Up Up and Away!

When the Blue Angles soar over our islands it is always an awesome sight. They inspire pride and stir emotions as they fly over the National Cemetery of the Pacific at Punchbowl. In October they will take our breath away at the 2015 Kaneohe Bay Airshow, October 17 and 18 at Marine Corps Base Hawaii in Kaneohe. Cheering and our collective pride will exceed the norm when a young man who grew up in Hawaii Kai soars above Kaneohe. The newest member of the flying team, Navy Lt. Matt Suyderhood, joined the Angels last summer. He and his twin brother, Johann, are 2001 graduates of Maryknoll School. Their dad, Jack Suyderhoud, is a professor at the University of Hawaii's Shidler College of Business. Lt. Cmdr. John Hiltz, Right Wing Pilot and applications officer for the Blue Angels said when they first selected Suyderhood, "what was most important for us, regardless of anything else, was to select the most qualified individuals for the team to represent the more than 540-thousand sailors and marines deployed around the world, around the clock. And, I am happy to say, we've done that."

The last airshow in Kaneohe was in 2012, drawing 110,000 people for the two-day event. The show begins on Friday for military and Department of Defense and their dependents.

The show website provides extensive details on all the exhibits and events. The key pieces of information include the reminder to bring, use and re-apply sunscreen and use earplugs. Water is available for sale. Good walking shoes are better than flip-flops. Of course, this is a non-smoking event

Both Saturday and Sunday, from 9 a.m. two entrance lines will speed up the entry process. Of course the military security is in full effect. Small bags, purses, fanny packs and diaper bags are permitted. No coolers or ice chests are allowed. The show will go oon Friday, but that day is reserved for Military, DoD and their dependents.

A bit of history to go with the wow factor of the Blue Angels: At the end of World War II, the Chief of Naval Operations, Chester W. Nimitz, (yes, as in demonstration team to keep the public interested in naval Aviation. The Blue Angels performed their first flight demonstration less than a year later in ▶ June 1946 at their home base, Naval Air Station in Jacksonville, Florida. LCDR Roy "Butch" Voris led the team, flying Grumman F6F Hellcat. By the end of the 1940s, the Blue Angels were flying their jet aircraft, the Grumman F9F-2 Panther. In response to the demands placed on Naval Aviation during the Korean Conflict, the team reported to the aircraft carrier USS Princeton as the nucleus of Fighter Squadron 191, known as 'Satan's Kittens," in 1950. Today the Blue Angels fly the Boeing FA-18 Hornet. Since 1946 they have performed for more than 463 million fans.

Don't miss Fat Albert while you're out there. Fat Albert is a USMC C-130T Hercules. responsible for transporting the Blue Angels maintenance and support personnel, communication equipment, spare parts and other necessities. The loaded aircraft travels at 320 knots, that's about 360 miles per hour, at an altitude of 27,000 feet and has been nicknamed nicknamed, "Fat Albert Airlines. The fat one is powered by four turbo-prop engines producing 16,000 horsepower that allows the aircraft to land and depart on runways as short as 1,500 feet, climbing at a 45-degree angle. The aircraft can attain an altitude of 1,000 feet in 15 seconds – avoiding hostile environments. These are the facts that inspire Hollywood movies.

Another attraction at the airshow comes with a powerful story that validates the desire to fly. Most people start thinking about retirement when they hit 50, but Jacquie Warda did the exact opposite. She had earned her pilot certificate when she was 32 and had been introduced to aerobatic flying soon thereafter. She has been flying on the side ever since. She quit her job and pursued her dream of becoming an air show performer, becoming the first female pilot to launch a solo aerobatic career at the age of 50 as Jacquie B.

Get your inner zombies ready. Halloween falls on a Saturday this year, so Kalakaua Avenue is sure to be crawling with ghosts and goblins and more as party revelers converge into the night to celebrate. Countless bars and restaurants around town will be hosting special events (usually with oh-so-special cover charges) in honor of this beloved tradition that justifies both eating candy and gives you one of the best excuses all year to get dressed up and party! By far the biggest festivities will take place in Waikiki and downtown. But there's more out there than just a big party or twelve. Let's take a look at how Honolulu will be celebrating Halloween this year.

IN SEARCH OF THE GREAT PUMPKIN

While Linus continues to wait for this fictional character to appear, here on Oahu all you have to do if you want to go pick your own pumpkins head on out to the Aloun Farms Pumpkin Patch in Kapolei. The 15th annual Pumpkin Festival takes place the first 3 weekends in October. For a $3 entry fee, visitors can pick corn, beans, sunflowers, pumpkins and more. There will be craft booths and a farmers market to browse though, hay rides, keiki games, food vendors and live entertainment. A unique island tradition for all to enjoy. October 10-11th, 17-18th & 24-25th Continues on page 16.

Publisher's Letter Aloha'Oe Naga

live on an island. Everyone knows everybody, and this industry is small and extremely close, so when a valued member of our industry passes away it touches us all. When it happens suddenly without warning it is tragic. When that person is as well known and as well liked to most of us as David Nagaishi was, it is devastating. When you remember that person was married to our own friend and concierge, Wendy Nagaishi, it's simply heartbreaking. Both of them have always been there for me. It seems like I've known David forever. He knew my Dad from his days at Coco's and the Black Orchid. Over the years I got to know him more and more and when Wendy started working with Elissa Josephsohn, that just put our paths together even more. His life touched so many and I know that many, many people reading this column knew him well and are grieving.

Soon after I started doing this publication I got called out a few times for being out late at night acting silly because people recognized me from the magazine. By the time I would get into the office the next morning there would be emails asking why I was traipsing through a hotel lobby at 2 a.m. I didn't see anyone I knew, but clearly they had seen me, so I realized I need to 'behave' a bit more now that I was a 'professional.' Maui became my playground. I could get as silly as I want and I barely knew anyone so I could get away with it without any repercussions. One Halloween in the late 90s, I was cruising down Front Street in a costume I would never wear on Oahu as it could only be described as somewhat inappropriate, when I ran into David in front of the Lahaina Street Fish Company. He laughed, he gasped, and he took our picture. For years he brought up that picture and 'threatened' good naturedly to use it as blackmail, especially if he needed a favor. I doubt he had any idea where that picture was anymore it's been so long, but he never let me forget it. It became a running joke he brought up at the worst possible moment he could to be funny. He was good about calling and keeping in touch in regards to the restaurants he was at, and never hesitated to step up if I was looking for a gift certificate for you guys. He was good natured, he was the consummate professional, he was everyone's friend, a mentor to many and he was Wendy's everything. He was truly loved by all and I am so thankful I had just been able to spend some time with him a few weeks before it happened. He had recently left Ocean House to work at Pounders at PCC and I stopped in to say hi when I was out there for the Courtyard Oahu North Shore opening. He was really happy with the change and excited about what was ahead. He had a lot of plans for that place and was sharing quite a few of them with us that day. Naga.. you will be sorely missed. A hui ho my friend. Say hi to my Dad for me, will ya?

It's been a busy few weeks in the industry with a ton of changes with familar faces. Meali'i Richardson recently left her position as Guest Services Manager at the Outrigger Reef Hotel but did so in order to take over as Director of Front Office at the Westin Moana Surfrider.

Great opportunity. Congratulations! • We want to welcome Sandy Narvaez as the Director of Sales and Marketing to the Hilton Waikiki Beach Hotel. She replaces Mary Neister, who has taken on the Vice President Meet Hawaii responsibilities at the Hawaii Visitors & Convention Bureau. Meet Hawaii is a joint effort between the HVCB and the Hawaii Convention Center to reinforce the Islands as a world-class destination for business meetings, conventions, and incentive programs.. • Lots of movement at Starwood Hotels & Resorts Hawaii these past few weeks. Stephanie Dowling has left her position as director of communications to move back to the mainland. Charlene Nakamura has been named complex director of sales, leaving her position as the director of sales and marketing at The Royal Hawaiian. Longtime complex director of public relations, Scott Kawasaki, left that position to take over the director of sales and marketing

Charlene left when she moved. Got all that? More announcements once they fill Scott and Stephanie's positions. • The Sheraton Waikiki promoted their executive chef, Daniel Delbrel to the position of director of culinary. Taking over as executive chef will be Matthew Naula. Matthew used to be the executive banquet chef at the hotel before leaving for a year to take the executive chef position at the Sheraton Kona. Blake Kajiwara take over as executive sous chef after 13 years at the Kahala. • Speaking of The Kahala Hotel. & Resort, they hired Michelle Brumblay as director of food & beverage. She was most recently at Makena Beach & Golf & Resort on Maui and brings with her over 35 years of experience. The Kahala also recently appointed Jacob Keana'aina and Beverly Guiang as Travel Industry Sales Managers. Jacob was hired just over a year ago at the hotel as a sales coordinator and Beverly previously worked as a sales manager at The Ihilani Resort. • Paul Dyson has been selected ro run the Honolulu Zoo Society volunteer board of directors for the next three years. Dyson is the COO of the Battleship Missouri. • The Hawaii Convention Center has named Kevin Nakata executive chef, in charge of their in-house culinary team, overseeing all food and beverage operations at the center. He was recently employed as the executive sous chef at the Royal Hawaiian.

The Hawaii Food & Wine Festival wrapped up last month after 20 events on 3 islands were held in 9 days with over 100 chefs and sommeliers. Chef Roy Yamaguchi, new Hawaii Restaurant Association Hall of Fame inductee Chef Alan Wong, Executive Director Denise Hayashi Yamaguchi, Development Manager Aya Nishihara and the rest of their team that also included countless volunteers, deserve a huge nod of recognition for their efforts in putting on such a successful festival and for their part in putting Hawaii on the culinary map. Can't wait to see what they do next year. Mark your calendars for October 14-30, 2016! HFWF.me

Pitts Special biplane, and is now flying an Extra 300 monoplane. She made the switch from a biplane of many years to something new. Her red Extra is faster, more capable of gyroscopic maneuvers, and has two seats so she can give rides if she so desires. With more than 2,800 flight hours and 1000 coast-to-coast air show performances behind her, Jacquie B has reached beyond the limits placed on her and broke stringent cultural boundaries when she became the first female solo pilot to perform at the 2010 Al Ain Aerobatic Show in the United Arab Emirates, and now, she is bringing that show to us here in Hawaii. The US Navy Parachute Team, the "Leap Frogs", will also be there, making for perfect photo-op moments.

The airshow is free but tickets are available for purchase with shaded seating and various levels of amenities. Top Brass tickets, at $85 for adults, include breakfast, lunch, snacks, beer and wine, the event program and an airshop cap. Other choices include Devil Dog Chalet, Flight Deck and Box Seat/Grandstand, each covered with various levels of amenities starting at $12. A midway featuring rides and about 2 dozen food booths from places such as Big City Diner, Gordon Biersch, Lanikai Juice and more will be offering food, drink and snacks for sale. During the air show free shuttles will transport guests between parking lots and the show itself. One there, walkaround demonstrations and displays include nearly everything that flys. Entertainment by Maunalua, the Royal Hawaiian Band, hula halau and more as well as arts, lauhala, lei, crafts, Hawaiian food. $5 adults, $1 kids. Free parking

NAVY GETS IN FREE

In honor of the U.S. Navy's birthday, Pearl Harbor Historic Sites will waive the admission of all active duty and retired Navy personnel and their families into the Battleship Missouri Memorial, Pacific Aviation Museum Pearl Harbor, and the USS Bowfin on October 10th and 11th. Just present a valid military ID at the ticket booth to redeem.

If you are not sure what to wear for Halloween this year, perhaps you can get inspiration from one of the many cultural concerts occurring on Honolulu stages this October. Strutting their best Zoolander looks will be taiko drummers, hipster Tang, Song and Yuan Dynasty tea ladies and soldiers, hula dancers pulling whatever is in their closets and a few paniolo dudes running from the fashion police. If that isn't enough inspiration then you can always spill paint on a white dress and say you're a piece of walking art or just wear black and say that you are Tim Burton.

You know, one thing that you haven't seen in a Tim Burton film yet are taiko drummers, but I am sure if Mr. Burton ever had a chance to experience Hawaii's very own Kenny Endo, he would create a character based on him probably using bones as drum sticks. Well, before we let Kenny go Hollywood, the first thing we need to do is celebrate his 40 years as a performer at the HAWAII THEATERE on October 10 at 7 p.m. The concert entitled "Ten Ten" will feature leading artists in contemporary percussion and rhythm from the US and Japan. For those of your guests are an unfamiliar with taiko drumming, this will definitely be an eye opening experience for them. As you know, Kenny Endo has transformed taiko in Hawaii and blended its rhythms with percussion from around the world and created many original melodies and improvisations. Some of the special guests joining Kenny and his Taiko Ensemble of Honolulu and the Taiko Center of the Pacific Youth Group are Jeff Peterson (Hawaiian Slack Key Guitar), Hiromitsu Agatsuma (Tsugaru Shamisen, Tokyo), Hitoshi Hamada (Vibraphone, Tokyo) and Kaoru Watanabe (Bamboo Flutes, New York). Tickets range from $20 to $60 and available at the Hawai'i Theatre Box Office by phone at 528-0506. Did you know that in feudal Japan, taiko were used to motivate troops, just like drums in western culture to call out orders or set marching pace?

Taiko were most likely introduced to the Japanese in the 6th century by the Chinese, and similar percussion instruments will be used by the Ming Hwa Yuan 2015 Goodwill Mission Tour at the HAWAI'I THEATRE on October 13th at 6:30 p.m. Ming Hwa Yuan is one of the most creative Taiwanese opera troops to visit Hawai'i in recent years. This is not your tutu's Chinese dance show. This production is infused with more Broadway than Beijing. There will be two set piece presented. The first is entitled "Lovebirds Spears" and is based on a familiar Chinese love tale about an Emperor exploring his kingdom in disguise and falls in love with a beautiful teahouse lady. This comedy of course involves a martial arts competition and ends happily ever after. Think Matthew McConaughey as the emperor and Kate Hudson as the teahouse babe but Chinese. The second set piece is more dramatic and entitled "General of the Empire" which depicts the battle of two armies. One of the highlights is an action sequence that revolve around the use of a ladder. Tickets range from $12 to $32 and can be purchase through the box office number listed above or online at HawaiiTheatre.com.

Now if your guests are looking from something more Hawaiian, then suggest Huliau 2015...What's in Your Hula Closet? on October 17th at 7 p.m. also at the HAWAII THEATRE. Kumu Hula Michael Pili Pang and Halua Hula Ka Noeau will be pulling out many of its old works and costumes for an evening celebrating its past and also giving a sneak peek into some of the halau's new hula choreography. Tickets are $30 and you know the drill on how to get them. If you guests are looking to see something local as well as experience the grandness of the Hawaii Theatre this is definitely a production to consider.

Now if you guests are looking for grand Hawaiian entertainment, then the night is October 23rd at 7:30 p.m. The show is called Wanted - The Rough Riders and just who are these bad boys of Hawaiian music -- Henry Kapono, John Cruz and Brother Noland, that's who! The trio is wrapping up their 2015 "We Ride" Tour at the Hawaii Theatre. The name "Rough Riders" was inspired by the 1908 Hawaiian Rough Riders (Ikua Purdy, Archie Ka'aua and Jack Low), three paniolo who combined their (cowbovs) determination and style to become World Rodeo Champions. Performing in the spirit of these paniolo, Henry, John and Brother Noland, have come together to create an exceptional concert that blends their musical styles and vast catalogs of original hits for a night of ruckus harmonies and inebriated fun. Tickets range from $37 to $147 for VIP seats. The VIP package include orchestra center seating, parking at Mark's Garage, one drink, one CD and a 15-minute acoustic pre-show performance. Your guests will definitely give you a big kiss when they return to the hotel after this

There's another concert in town this month that should also make your guests give you a kiss. The HAWAII SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA starts its Music That Pops Season with a performance of Disney in Concert: Tim Burton's The Nightmare Before Christmas at the Neal Blaisdell Concert Hall on Saturday, October 31st at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, November 1 at 2 p.m. The film will be projected on the big screen with dialog, singing and sound effects accompanied by Danny Elfman's score performed by the Symphony. Audience members are encouraged to attend in costume. What a very cool way to spend Halloween night! Tickets can be purchased online via Ticketmaster and range from $27 to $79.

Now if theatrical or musical performances are not to your guest's liking, and they look kind of artsy and hate sitting by the pool, I suggest sending them to THE ART GALLERY AT THE UNIVERISTY OF HAWAII at Manoa. I know U.H. isn't usually on a tourist's list of places to see while in Hawaii, but the new exhibition entitled New New York: Abstract Painting in the 21st Century is a thorough look into the recent resurgence of abstract art in the New York arts scene. Over 30 New York artists are represented and the exhibition includes a series of lectures and panel discussions during the first week of October. The exhibition opens on October 4th and runs until December 4th. For more information on gallery hours and parking, please call 956-6888 or you can e-mail gallery@hawaii.edu. ~ Lance Rae

Funty Lynn's Haventures X

Walking into Long's in Kahala, sale ad in hand and headed to the paper towel aisle, there was a scream. Three or four shoppers jumped, one dropped her little red basket and we all began to laugh. Of course, the scream came from the battery-driven head of a skeleton, draped in a black hood, perched on a shelf filled with spooky stuff that reminds us all that the night of ghouls and ghosts is almost here.

TINY BITES – One aisle over is a better part of the month of October – packages of Snickers with orange wrappers. Because of the seasonal color, or maybe because the tiny candies fill bowls and buckets, ready to be tossed into Trick or Treat bags, they seem far less dangerous to the waistline. Take two, maybe three, they're small.

TAGGING ALONG - with my buds as we adventure for the TGIF Pau Hana Patrol pages of the Honolulu Star Advertiser. These are new treats in my trick 'n tasting bag. The list of my happy hour faves grows. First, Waikiki, with a cold Aussie beer, treat yourself to the sweet corn fritters at Bill's. Just down the street, Kani Ka Pila Grille's Ko'olau Nachos served up with Hawaiian music seven nights a week. Over at Ward Village (still working on remembering it is now called a village) Fresh guacamole at Mexico Cantina. Miss what was once Compadres, filled with Peggy Chun murals and art. This incarnation seems to work. Bellini Bistro and Bar gave everyone a taste of Oxtail Ossobucco. I have to say, my uncle Charlie's oxtail soup pales by comparison. Still at the top of my list, Ryan's pea salad and a glass of Dechutes Black Butte Porter. Also found aforementioned beer at Puka's at Whole Foods Kahala, nicely matched to a fried green tomato sandwich.

TIME TO SHOP – craft fairs that is. The season is upon us and the craft fair shopping options are every weekend, all over the island. Again, check the Star-Advertiser web site for fall 2015 listings. Seventeen are listed for just the month of October. The Windward Hoolaulea at Windward Community College will have seventy artisans and crafters on October 3rd. In town, my personal favorite is the TEMARI's 34th Trash & Treasure Fair from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Manoa Grand Ballroom, which isn't in Manoa. It is at the Japanese Chamber of Commerce building on Beretania, not far from the University - King Street intersection with lots of parking. Some of Oahu's finest artists and craftsmen exhibit and sell at this event. October 11th is the Seasons Best Craft & Gift Fair at the Neal Blaisdell Center Exhibition Hall. Take big empty bags. The trick for visitors is to take the treasures directly to the Waikiki Post Office, fill a couple of the ships anywhere boxes so their treasures will be waiting when they get home.

TELLING TALES – to whet your appetite for the month of (ghost) story-telling, here's a tale from Punahou School, written by Glen Grant in his book Chicken Skin Tales, available on Amazon. This month spooky stories from his books are being read on ghost tours in Chinatown, the Manoa Chinese Cemetary, up Nu'uanu Pali Highway, as well as bookstores and classrooms. Fireballs, pele sightings and haunted places encourage you to buy the book. Below is an abbreviated version of one story, The Pauahi Dome, that Grant once told at a Punahou assembly.

"A distinctive blue-and-white dome sat on the top of the lava-stone Pauahi Building at Punahou School campus for many years until the late 1950's when it was decided to renovate the historic building. At that time the dome was removed for refurbishing, but with the rising costs of construction and the delays normal in any administrative procedure, the dome was never replaced. People forgot about the handsome dome with the school colors that once graced the campus.

One of Honolulu's most historic campuses, established in 1841 as a school for the children of Protestant missionaries, Punahou has had a proud history intricately tied to Hawaii. The names of buildings represent several well-known figures in missionary history, including the Pauahi building, named for Princess Bernice Pauahi Bishop, the last of the heirs to the Kamehameha lands.

In honor of the 150th anniversary of Punahou Schools it was decided that the dome would be restored. The funds were raised and, in 1991, the date was selected to hoist the dome in place with a very large crane. As the dome was about to be lifted winds began to blow, the sky turned dark and rain stopped the work. For ten days the winds continued to blow.

Finally a worker told the faculty "tomorrow we will go forward with the job, no matter what the weather is like." The crew was doubled but the next day the storm continued. At the moment the dome was lifted all wind and rain stopped. The sky cleared above the campus, a rainbow appeared. The school band walked by, stopped and a teacher asked them to play Hawaiian music.

When the teacher returned to her office she was still smiling at the success of the project. She looked at the historic dates marked on her desk calendar. It was December 19th, 1991 – the 110th birthday of Princess Bermice Pauahi Bishop."

On that day, I think we should all stop by and hum a bit of Happy Birthday to our Princess. See you there.

40 YEARS OF DRUMMING Kenny Endo

Late in the day, as you drive past the charming, vintage white church on the street side of the parking lot at Kapiolani Community College, you might hear a haunting sound. Those are taiko drums beating, and that sound is called "ten ten." referring to the sound of the rope lashed taiko drum. Twice struck in the middle of the drum, it makes the sound "ten.. ten."

The restored church building has been the home of taiko education for many years, taught by taiko master, Kenny Endo. He is renowned around the world and is the first non-Japanese national to have received a natori, stage name and masters degree in hogaku hayashi, classical drumming. In the hogaku world, Endo is known as Mochizuki Tajiro. Endo looks like a local boy with a little silver hair. To the taiko world he is a rock star. His back-story began at age nine. Raised in Los Angeles he discovered western drums, later following the sound of the taiko to San Francisco to study with Japanese masters. A ten-year odyssey to study in Japan earned him the honors as nature.

Endo's 40th anniversary concert will take place at Hawaii Theatre on, you guessed it, 10/10, October 10th, at 7 p.m. Tickets are priced from $20 to $60 for a lineup that is history making. Kenny Endo has invited the most celebrated artists on his list of teachers, friends and fellow musicians.

The event features Endo with Tsugaru shamisen, a percussive style of Japanese banjo-like lute from northern Japan, presented by the man Endo calls a "wizard." Hiromitsu Agatsuma from Tokyo. At age fourteen, Agatsuma was named Top Artist in the All-Japan Tsugaru Jamisen Competition. He went on to earn top honors in the prestigious National Competitions. What sets him apart from his contemporaries is his versatility to collaborate with all genres of artists. Agatsuma performs with Kabuki and Noh theatre artists, rock, jazz, and more. Reviews often say that Agatsuma is to Tsugaru shamisen as Jake Shimabukuro is to the ukulele.

The artists participating in the concert perform around the world. To honor Endo they are coming together in Hawaii and fans will be flying in for this historic concert event. Some of the special guests include Hitoshi Hamada, considered the #1 jazz vibraphonist in Japan. He meets his U.S. match in this concert with world-class local jazz vibraphonist Noel Okimoto.

Grammy award winning Hawaiian Slack Key

Guitarist Jeff Peterson is also on the bill. Endo and Peterson recorded a Na Hoku Hanohano nominated album "Island Breeze" with shakuhachi artist Riley Lee. Together they have created a beautiful fusion of new music.

Kaoru Watanabe is the former principal bamboo flutist from the world renowned KODO drummers of Sado Island. He is also the top-ranking transverse bamboo flutist in the country. Versed in traditional Japanese, Western classical, jazz, and fusion, Kaoru is incomparable to none. Now based in New York, Kaoru has served several times as Artistic Director of Kodo's world famous Earth Celebration Festival. He is principal instructor of the Kaoru Watanabe Taiko Center in Brooklyn, New York and has collaborated and performed with Endo countless times internationally and across the U.S. He too will be flying in.

"Rhythm Summit" features Endo with Noel Okimoto and the innovative Dean Taba on bass. Joining Rhythm Summit will be Todd Yukumoto on saxophone and flutes. Commissioned by Mayor Mufi Hanneman and the Mayor's Office on Culture and the Arts back in 2008 to create new music, the Rhythm Summit trio released a CD of all original music in 2010.

Yi Chieh Lai plays the GuZheng, a Chinese plucked zither. Her first album, Transformation— Contemporary Taiwanese Zheng Music Performance, was nominated as the Best Folk Music Album of the Golden Melody Awards, Taiwan's equivalent of the Grammys. Originally from Taiwan, she now resides in Honolulu working towards her doctorate degree at the University of Hawaii. She and Endo just recorded several tunes for her upcoming CD.

The Kenny Endo Taiko Ensemble (KETE) is one of the top taiko groups in the nation, with or without Endo. The ensemble has been entertaining Hawaii audiences for 25 years. KETE will also collaborate with UH Department of Dance professor/choreographer Peggy Adams in Endo's composition entitled "Midnight Moon," a piece for 12 dancers/drummers. "Midnight Moon" was a project in 2012 supported in part by the Mayor's Office on Culture and the Arts.

The spirited Taiko Center of the Pacific Youth Group will debut two new compositions composed by Kenny Endo and Masato Baba. The youth range in age from 9 to 17 and have studied taiko for three to ten years. They are part of the "Developing the Next Generation of Taiko Artists" project sponsored by Taiko Arts Center and supported in part by Mayor Kirk Caldwell and the Mayor's Office on Culture and the Arts.

Kenny Endo is by far the premier taiko solo artist in the United States. He has been at the forefront of the taiko genre for 40 years, continuing to pave new paths for the ancient Japanese drum. Instrumental in popularizing the taiko art form all across the country and especially here in Hawaii, "Kenny Endo's" name is synonymous with the word "taiko" in the greater musical world. A performer, composer, and teacher of taiko with numerous awards and accolades, Endo is a consummate artist, blending Japanese taiko with rhythms influenced from around the world into original melodies and improvisation. This is an excellent chance to see him perform with some of the wrold's best.

Tickets will cost between $20-$60 and are available at the Hawaii Theatre Box Office. Call 528-0506 or go to hawaiitheatre.com. ~ Lynn

Chef's Corner

Hoku's Chef de Cuisine Hiroshi Inoue

Fresh off the plane from Japan, Hoku's new chef de cuisine has already made a big impression with his new dishes on the Hoku's menu, each one more impressive than the last, incorporating Asian and Mediterranean influences into the menu using his extensive experience with Michelin Star cuisine. He has added some wonderful new dishes to the Hoku's menu, but made sure to their signature dishes stayed.

You just moved to Hawaii from Japan. Ever been here?

in Honolulu, I instantly fell in love. Hawaii is a very special very friendly and welcomed me with open arms. It is a true and I convey that into my cooking style. statement when people say "lucky we live in Hawaii."

When did you decide you wanted to be a chef?

I grew up in a city that people refer to as the food capital in Japan Osaka. This city is home to the best food offerings in Japan ranging from fine dining to street carts. When I was nine years old, I remember going to a Chinese restaurant at the Royal Hotel Osaka with my family. This is probably when I first experienced unparalleled hospitality at a luxury hotel and restaurant. Not only was the food extraordinary, but the service was impeccable, creating an unforgettable dining experience. That together with growing up in the food capital of the nation inspired me to become a chef.

What is your first childhood food memory?

My mother was very health conscious and specialized in macrobiotic cooking. She put her own spin on classic Japanese dishes such as mochi made with taro and miso with no dairy. Not many children grow up with macrobiotic meals.

What was your first job in the industry?

When I was 18 years old, I attended culinary school full time and also worked part time as a chef at an Italian restaurant in Japan. This was my first experience cooking Italian food such What are your plans for the menu at Hoku's? as pizzas and pasta.

Who would you consider your mentor and why?

I met Chef Susumu Fukui at The Ritz Carlton Osaka where I started my culinary career. I looked up to him and shadowed him in the kitchen. A lot of what I know today is attributed to observing him combine different ingredients, watching his cooking techniques and creatively plating the finished product like an artist using the plate as a blank canvas.

How would you describe your style of cooking?

A fusion of Mediterranean cuisine which reflects their rich ingredients and the beautiful weather and delicateness and sensibility of Japanese cuisine. I believe most of my dishes are unique. I would like to add uniqueness and surprise to What do you like best about living in Hawaii? all my dishes. That is why I will keep creating new dishes.

You worked around the world, has that influenced your style? At each place you work, you leave with a certain skill and style that you pick up. I had the honor of working with some What do you like to do on your time off? of the best chefs in the world and learning their technique and style whether it is French, Italian, Japanese, Chinese, Southern or others. This, for me, results in a globally diverse point of view when it comes to cooking.

Where do you find your culinary inspiration?

I am very fortunate to have traveled the world to visit you under his wing.

different places, try different foods and experience different This is my first time to Hawaii. As soon as the plane landed cultures. As I travel from place to place, I take everything in one moment at a time. Everything from the different place that encompasses different cultures. Everyone here is landscapes to the different seasons are filed into my memory

> Is there a dish you tasted that stands out above any other? Abalone liver. It's considered a country delicacy in Japan that's full of flavor and definitely an acquired taste. I love trying unusual dishes.

What would people be surprised to learn about chefs?

We don't cook just to feed you. We create an entire experience for you from the moment you sit down until the moment you leave. We are like storytellers through food.

Favorite ingredient you like to work?

Olive oil. You can do so much with it and it is a staple in Mediterranean style of cooking.

Your plating is extraordinary. Is there a class in plating in Japan? I've see some amazing plating from Japanese chefs. Japanese people put a lot of effort into quality and precision in everything that they do whether it is wrapping a gift or decorating a cake. For me, my ideas and creatively come organically as I start to plate food. I love using white or clear plates as a blank canvas and plating everything off centered because I think it's more interesting to be non-symmetrical.

I want to refresh our menu every so often. I love being able to offer something new to our guests that will keep them on the edge of the seats and curious to see what's next.

What three things should a cook always have on hand?

Salt, pepper and olive oil. These are the three must-haves when you're in the kitchen.

What do you cook at home?

Noodles! Whether it is Chinese fried noodles, Italian pasta or Japanese noodle soup, I love making noodle dishes at home.

What would we find in your refrigerator at home? Beer and wine. My two vices.

Definitely the weather. Although we don't get to experience all four seasons here, having beautiful weather all year round is something we can't complain about!

I recently moved to Hawaii Kai. I love enjoying the trade winds and the pristine ocean waters in East Oahu.

Dining Dish

Lee Anne Wong is my hero. She has one restaurant that opens at the crack of dawn every day, and then she opened her latest restaurant Hale Ohuna that serves dinner nightly. That means into Koko Head Cafe before the sun is up, and then across the street to the new restaurant until the wee hours of the morning. Less that a week after she opened she also had to prep for the Food & Wine Festival event Saturday night at the Convention Center followed by the Battle of Brunch Sunday morning at the Hyatt, which she won I might add. That schedule was insane. There was no chance for sleep but she pulled it off like a champ. For the record, that new restaurant is as awesome as you thought it might be. Although it's a modern noodle house - and the noodles were good - it was some of her appetizers that excited us the most. Her gyoza uses the chicken skin as the wrapper before being deep fried and it's amazing. So are her savory ocean malasadas with charred fish and wasabi aioli. But it's the Lamburger with spicy tempura cheese that sent us through the roof. Delicious! Open for dinner nightly from 5 to 10 p.m., midnight on Friday and Saturdays. 744-7567. • Hoku's new chef de cuisine Hiroshi Inoue held an intimate preview dinner of some of his new dishes before they launched the new menu last month. One word? Superb. From the plating to the ingredients to the flavor, everything was excellent. I went just two days after I had hit their Sunday Brunch for the first time in ages, which was as good as I had remembered (especially if you like seafood), but the new menu hit all sort of other notes. It was a nice fresh infusion for a longstanding mainstay. Standouts of the evening? His plating. Each dish coming out like works of art. The Hamachi Shot. Avocado, crispy sushi ginger, micro greens and ponzu vinaigrette. Grilled Bison Rib Eye with Mozzarella Cheese, eggplant and a rosemary red wine sauce was extremely tender, rare for such a lean cut of beef, and a potato truffle napolean hit all the right notes for me. Check out his interview on page 9 to learn about the guy Executive Chef Wayne Hirabayashi has entrusted the Hoku's kitchen with. • Uncle Bo's Haleiwa opened last month in the new North Shore Marketplace. Looks similar to the Kapahulu one inside with the same menu items and a fresh take on the drink menu. and there was already a line out the door. Way to go Bo! • Openings on the horizon? Vino is slated to open October 1st across the way from their former location. • Tommy Bahama is scheduled to open up their new restaurant on Beachwalk at the end of the month with Chad Yang, formerly of BLT Waikiki and Morimoto, as the general manager.

GET YOUR FRIGHT ON

Now in it's 10th year, the Haunted Plantation is the longest running, most frightening haunted attraction in Hawaii - and one of the most popular returns for 10 weekend nights beginning October 9th. Remember, the Hawaiian Plantation Villages was home to many people from different cultures who migrated here in the late 1800s and the story goes, many of those souls still haunt the villages to this day. You will be chased, you will be taunted and you will be scared. This is not for pregnant women, people prone to seizures or have heart or respiratory problems or children under the age of 13. You will not be admitted if you appear intoxicated. $15 GA, $30 fast pass, $50 for front of the line. Word of advice? Pay for the fast pass. Go to hawaiihauntedplantation.com for all the details and restrictions or call 677-0110.

While you're out there be sure to visit Dole Plantation as it transforms from a family-friendly attraction to a downright fright-inducing starting Oct. 9 with Nightmare at Dole Plantation 3. Check out a horrifying haunted house that features myriad terror-inducing images that haunt our dreams in the House of Nightmares and the Nightmare Express, a spine-chilling train ride accompanied by hair-raising ghost stories by Lopaka Kapanui. Every Friday and Saturday night in October beginning October 9th from 7-11 p.m. Tickets are $10 for the train ride, $13 for the haunted house. Pre-sale tickets are available through October 15th and $2 coupons can be found at all Times Supermarkets. Be advised Nightmare at Dole Plantation is too intense for children and all kids under the age of 13 must be accompanied by an adult. dole-plantation.com.

New this year is a 30-minute live theatrical zombie experience. Outbreak is an interactive show from the producers of the Haunted Plantation in Ward Villages. Located at 1020 Auahi Street, Bldg, 3, between Sports Authority and the Farmers Market. Shows will be every 15 minutes Wednesday thru Sundays starting at 6:30 p.m. until 10:30 p.m., 11:30 on Fridays and Saturdays beginning on October 16th. Tickets $20. Call 783-8381 or theoutbreakexperience.com

SPOOKY STORYTELLERS

Who doesn't love a good ghost story? Thee's none better than Jeff Gere, especially around Halloween, which ironically happens to be his birthday. The 27th annual Talk Story Festival takes place on October 17th. Free to the public Jeff and some his storytelling friends will spin creepy tales from 5:30 - 8:30 p.m. at McCoy Pavilion.

What could be spookier than a graveyard at midnight on Halloween? Not much, which is why the 9th annual Graveyard Shift Halloween Tour is back for the brave souls that dare to explore some of Oahu's most notorious haunted locations in the middle of the night. This special midnight Halloween tour through spooky places such as Morgan's Corner. Tickets cost $66.60. Space is limited. Operated by Oahu Ghost Tours, they have also just announced a brand new tour called Myths and Legends of Waikiki. Since Waikiki used to be the home to many of Hawaii's royalty, there is actually a deeper, darker and creepier side of this tourist mecca, with plenty of haunted hot spots and unexplained events that our visitors may not know about. This brand new ghost walk will take you through all that's haunted in Waikiki and share stories about Madame Pele sightings and the Choking Ghost of Waikiki, who waits for just the right moment when you go to sleep in your hotel bed to attack. Head out on a two-hour walking tour and hear the scary stories associated with them. oahughosttours.com or 524-4944.

GET YOUR FREAK ON

When it comes to Halloween parties, there's plenty of zombies roaming through Waikiki from club to club, but the real party will downtown when the 8th annual Hallowbaloo Music & Arts Festival turns Chinatown into the biggest costume block party this town has ever seen. This year with Halloween falling on a Saturday, Hallowbaloo will take place on All Hallows eve itself and promises be bigger and better than ever. This year's festivities will extend from Chinatown to the Hawaii State Art Museum (HiSAM) and surrounding streets. The main stage and epicenter of the street festival will be located on the HiSAM lawn. Two additional stages will be erected on Richards Street with food, beverage and vendor tents interspersed along both Richards Street and Hotel Street (between Alakea and Richards streets). Families are encouraged to come down to wander the street festival before the rest of the ghouls come out for an evening of dastardly fun. The street festival runs from 5:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. with complimentary trolley service from Nuuanu Avenue to Alakea Street. Club Hallowbaloo returns, offering partygoers one wristband (starting at $10) for entry into 8 different downtown clubs. Headlining the muscial line-up is the renown soul artist Booker T Jones. Local artists Taimane, Mike Love and more will also perform. Revelers looking for a more upscale version of the evening can attend the 1st annual HiSAM Hallowbaloo Ball. Held inside the beautiful Sculpture Garden and 2nd Floor Courtyard of HiSAM, the event offers a haute VIP Halloween experience with top Chinatown food purveyors, custom cocktails and live entertainment. For tickets and the complete schedule of events head over to their website at hallowbaloo.com.

From there head on over to the M Nightclub for Nightmare on M Street. This indoor/outdoor event startts at 9 p.m. Although there will be free admission into the outdoor block party until midnight, there will be s a cover charge to get into the nightclub. In honor of the prolific horror film director, Wes Craven who passed away on August 30th, the event pays ribute to all of our favorite cult-classic slasher films and their villians... Freddy Kreuger, Jason, Norman Bates and more. $25 presale tickets available online. mnlhnl.com. ~ Pam

Concierge of the Month

NAME Mami Chee

HOTEL: Sheraton Waikiki

TITLE: JTB Luana Concierge & Asian Guest Services

Q. How long have you been with the Sheraton?

A. Since 1997. Fortunately, these 18 years has been a blast. My job is to take care of the Japanese customers of Look JTB members.

Q. How big is your team there?

A. There are 3 people in Luana Lounge and 10 people at the Asian guest service. We really support each other and we have an amazing team.

Q. What makes the Luana Lounge different?

A. We are located on the 23rd floor. It's amazing. Our customers are extremely satisfied by the beautiful ocean front view of Diamond Head. I'm very proud of what we have to offer. We have a morning service for 4 hours and an evening service for 4 hours. In the peak hours we have more than 500-800 customers per day. It is a big challenge for me to have a stable rotation of customers whilst answering questions.

Q. Where did you work before this?

A. I was originally hired as a guest service agent in the lobby. Before JTB Luana Lounge, I was working at the Honu Ohana Lounge. I was previously working as a tour guide at Watabe Wedding Service.

Q. How did you get your start in the industry?

A. Back in the days, tourists from Japan weren't as frequent as today. Since Hawaii wanted to welcome more Japanese guests, hotels were in demand of Japanese speakers. Luckily, I was already in the customer service industry and started as a tour guide, and concierge at the Sheraton Waikiki.

Q. What do you think is one of the biggest challenges? A. I think the fact that there are over 1700 rooms in this hotel. In order to accommodate this, my job also has to provide customer satisfaction and generate as many repeat guests as possible.

Q. What do you like most about this industry?

A. I like being able to provide for the customers. The customers especially for the Japanese tourists is a dream to come to Hawaii. I am very grateful to be able to welcome and witness the bright and excited faces of the customers and providing them with the experience of their life.

Q. What's your favorite restaurant to recommend? My favorite off property restaurant to recommend is Roy's.

Q. Do you have one particular guest that stands out?

A. I do have one particular family that stands out. They always stay at our hotel for special occasions, such as wedding anniversary, child's graduation, etc. Since they always come to Sheraton Waikiki, I feel like I am part of their history when they come to Hawaii.

Q. What's the most unusual request you've received?

A. A wedding proposal. I was extremely lucky to be able to help plan out the proposal and provide them with the best experience of their lifetime.

Q. What's the one thing your guest asks about the most? A. Street directions. Since we have many repeat guests, I see a lot of guests that want to further their Oahu experience and explore outside of Waikiki.

Q. What's your favorite thing to recommend to guests? A. Going to other islands such as Kauai, Maui and Big Island. I feel each Island has a different culture and taste of Hawaii.

Q. What's your favorite thing to recommend to guests? A. I moved here in 1993 from Kobe Japan. Hawaii was a dream island for me and I wanted to experience the culture.

Q. Any other comments you'd like to share?

A. I am extremely proud of my Asian Guest service team. In this big hotel, our job is to help satisfy our customers and be able to make wise choices. Without our teamwork and knowledge, our Asian guest service wouldn't be possible. I am so thankful for my team and supporting each other.
