HAUNTED HONOLULU Lie Down. Don't Look Around.

Hawaii is full of myths and legends - stories that are full of passion, betrayal, loyalty, birth and death. With a rich history of mythology and folklore and numerous sacred sites across the state, Hawaii's link to the past is ever present. One of the most popular ghost stories around, is the tale of the night marchers

The legend of the night marchers goes back hundreds of years and is part of our Hawaiian culture. Anyone that grew up here knows the story of the night marchers and was taught to always been on the lookout for them. It is one of the most famous legends in our culture, scaring generations of island keiki.

The night marchers are the most feared of all Hawaiian spirits. The night marchers are ghosts of ancient Hawaiian warriors who come forth from their burial sites to roam the islands at night, marching to visit old battlefields and sacred sites, proceeding from the mountains to the ocean. They are said to come down off the mountainside with their torches, signaling with their drums for all to get out of their way. They are believed to have been responsible for numerous deaths and disappearances over the years. It is said that if you make eye contact with the night marchers, you'll die and be forced to march with them for all of eternity - unless a relative is within the marchers' ranks – although some people maintain that if you lie face down on the ground they will not see you.

They are not known to roam the entire island however, there are actually certain places they are rumored to frequent. Anyone living near these areas have often reported hearing chanting and marching. Those people recommend placing ti leaves around their homes to ward away the evil spirits. A good majority of Hawaii residents have either had a spooky encounter at some point during their lives, or know of someone with an eerie story to tell. Many locals who have never seen or heard the ghostly warriors will tell you they very much believe in their existence.

So where are the marchers night known to roam? The Pali Lookout, Ka'a'awa Valley, Moanalua and Kalihi Valley to name a few. The Pali Highway runs along the famous old Kamehameha battle site, and this is one of the locations the night marchers have reportedly been seen on numerous occasions. The campus at Kamehameha Schools in Kapalama is over one hundred years old, and the night marchers are said to have visited there on many occasions.

Even one of the island most popular tourist attractions is not immune from this legendary tale. Night marchers have been spotted around an area at Kualoa Ranch, that is said to house the remains of hundreds of Hawaiian chiefs and are said to be responsible for a many of the areas car accidents.

Let's not forget that La'ie was a city of refuge in ancient times. Known as a pu'uhonua, it was a place where criminals and offenders of the culture's strict religious practices would seek sanctuary. While a fugitive was in the pu uhonua, it was illegal for their pursuers to harm them. If warriors attempted to pursue fugitives into a pu'uhonua, the sanctuary priests would kill them. Legend has it that even today, the soldiers spirits are said to roam the outskirts of La'ie in search of escapees.

The legend of the night marchers is just one of the countless tales of the supernatural and the unexplained. These stories are as much of the fabric of our culture of Hawai'i as plate lunches. Everyone knows someone who's seen or felt something, and those stories are repeated with glee, recounting every chilling detail until it's almost as if we've experienced it ourselves. They become a part of our daily life.

Madam Pele's influence is everywhere. The stories of the older woman with long, white hair on the side of the road is a regular one. Don't want it to rain during your event? Put out the gin and the ti leaf. Pele's preferred offering. Everyone grew up knowing you don't take pork over the Pali.

HALLOWEEN HOT SPOTS

Trick or treating, a hall pass to eat some candy, a reason to accommodate your inner diva or demon, or just simply the best day of the year to people watch, Halloween offers something for everyone. For those of you looking to do something other than pass out candy to your neighborhood children, or your guests are figuring out how to offer their kids a chance to celebrate the holiday thousands of miles away from home, here are some of the various Halloween happenings across the island.

HAUNTED PLANTATION

Hawaii Plantation Village Opens Friday October 13th-15th, 20th- 22nd, 27th-29th, 31st

Hawaii's largest and scariest haunted attraction returns Friday the 13th with more horrifying creatures than ever before. Walk through the infamous tunnel and step into the supernatural realm where the woman awaits you, journey through the fog where sinister circus clowns lurk in the shadows, come face to face with the doll maker's living creations and more. It is the only haunted attraction held at an actual haunted location. Remember, the Hawaii Plantation Villages was home to many immigrants in the late 1800s and the story goes that many of those souls haunt the villages to this day. You will be chased, you will be taunted and you will be scared. This is not for pregnant women, people prone to seizures or have heart or respiratory

Publisher's Letter

Tell I hope everyone is into Halloween, because this issue is chock full of it. In the 18 years I have been putting this magazine out, this was by far the hardest issue ever to find content for. There is nothing going on in October. The Hawaii Food & Wine Festival moved to November, as did HIFF, and of course, November is always our Triple Crown issue. So, next month will be so jam packed with information I probably won't be able to do all the events justice, but this month, it was difficult to fill all the pages. There are a few events going on in October, namely the Great Waikiki Beer Festival and a few other mini-fests or cool events at the Blaisdell, but hardly enough to write a story on, or, simply not enough details confirmed at this date to fill up a column. Such is the nature of putting this book together for all of you each month. It's either feast or famine. Normally it's feast. Most months I have to make choices as to what gets in and what doesn't, and trim the content down to give you the basics of the event and a link or number so you can find more information if the event peaks your interest. I make those choices based on my best guesstimation of what will be of interest to you, and those decisions are based on working with so many of you for so long, and you guys sharing with me what does and does not interest you and your guests. I often tick people off in the process. Just last month I offended someone I considered a longtime friend for not including something they had asked me to put in. I still clearly remember the time a very high up executive in the industry demanded I reprint the entire issue and send out a new one because their event wasn't included. When I refused, they demanded I fax their event to all of you. Again, I refused. I have deadlines. They simply hadn't announced their event before I had gone to press. Unfortunately, it's the nature of the beast. Not everything can get in every time. I have space restrictions, and have to make a judgement call based on what I know of your likes and dislikes. And sometimes, things are so well known, and so well publicized, that I know there is no way you won't hear about it, so I go for things you may not have heard of. It's not personal, it never is, it is simply the way this process works.

If I'm wrong, and I'm including information you do not care to hear about - or missing information you really wish I would include more often, please, let me know. This magazine is yours, and the info in it is what many of you have told me you want to see. But, the world is changing, and if I am missing something, I want to know about it. We got to the current content format based on your input, so if it's time for a change, let me know. If we're not changing with the times, we become obsolete, and as my 20th anniversary is getting closer and closer, I'm not looking to go away anytime soon. Your opinion is always welcome. Each of you are the reason I am here today, so I look forward to all of your voices. Aloha!

The Lanai Opens at Ala Moana

An artists rendering of what The Lanai at Ala Moana Center will look like when it opens October 27th.

The Diamond Head Wing of Ala Moana Center will be a beehive of activity when The Lanai @ Ala Moana opens on October 27th, in the former Shirokiya space on Mall Level 2. The Lanai will offer breakfast, lunch, dinner as well as grab-andgo options, and feature seating for up to 450 guests with the option to dine inside a stylish new dining hall or outside underneath festival lighting.

The contemporary food hall will feature ten dining concepts in approximately 18,000 square feet. Francis Cofran, senior general manager of Ala Moana Center says, "The Lanai @ Ala Moana will have an artisanal and unique vibe where locals and visitors will be able to relax and explore an eclectic array of options, including popular local foodie favorites served alongside eateries new to Hawai'i and one of Oahu's first agave bars."

So what will diners be able to choose from? You're looking at fresh breads to fresh fish to shave ice to a speciality tequila bar. The dining concepts offered will include the following:

Agave & Vine - Former Pipeline Cafe owner Chip Jewitt is behind this mall bar, offering an extensive selection of tequilas, wines, craft beers and hand crafted cocktails.

Ahi & Vegetable - freshly made sushi, sashimi, rolls, poke, bentos as well as teriyaki chicken and beef, grilled fish (ahi and salmon), and more.

BRUG - the popular Japanese-style bakery features artisan baked goods made fresh daily, soups, sandwiches, jelly drinks and more.

Da Spot - choose from healthy meal options and a savory selection of 35 different smoothies.

HiTEA Cafe - will offer made-to order stir-fry dishes, fresh fruit juices, BOBA smoothies and teas.

Ike's Place - the San Francisco favorite opens their first Hawaii location with made-to-order sandwiches including more creative fillings such as mozzarella sticks or jalapeño poppers.

Mahaloha Burger - 100% Big Island free-range beef burgers with an island flare.

Sobaya - an authentic Japanese noodle house specializing in soba, udon and ramen in soup.

Teppanyaki Farmer - this open kitchen concept lets customers watch their meal being prepared.

Guess who just turned 95 years old in the Honolulu arts and cultural scene last month? If you're thinking of Jim Nabors, of Gomer Pyle fame and all those great holiday shows he did the historic HAWAII

THEATRE, you are wrong, but close. Jim is only 87, but the theatre known as the Pride of the Pacific is, as Gilbert & Sullivan would say, five-andninety years old as of September 6, 1922. It's amazing to think that this theatre has been part of Honolulu show business -- the good, the bad and the ugly -- for much of the twentieth century.

When the theatre opened in 1922 it was a showplace for vaudeville, silent films, plays, musicals and Hawaiian entertainments, much like it is today except our films now have sound. The first film ever screened at the theatre was the 1921 classic "The Three Musketeers" starring Douglas Fairbanks and the theatre just screened it again last month. The Hawaii Theatre slowly evolved into a plush movie palace until it fell on hard times in the 1970s. Ironically as the renaissance of Hawaiian music was happening, mostly centered in Waikiki and other tourist locations, the Pride of the Pacific was forced into another type of entertainment. Think the new HBO series "The Deuce" starring James Franco and Maggie Gyllenhaal about the rise of the porn industry in Times Square. It was pretty much that on Bethel & Hotel Street during the late

Thirty-five years ago, concerned citizens banded together around the mission to preserve and restore the Hawaii Theatre and formed the Hawaii Theatre Center, a 501(c)3 non-profit that owns and operates the historic theatre today. The theatre hosts approximately 100,000 patrons annually showcasing the finest in local, national, and international entertainments. The Hawaii Theatre is listed on both the State of Hawaii and National Historic Registers. For those of your guests who are interested in both theatre and architecture, you should recommend the one-hour docent-led tour which features not only the history of the structure but also the artwork inside it and its importance to the community.

For the month of October the entertainment schedule is Halloween-themed with one exception. First up on October 7th is Monsters in Our Neighborhood a stage musical by choral group The Sound of Aloha. The musical comedy follows the adventures of a group of monsters. This production is perfect for kids and audience members are encourage to come dressed as their favorite monster and participate in the costume parade. All children will receive a trick-or-treat goodie bag. Tickets are $30 for adults, $20 for students 13-18, and $15 for children 12 & under. Seniors get 65 & over get $5 off.

The one exception to the monster theme this month is Huliau 2017...The Composer which is a celebration of the many composers who created music for hula dancers. The program is presented by Kumu Hula Michael Pili Pang and Halua Hula Ka No'eau on October 14th at 7:30 p.m. and features guest artists Paul Kim, Duane Conching and Henry Barrett. Tickets are $30.

As we get closer to Halloween, celebrate the works of film director Tim Burton with a three-day festival of his creepy fun cinematic masterpieces. First up on October 20th at 8 p.m. is the film Beetlejuice starring a pre-Donald Trump Alec Baldwin, a pre-shop-lifting Winona Ryder a pre-Thelma & Louise Gena Davis and a pre-Batman Michael Keaton, as a devilish demon who helps a married ghost couple scare away the current tenants of their old home.

On October 21st at 2 p.m. it's a matinee of Miss Peregrine's Home for Peculiar Children which is based on the young adult book series by Randsom Riggs about secret school for children with magical powers. The 2016 film follows the journey of a young boy named Jake, who learns that his own peculiarity can save his friends from terrifying enemies. For those not familiar with the book series, this film should be a fun afternoon for guests with tweens.

It wouldn't be a Tim Burton film festival without a nod to Johnny Depp, and of course, Edward Scissorhands. Relive the tale on October 21st at 8 p.m. of the animated human named Edward, built by a scientist played by Vincent Price, who dies before completing him, leaving his hands as scissor blades. Edward ends up in suburbia (you know, Miliani Mauka if the movie had been shot in Hawaii) where he falls in love with Winona Ryder who of course always loves boys with a little edge.

The festival wraps up with Corpse Bride on October 22nd at 2 p.m. which is an animated love tale set during the Victorian era about a man named Victor Van Dort (voiced by who else, Johnny Depp) and a women named Victoria Eyerglot (voiced by Emily Watson) as they prepare for their arranged marriage. Long story short Victor meets a ghost bride in the woods and ends up having to marry her, or maybe he returns to Victoria. I haven't seen the ending yet so I better buy a ticket which is $12 for all screenings of the Tim Burton film festival. Tickets can be purchased online at HawaiiTheatre.org or by calling the box office at 528-0506.

Here's a little Hawaii Theatre Triva Challenge: What came first?

Chef's Corner

Celebrity Chef Chris Cosentino

Chris Cosentino was one of the first to receive national recognition for celebrating whole animal cookery. He became a familar face as the winner of Top Chef Masters, appearing on Iron Chef America, and Chefs vs. City. Deciding TV wasn't for him, the former professional ultra endurance cyclist refocused his life. He has since opened three critically acclaimed restaurants and just released his second cookbook, "Offal Good: Cooking from the Heart, with Guts"

What is your first childhood food memory?

Making pizza with my great grandmother Rosalie, standing on a chair helping her spread the sauce on the dough, she used to call it tomato pie.

When did you decide you wanted to be a chef?

I knew when I was a young kid, cooking with my great grandmother and my grandmother Helen Easton, they are the inspiration for who I am today.

What was your first job in the industry? My first job was as a dishwasher at an IHOP.

Who would you consider your mentor and why?

I think that's very hard to say – so many people have affected and mentored me over the years. Mark Miller was a huge part of who I am today. He taught me to respect the past and understand the history of cooking, before I try to cook the future.

Where do you find the most joy in this industry?

I give taste memories for a living, that's a very powerful thing.

You're the epitome of a 'head-to-tail' chef. Where did the fascination with offal come from (and how!)?

It's not a fascination, it's about doing things properly and making sure we use all the nutritious parts, as well as the easy-to-prepare ones. I call this sustainable eating.

Many people rave how TV made their career. You've said it almost destroyed it. How did you find the right balance? For me, I found the right balance is not doing TV.

You're vocal on mental health. Has that been beneficial? I've used social media to discuss mental health issues. I don't know if it benefited anyone but I had to get it off my chest, hopefully it helped someone.

Did you leave TV altogether?

I focus on my restaurants now. TV appearances are few and far between – a few judging appearances on Top Chef – that's about it.

Where can our readers find you these days?

In one of my three restaurants. Cockscomb in SF, Acacia House in Napa, and Jackrabbit in Portland.

How often do you do these types of food festivals?

I do a few food festivals a year. I really enjoy sharing dishes with people in a different place, with someone who might want to come to my restaurants, but haven't had the opportunity. I also love meeting new chefs, learning new cooking techniques, and experiencing new ingredients from all over.

What's your favorite part about being in a kitchen? My favorite part is cooking, that's why I started. I love to cook, it's the best part of my day, everyday.

Best advice you could give an aspiring culinary student? Respect the history of cooking, know your classics before you try and be creative. Be humble and find a mentor, learn from them. Don't jump from place to place every 6 months, grow and then ask your mentor where you should go next. If they are a true mentor, they will guide you to the right place.

What would we always find in your fridge?

Aged cheddar cheese, sparkling water, Dijon, Champagne, Kombucha, and cured fish and meats.

What do you have planned for this years' HFWF? I will be making Wild Hawaiian Boar Laab.

What's on your must-do list while here in the Islands? Spend time with my family when I'm not working. Have fun with my friends Ed Kenney and Gooch.

Grandma Rosalie's Tripe

extracted from "Offal Good: Cooking from the Heart, With Guts." Serves 6

When I was a kid, I used to fucking run in fear whenever I smelled this cooking in my greatgrandma Rosalie's kitchen. Tripe seemed pretty gnarly back then, and I'd just take off on my skateboard to get away. I started trying tripe at Mike's Kitchen, an Italian VFW hall in Rhode Island. It was served in marinara, with Parmesan, and it somehow became comforting. These days, I may make mine a little spicier, with more acidity, but it's as close as I can get to hers.

- 2 pounds honeycomb beef tripe,
- cooked and cut into 2-inch squares 3 tablespoons Salsa Fra Diavolo
- 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil, plus more for finishing (EVOO)
- cup julienned red onion
- 1 tablespoon sliced garlic
- ¼ cup red wine
- 1 28-ounce can San Marzano tomatoes, milled

Grated orange zest, to taste

Red wine vinegar, to taste

1/4 cup mint leaves

Grilled bread, for serving

Coat the tripe in the salsa fra diavolo and marinate, covered in the fridge overnight. In a medium braising pan or Dutch oven set over medium heat, cook the EVOO and onion, stirring until softened, about 5 minutes. Add the garlic and tripe and cook, stirring, to bloom the flavors of the fra diavolo, about 3 minutes. Deglaze the pan with red wine and reduce until almost dry, about 2 minutes. Add tomatoes, bring to a boil, turn down the heat to a simmer, and reduce until sauce is brick red, about 15 minutes. Adjust the sauce with orange zest and a splash of red wine vinegar. Add the torn mint leaves, and serve immediately in bowls with grilled bread and a drizzle of EVOO.

Salsa Fra Diavolo makes 1 ½ cups

- 3 serrano chiles
- 3 red Fresno chiles
- 2 jalapeños
- 4 cloves garlic
- 1 bunch thyme, leaves picked 3 bay leaves 1 tablespoon red chile flakes
- ½ cup extra-virgin olive oil 1 tablespoon smoked pimentón
- de la Vera picante
- Zest and juice of 1 orange

Remove the stems from the chiles, chop the bay leaves and thyme, and place ingredients in a blender. Blend until smooth. The sauce will keep in the fridge for 2 weeks. After that it begins to age, the flavor changes but is still great.

You can meet Chris Cosentino at this year's Hawaii Food & Wine Festival!

He will be at Taste of the Seasons at Ko Olina on November 4th. For tickets go to hawaiifoodandwinefestival.com.

Herringbone launched their brunch service last month every Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The menu offers bottomless mimosas or rose, and some delectable items including biscuits and gravy, eggs benedict with uni hollandaise and my personal favorite, seriously light and fluffy omelettes with locally sourced vegetables and my personal favorite, the garlic shrimp and grits with lemon grass curry, toasted coconut and Thai basil. 797-2435. • Uncle's Fish Market announced they are opening a second location at Pearlridge Center in late 2018. The 4,911-square-foot restaurant will open to the second-level parking deck that faces Pearlridge East. Also set to open at Pearlridge this fall will be a Five Guys Burgers and Fries and a Pieology Pizzeria. pearlridgeonline.com. • AGU, A Ramen Bistro recently opened a "pop-up" location in Ala Moana Center. They took over the Iyo Udon space on the mauka side of Ala Moana Center, and are testing a new self-service format where customers simply order and pay for their food at the counter before finding a seat in the dining room, where a server will deliver the food. The menu will be limited compared to the other locations, but will feature some of the most popular dishes, including shio tonkotsu, shoyu tonkotsu, spicy tonkotsu, shio jidori, shoyu jidori, yuzu jidori, vegetarian tan tan, pork curry rice, and soboro don. Appetizers and sides, such as gyoza, AGUcini, chicken karaage, and agedashi tofu will also be served. The pop-up is slated to be open until March 31, 2018. I wonder if this one will allow take out? 797-2933. • Top of Waikiki has brought back their ribeye special by popular demand. Throughout the end of October, or while supplies last, diners can enjoy a Miso-Glazed Ribeye with Watercress Chimichurri for only $39. Not good enough? You can now add on a lobster tail to any steak off the menu for only $12. 923-3877. • Did you know Mahina & Sun's hosts a Tasting Room every Tuesday from 5:30 -6:30 p.m? Sample libations courtesy of their beverage vendors and local partners. Attendees can look forward to sampling a selection of craft beers, wines, or spirits unique to the island curated by bar lead Robert Bidigare. 923-8882. • Nearly 14 years after the Cheesecake Factory opened one of its top-grossing locations in the United States at the

Royal Hawaiian Center, they have finally opened a second location. Located at Ka Makana Alii, the restaurant can seat more than 300, with 100 of those seats outside on the Lanai. Open at 11:30 during the week, they close at 11 p.m., 12 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. The restaurant will open at 10 a.m. on the weekends for brunch, and offers happy hour from 4 - 6 p.m. Will this location outsell the other one? Time will tell for this popular California restaurant chain. 670- 2666. • Football season is in full swing. Remember Giovanni Pastrami opens 30 minutes prior to kickoff on Saturday and Sunday mornings and is open until midnight each day with twenty TV screens, including four state-of-the-art "4k" ultra-highdefinition screens to catch all the action on. 923-2100. • Yauatcha Waikiki, who just won the Top Write In award for "Best New Restaurant" at the 2018 HONOLULU Magazine Hale Aina Awards, follows that accolade up by adding in Yum Cha Tea Service. luxury dim sum afternoon tea set menu each weekend. The menu is only available Saturdays and Sundays from 3-5 p.m. and includes a pot of tea, your choice of dim sum (vegetarian options available), and a dessert for $32 per person. 739-9318. • BLT Market has found a new chef de cuisine in Chef Johnattan Hernandez. Hernandez's culinary career spans more than two decades in restaurants from Pennsylvania and Florida to his hometown of Puerto Rico. He will be adding items to the menu reflecting that heritage including empanadas with Molokai short ribs. Will be nice to see what he does there. 729-9729. • And lastly, all good things must come to an end. September 30th brought the closure of three longtime restaurants in Honolulu as we bid Aloha to Sarento's Top of the "I", Ocean House and Shore Birds. The food at the first two was always impeccable, and Shore Birds was a huge part of my coming to age years and truly is an end of an era. ~ Pam Apparently Pele and the demigod Kamapua'a (a half-man-half-pig) had a bad breakup and agreed never to visit each other. It's said if you bring pork over the Pali, you are symbolically trying to bring Kamapua'a from one side of the island to the other and Pele will stop you. Don't pick a Red Lehua Blossom. The story goes that Ohia and Lehua were young lovers, but one day Pele came across Ohia and wanted him for herself. When he refused her, she turned him into a tree. Pele ignored Lehua's pleas to change him back, but the other gods felt sorry for the young girl and turned her into a beautiful red flower and placed her on the tree so that the two young lovers would never again be apart. When the blossom is plucked from the tree, rain will fall like tears as Lehua still cannot bear to be separated from her love, Ohia.

Then, there is Pele's curse. The story goes that if a rock, or even a grain of sand, is taken from Pele's domain, a curse will fall upon you. Most likely a falsehood created by frustrated workers trying to prevent malihini from illegally removing our natural resources, "Pele's Curse" can't be proven. Any misfortunes tourists may experience could be attributed to bad luck or poor timing. But that doesn't stop some people from believing in the curse's power. Hundreds of visitors send packages back to Hawaii each year, full of rocks, sand, and other natural materials in an effort to relieve their consciences and change their luck.

Oahu is said to be one of the most haunted islands in the world, comparable to other famous locations known for their ghost sightings and stories such as New Orleans and Savannah. There are several companies here specializing in ghost tours that offer a variety of walking and driving tours to many of these locations. Their tour guides are better thought of as storytellers. If you haven't done one, I can tell you they will absolutely give you chicken skin, even if you don't believe.

These tours offer your guests a unique perspective to see parts of the island they may never see otherwise, but also learn about our folklore and history and all hours of the day and night. While these tours are offered year-round, what better way to celebrate Halloween then by exploring our own haunted Honolulu.

Activity Concierge of the Month

Berna Carvalho NAME:

Pleasant Holidays HOTEL:

TITLE: Pleasant Concierge

Q. How long have you been with the Pleasant?

A. I've been with Pleasant Holidays for 32 years. American Express was one company along with Pleasant and they split up in 1985 leaving with Pleasant Hawaiian Holidays on its own. Worked with Pleasant every since.

Q. Where did you work before then?

A. A company called Hawaiian Adventure, than transfer to Pleasant Hawaiian.

Q. Do you work at one desk in particular?

A. Yes, I primarily work at the Hale Koa Hotel,

Q. What is the biggest challenge at the desk besides?

A. I just love planning their itinerary, the actual dates that can accommodate there schedule. I try to make their stay a memorable moment in Hawaii.

Q. What do you like most about this industry?

A. Over 30 years I have met so many people from all over the world. I have made so many relationships. So interesting on where they're from.

Q. We ran a picture of you last month as a Pau Queen in the 2016 Aloha Festivals Parade. Have you been a part of the Royal Court before?

A. I was honored to have ridden and represented all eight Islands for the for Aloha Week Parade.

Q. Do you have one particular guest that stands out?

A. One guest in particular I call him Sargent He is a widow, and I started a bond with him, listening to his stories about everything. He came every year. I was happy to meet a friend from Colorado, loved just being there for him. Unfortunately he just passed away 3 weeks ago. I actually missed his call to say good bye. He was 80 years old. You can become really close as a friend and family to them. God bless Sargent, you'll be missed.

Q. What's the most unusual request you've ever heard? A. Can you make it stop raining please! I'll just smile at them and say let's start praying!! Lol.

Q. What question are you asked more than any other? A. Where's is my pick up? All you can do is direct them to the right direction. (but always smile)

Q. How do you deal with those "difficult" guests?

A. The key word is LISTEN. I put myself in their shoe. Every impression counts especially a smile. A smile goes a long way...

Q. What's your favorite thing to recommend to guests? A. Of course the Polynesaian Cultural Center is the key to Hawaii, they will learn all about the culture. It's the biggest show in Hawaii. Guests love it.

Q. What's your favorite restaurant to recommend?

A. I do recommend a lot of restaurants, but one in particular is the Top of Waikiki good for all ages the view is breath taking, Plus the food is great and they have an awesome happy hour.

Q. Which are are you from originally?

A. Kauai. Moved to Oahu in the early 80's. Love it here, but love going home to visit my family.

Q. Any other comments you'd like to share?

A. Love working with my colleagues, That's why I'm still here with Pleasant Holidays. They motivate me to enjoy what I do for guest servicing... It's like a family here... Thanks guys.
