About This Disclaimer

This document sets out how DeepFake DEFENDER's outputs should be understood, and the limits the Company places on use of those outputs. It is the canonical disclaimer for the Service and forms part of the Terms of Service.

This document is published at <https://www.deepfakedefender.com.au/policies> alongside the Terms of Service and Privacy Policy.

1. Primary Disclaimer (Master Text)

The following is the canonical disclaimer for DeepFake DEFENDER. It applies to every use of the Service and every output the Service produces.

DEEPPFAKE DEFENDER — LEGAL DISCLAIMER (Master Text)

DeepFake DEFENDER is an automated content-analysis tool that produces probabilistic likelihood scores based on observed content patterns. Results presented by the application — including category labels, PsyOp scores, Foreign Influence indicators, and Authentic / DeepFake assessments — are algorithmic estimates, not statements of fact, and must not be relied upon as definitive determinations of authenticity, intent, origin, or any other matter.

All scores and classifications represent the output of automated heuristics and machine analysis at a single moment in time. They do not constitute legal, journalistic, investigative, professional, or expert opinion. Eagle Corporation (Australasia) Pty Ltd, trading as DeepFake DEFENDER, makes no representation, warranty, or claim that any specific content, account, platform, organisation, or individual has engaged in deception, manipulation, foreign influence, or any other conduct.

Users are solely responsible for any decisions, actions, or republications based on results produced by the application. Screenshots and example outputs shown in marketing, documentation, or training materials are illustrative of the application's functionality only and do not constitute findings, accusations, or endorsements regarding the content, accounts, or persons depicted.

DeepFake DEFENDER is provided on an "as-is" and "as-available" basis. To the maximum extent permitted by law, Eagle Corporation (Australasia) Pty Ltd disclaims all liability for any direct, indirect, incidental, consequential, or special damages arising from use of, or reliance on, the application or its outputs.

The on-device Sanity Log records counts of categories and platforms you have encountered and is for the User's personal reference only. It does not constitute an official record, an admissible exhibit, or a determination of fact by the Company. My Vocabulary entries created by the User reflect that User's own categorisations of terms, not Company findings about the people, organisations, or topics named.

2. Short-Form Disclaimer

A condensed version of the disclaimer above, used where the full text would be intrusive — image captions, footer strips, in-app information panels, social posts containing screenshots.

DEEPAKE DEFENDER — SHORT-FORM DISCLAIMER

Results shown are automated probabilistic analyses, not statements of fact. DeepFake DEFENDER does not assert that any depicted content, account, or individual has engaged in deception or manipulation. Screenshots are illustrative of application functionality only.

3. Caption Disclaimer

A per-image caption used directly beneath any screenshot showing a high-risk classification (PsyOp, Foreign Influence, DeepFake, Manipulation).

DEEPAKE DEFENDER — CAPTION DISCLAIMER

Example only. Automated analysis result. Not a factual determination about the depicted content, account, or individual.

4. Disclaimer Language and Identification

The disclaimer language above is necessary but not sufficient. Australian defamation law applies the following test, in summary:

1. Was the person identifiable to a reasonable viewer?
2. Did the publication convey a defamatory imputation?
3. Was it published to a third party?

A caption that frames a screenshot as illustrative or probabilistic addresses element 2 only. It does not address element 1. The Company therefore requires, in addition to the caption disclaimer, that screenshots showing identifiable individuals alongside negative classifications be redacted to remove identification before the screenshot is published.

Users who share screenshots of DeepFake DEFENDER outputs outside the application accept that they are the publisher of the screenshot for the purposes of any defamation, privacy, or contempt-of-court law that may apply in their jurisdiction. The Company's full position on screenshot publication is set out in the Terms of Service.

Users who share, publish, or quote contents of their on-device Sanity Log, or screenshots of their My Vocabulary list alongside identifiable individuals, accept that they are the publisher of that material for the purposes of any defamation, privacy, or contempt-of-court law that may apply in their jurisdiction. Local categorisations made by a User do not establish findings, determinations, or conclusions by the Company.

5. Updates

The Company may update this Disclaimer from time to time. Material updates will be reflected in a new version number, and Users of the application may be required to acknowledge the updated Disclaimer on next launch. The current version of this document is Version 1.0, effective 15 May 2026, and is published at <https://www.deepfakedefender.com.au/policies>.

The current bundled version of this Disclaimer is displayed within the App on first launch and within Dose of Sanity → Legal and Disclaimer. A "Check for Updates" function within the App opens the latest version published on the Website.
