

The Boatyard

“A group of friends go on a cruise then things go terribly wrong and they find themselves in a boatyard fighting for their lives.”

Synopsis

Sea-Dog Barry and his crazy mother Martha get bloody excited when they receive a distress signal from 5 college friends stranded out in the middle of the ocean. Friends Chad, his girlfriend Dana and the rest of the gang are forced to trust their new friend Barry who saves them, but only to be sucked into the deep shadows of “The Boatyard”. Hashtag Torture!

In a world where everyone especially in L.A. displays their riches or access to comes the story of Chad and his rich dad’s boat. On one fateful day cruising out to Catalina Island, Chad being captain of his dad’s ship appears to have everything under control, even while partying, doing a line here and there until the boat doesn’t start up.

Chad ‘s knowledge of boats or lack thereof is now being put on the spot in front of his girlfriend Dana and his few friends Jes, her girlfriend Brandy and their flamboyant friend, Franklin. Things immediately turn into an extreme panic situation. Brandy takes over the radio and puts out a distress signal that she learned on Youtube and thank God help is on the way. Now they’re forced to trust Barry, a stranger to get them to safety. Chad with his positive thinking feels like everything is going to be okay now.

However things take a dark turn when Chad decides for the group to party on while waiting for the boat to be fixed, this is when the friends start missing one by one. Barry had other plans with including his lunatic brother Freddy and mother Martha to first drug them, torture them and then chop them up into pieces of meat.

Franklin starts putting two and two together and takes it upon himself to be heroic and go find and save who he can by any means necessary. He has to face many fears in order to stay focused and not end up like some past victims.
