

About Kathie Staska

I was born loving horses, finding ways early on to capture their kinetic grace with wax, metal, glass, and now acrylic "paper mache" sculptures. I attained a BFA degree from Wittenberg University in 1980. Through the years, I worked as the commission sculptor and in production at Equestrian Forge and showcased in Virginia Country Magazine. I'm now a Director at Chick-fil-A, pushing 19 years with the company. I've recently moved from Crofton to Edgewater and, as retirement is nearing, I'm focusing more on sculpting and increased activity with the Muddy Creek Artists Guild!
