My wife and I interviewed four builders in the Northern Neck and one in Charlottesville. Tom Lumsden and Salty Dog Properties came recommended to us by our realtor and Tom was the last builder we interviewed. Unlike most builders who overpromise and under deliver Tom consistently did what he said he would do and often times in a shorter time span than expected. In addition to a superior finished product and high quality craftsmanship Tom's quick responses and timely turnaround is what I appreciated most. This was the first house we had ever built and we were cautioned about builders poor response time. We found Tom did not fit this mold. His attention was prompt and always courteous. We could not more highly recommend Tom and Salty Dog Properties based on our great experience.
