

Timeless Bespoke Design & Quality BUILT TO LAST

Imagine bespoke furniture without limits. No specific unit sizes, no set door types or layouts and all made in any timber you choose. Imagine your kitchen, wardrobes, bookcases and tables designed and built just for you; an original and one off.

This is what Nordhus Furniture delivers and specialises in. Every kitchen is completely individual to the client's needs, lifestyle and wishes. The 7 strong team are led by Rikke Mitchell. Rikke is originally from Denmark where she was strongly influenced by the classic Danish designers such as Fritz Hansen and Arne Jacobsen while growing up. At their workshop and design studios in Langton

Green, Tunbridge Wells, the Nordhus team works to deliver their clients ambitions and create interiors to suit the lifestyles of their client base. The design studios run over two floors with the design team's office located on the second floor. The first floor is occupied by three individual show areas displaying bespoke furniture showing off the team's capabilities. The ground floor is their workshop where the magic happens and where the team builds kitchens, wardrobes and storage solutions. At Nordhus furniture the ethos is very much bespoke and sustainable. According to Rikke: "we use as many sustainable materials as possible and make recommendations to clients. We like to work with high grade birch plywood as well as poplar plywood. These can then be veneered with any hardwood if desired. We do our own in house veneering so that we can book match veneers if required. We also use sustainable and durable hardwoods where possible." The Nordhus experience often starts with a visit to the design studio show rooms to formulate initial thoughts and ideas with a client. A further design meeting will take place in the client's space to further formulate ideas and translate the clients needs and wishes into a design. Once the design process is complete, the workshop floor takes over and manufacturing commences. This is where the designs come to life. Rikke says: "here at Nordhus, we exclusively use solid maple for our cabinet frames, rails and stiles. Maple is a more stable and much tougher hardwood than the solid poplars or basswoods used by most other kitchen cabinet

The fully bespoke service offered by Nordhus leaves no stone unturned in the team's quest to offer their clients their dream lifestyle. According to Rikke "It isn't a Nordhus kitchen, it's the client's kitchen" makers. Our drawers are solid timber usually oak but we can make solid maple or walnut drawers too." The workshop even contains a paint and spray room which enables Nordhus Furniture to offer any colour and any finish to their discerning client base. "Many clients still prefer the hand-painted finish" explains Rikke "but we like to be able to give our clients options". Past Nordhus commissions include a bespoke solid walnut console table with brass inlays matching details in the client's house to a wardrobe with a secret door leading to a dressing area & ensuite, to a bespoke kitchen built around the particular needs of a large family with a large island for cooking with seating. According to Rikke and Nick, the design and Workshop manager at Nordhus, the many design decisions required for a new kitchen needs expert guidance and assistance. "Making kitchens is a complicated business with many issues to factor in. In order to get the most out of your budget, having expert guidance to design to a desired budget and style is invaluable" says Nick. The Nordhus team's experience and ability to make bespoke items to suit a client's space, needs and lifestyle helps to avoid mistakes being made. The fully bespoke service offered by Nordhus leaves no stone unturned in the team's quest to offer their clients their dream lifestyle. According to Rikke "It isn't a Nordhus kitchen, it's the client's kitchen" ■
