Helpful Information

Due to the inherent risks associated when working around the eyes, safely applying eyelash extensions requires you to meet the following physical requirements:

Good Dexterity and Steady Hands

Most people are not accustomed to manipulating sharp objects (like the tweezers used in apply eyelash extensions) with both hands at the same time, so you will need to train your hands to maintain good control at all times in order to apply eyelash extensions safely.

Keen Eyesight (Both Acuity and Depth Perception)

Please keep in mind magnification can distort your depth perception and it is possible that it may not compensate for a lack of keen vision. We highly recommend you have your vision checked for acuity and depth perception prior to taking a class and applying

Good Visual Spatial Ability

Spatial ability a cognitive skill and the innate ability to interpret and visualize the relationship of one object to another. Applying eyelash extensions require the ability to perceive and visualize various angles where you can pick up and attach the eyelash extensions with precision that are becoming. Our exemplary training will provide you with the theory and technical training needed to perform the intricate eyelash extensions application process.

Ideal candidates for learning the lash extensions procedure should possess the physical requirements above, as well as patience, great attention to detail and a commitment to practicing.
