There are lots of great restaurants that I would to try though.

What do you have in plan for the menu?

I am always changing items. We get tired cooking the same thing and the customers want different things. I think next is to do a major over haul, and incorporate more local ingredients.

If you had to stop being a chef tomorrow, what would you do?

I'm not sure there is anything else I'd want to do!

It seems like most chefs I see have tattoos. Do you have any? Is it a chef thing?

I don't have any yet. Lots of chefs do, and I think it's just another form of expressing themselves.

What do you like to do most on your days off? Anything out doors! I enjoy running, swimming, hiking, and just plain old relaxing.

Bacon Cheese Cake by Chef Michael Longworth

Barefoot Beach Café will use Cinco de Mayo, which falls on a Tuesday this year, to launch their new Taco Tuesdays on the beach offering a special menu and $2 tacos. They'll be offering poke by the pound and special cooler bags and even bags of ice for park BBQers during the Memorial Day weekend as well. Check BarefootBeachCafe.com for details. 924-2233. • Lots of restaurants opening in Ward Centre. Ginza Sushi opened a new casual dine-in next to the Crazy Shirts Outlet. Open from 10:30 a.m. to 9:p.m. daily, 10 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. One of my faves, AGU Ramen will open next to Kua'aina in May and will be open from 11 a.m. to midnight daily, for those seeking that late night ramen fix. Also opening in May is Bellini Bistro and Bar, next to ZPizza. Bellini, from the owner of Maile's Thai Restaurant, will feature imported meats, cheeses and pastas direct from Italy and Italian menu classics such as osso buco, piccata and tiramisu. wardvillageshops.com • As previously mentioned, I'm a big fan of AGU Ramen, but I'm hearing Golden Pork Ton-kotsu Ramen Bar, which just opened in the former Mediterraneo spot on King Street, may have taken over as the best ramen in town. Lines are out the door daily, and they've already reduced their hours because they kept running out of broth. Open for lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and dinner from 5 - 9:30 p.m., and are closed Sundays. Last call to order is a half hour before they close. 888-5358. • Speaking of Mediterraneo, he's baaack! Fabrizio has reopened his popular Italian eatery down the street from his old one in the former Wine Stop location. 593-1466. • Square Barrels opened in the former Che Pasta location downtown. Owned by the guys behind Pint + Jigger, they will be focusing on gourmet burgers and beer. We're talking Molokai venison and homemade charcuterie types of menu items. 11 a.m. - 8 p.m. Monday thru Saturday. 524-2747. • Mariposa is launching a new menu this month, but we were unable to get our hands on in time for print. Whatever Chef Marc Anthony Freiberg has planned, we know it will be delicious. 951-3420. • The District opened underneath the Republik giving nightclub fans a new hotspot to choose from. Open Fridays & Saturdays from 10 p.m. to 3 a.m., guests are asked to be 23 to enter and dress fashionably upscale. the district night club.com. ~ Pam

Mele Mai Month

From the earliest hours of the first day of May music will be, as they say, streaming live across our island. It is the official launch of Mele Mei, beginning with the celebratory luncheon for the Lifetime Achievement Awards presented by the Hawaii Academy of Recording Arts (HARA) and finishing with razzle-dazzle with the May 23rd Na Hoku Hano Hano Awards show.

The Lifetime Achievement event, is the place to see, meet, and get that Facebook shot with the honorees. It is open to all for a $75 admission that covers lunch and extraordinary music. The honorees include Henry Allen, who will there via video as he will be sailing the seas, as well as Harold Kakuole, the Ho'opi'i Brothers, Ron Jacobs, Kenneth Makuakane, Jimmy Mo'ikeha and Puamana. The entertainers list is even longer with some of the honorees performing, and more.

Waikiki hotels are embracing the Mele Mei events, nearly doubling their live music days, nights and hours. Check the line-up at the Outrigger, Sheraton Hotels, the Kahala and others, so everyone can enjoy the music of the hundreds of nominees, leading up to the big night. Workshops and events are listed on the web site, at nahokuhanohano.org, as are all of the nominees.

The favorite entertainer of the year category has ten nominees this year, and nearly all of them are performing in Waikiki and around the island; We're talking Amy & Willie K, Ledward Kaapana, Kuana Torres Kahele, Kawika Kahiapo, Henry Kapono, Mailani, Na Hoa, Keali'i Reichel and Waipuna and more. The Na Hokus cover thirty categories, giving viewers an entire night of glam and gala. This is something that no other state in the U.S. presents. Jazz, country music, classical... all have awards, but only in Hawaii is there one official language of dance and music. Celebrate it all month long at melemei.com. ~ Lynn Cook more than 6.000 lanterns will be placed onto the water with wishes for peace and happiness of loved ones past while giving hope and courgae those left behind. The vision of these flickering lanterns illuminating the waters off of Ala Moana Beach Park and floating off into the sunset is one of the most visually arresting sights available on Oahu. It's simple mesmerizing.

Those wanting to personally float a lantern during the ceremony may receive a single lantern per family or group at the Lantern Request Tent at Ala Moana Beach on the event day, from 10 a.m. Pens will be provided in the tent. Members of the public are welcome to submit their own prayers or thoughts on specially prepared paper provided by Shinnyo-en Hawaii that can then be attached to the lanterns that will be floated by volunteers. Floating homemade lanterns is highly discouraged in order to protect the environment. At the end of the ceremony all of the lanterns will be collected from the ocean and refurbished for use next year,

Scores of people will be flowing into Ala Moan Beach Park all afternoon for the ceremony that starts at 6:15 p.m. Live streaming of the proceedings and a complete schedule of events is available at lanternfloatinghawaii.com. ~ Pom

SPAM® JAM REDUX 13 Years and counting

Once a year SPAM jumps the pan and heats up taste buds in Waikiki. On Saturday, May 2, from 4 to 10 p.m., the 13th annual SPAM JAM® will be presented by Outrigger Resorts. Kalakaua Avenue will be filled with SPAM® enthusiasts enjoying many delicious SPAM® dishes. Island arts and and SPAM[®] crafts merchandise will be on sale, from T-shirts, to shorts, to slippers. perfect souvenirs of a fun event; and the popular SPAM[®] Wave by Outrigger Resorts will be back for photo opportunities. Two musical stages will feature a line-up of island artists.

Cities across the world all have their signature foods – pizza in New York, hot dogs in Chicago, and SPAM[®] in Hawaii. The islands' affinity for SPAM[®] has been a love affair years in the making, stemming back to World War II when the luncheon meat was served to GIs. Billions of cans later, Hawaii continues to celebrate the island staple at the annual Waikiki SPAM JAM[®].

Hawaii residents buy nearly seven million cans of SPAM[®] each year, making it the state that consumes more of the tasty luncheon meat than any other state in the country – that's nearly six cans of SPAM[®] per person, per year!

Approximately 25,000 festival goers will head to the Waikiki SPAM JAM[®] to celebrate our snack. Admission to the event is free, but many opportunities are offered to generate the much needed funds for the the Hawaii Foodbank, the only agency in the state of Hawaii that collects, warehouses and distributes mass quantities of both perishable and non-perishable food to 250 member agencies as well as food banks on Oahu, Kauai, Maui and Hawaii Island.

The idea for the event was cooked up by Bitsy Kelley, granddaughter of Outrigger founders Roy and Estelle Kelley, while serving up a plate of sizzling SPAM[®] during International Housekeepers Week back in 2000. Knowing that Hawaii was one of the largest consumers of SPAM[®] in the world, she was determined to make the Waikiki SPAM JAM[®] a reality. With the help of co-founder Barbara Campbell, also with Outrigger, they were able to establish a relationship with Hormel and bring the festival to life.

Hawaii's best island music groups will be performing on two entertainment stages. Ka Hehena, Brother Noland, Germaine's Luau, Del Beazley and Robi Kahakalau, Sean Naauao will perform on the stage in front of the Outrigger Waikiki. On the stage fronting Royal Hawaiian Center, artists will include Emke, Red Light Challenge, The Wreck, Legends and hula halau.

Here are a few things even the most expert Spam fan might not know about Hawaii's most mouthwatering food festival. First off, the meaning of SPAM® may never be known. To this day, the true definition of SPAM® remains a mystery. While most people assume it is short for "spiced ham," only a small circle of former Hormel Foods executives know the true meaning – and they're not talking while the flavor lasts.

Those who attend the event can look forward to sampling a wide selection of delicious local dishes from participating restaurants and food trucks, including the winning recipe from this years Great American SPAM® Championship. Teh Grand-prize recipe of Reuben SPAM® Rollups, got the winner a four-night, all expenses trip for two to this year's festival and the item will be available at the Hula Grill Waikiki food tent.

The delicious appetizer combines diced SPAM[®] Classic, Thousand Island dressing, sauerkraut and Swiss cheese, was cooked up by Montana resident Beverly Zehnter who knows her way around a can of SPAM[®]. Seems this receipe also won a blue ribbon at the 2014 Montana State Fair before being entered in this contest. As a cute sidenote, Hawaii is where Beverly originally met her husband James more than 25 years ago. They've never been back since What a way to come back to celebrate!

In addition to all the fun, celebrating SPAM[®] has another, far more serious reason behind all of the festivities. Since the inception in 2002, the festival has collected more than 25,000 pounds of SPAM[®] products and other canned food items for the Hawaii Foodbank.

"Since the very first Waikiki SPAM JAM[®] in 2002, the festival has become a must-attend event for both visitors and Hawaii residents," said Barbara Campbell, Waikiki SPAM JAM[®] cofounder and vice president of retail leasing and development at Outrigger Enterprises Group. "Whether this is your 13th time attending or your very first, there's always something new to try at Waikiki SPAM JAM[®].

Participating restaurants and their dishes include: Spamac and Cheese Balls and SPAM® cupcakes from Hard Rock Cafe; SPAM® Laulau from Atlantis Seafood & Steak; Chai's Waikiki has SPAM® and Fresh Ahi Katsu with Wasabi Curry and Fresh Mango Salsa, Spicy Garlic North Shore Shrimp; and Smoked SPAM®, Steamed Rice, Big Island Baby Greens and Tangerine Vinaigrette. Need a break from all the spamminess? There will be Hula Pie from Duke's Waikiki and Ono Pops will be serving their handmade ice pops, although they will have a candied SPAM® and Mac Nut Brittle one as well. There will also be SPAM[®] dishes from Gordon Biersch, ABC Stores, Hawaiian Pineapple, Jummy Buffet's, MAC 24/7, Mahaloha Burger, Uncle's North Shore, P.F. Chang's, Egg's 'N Things, Hula Grill and Seafood Village.

"Outrigger is proud to support the Waikiki SPAM JAM[®] and help to gather our community together to celebrate a local staple that many people enjoy here in the islands," said Bitsy Kelley, Waikiki SPAM[®] Jam co-founder and vice president of corporate communications for Outrigger Enterprises Group. "We at Outrigger are dedicated to taking care of the communities in which we live and work, which is why we are exceptionally pleased that the Waikiki SPAM[®] Jam benefits families who receive support from the Hawaii

A. Thats easy, it has to be Chef Chai's. Many times, he's around to say hello and make you feel welcome. Of course, on our property it is Bali Steak and Seafood.

Q. Do you have one particular guest that stands out?

A. I remember this couple who prepared their bucket list of things to do on Oahu. It had 20 items on it and they only had 5 days to accomplish it. She came to my desk nervous and panicking. She didn't know how to do it all. I planned her daily activities and suggested how to go about doing it. She accomplished it all in 4 days and got a day to rest. She was so happy that she complemented me to our manager on duty.

Q. What's the one question you are asked most often? A. Information about the Pearl Harbor.

Q. How do you deal with those "difficult" guests?

A. It's all about puting yourself in their shoes and going out of your way to make each person feel as if they're a guest in your home.

Q. Favorite part of the island to send guests too?

A. Haleiwa. It gives you a feel of old Honolulu and there are a lot of places to eat.

Q. What would people be surprised to learn about you? A. I am single mother of 5 and have raised my children alone. I now have granchildren and my family is my pride and joy.

Q. Where are you from originally?

A. Manila, Philippines. I migrated to San Francisco when I was 15 years old and came to Honolulu in 2000.

Q. What do you like to do most when not working?

A. I love to go the gym. I go to spinning classes, lift weights and zumba. Also, I love watching my twins plays basketball games.

Q. Any other comments you'd like to share?

A. Our concierge industry in Oahu has a great standard where we share the same spirit of aloha and proud of what we do to help every guests feels like their OHANA The Oahu Concierge is printed monthly and direct mailed FREE to all Oahu Concierge, Hospitality & Activity Professionals.
