

DATA CENTER TABLED until DECEMBER 11, 2025 !

A huge Thank You to all in attendance at the October 23 county commission voting meeting!

The success of this voting delay is solely because of every individual that attended and because of several different community groups that spread the word and encouraged people to attend.

So much community effort was put forth to investigate and learn about data centers and what a data center would do either for or against our beloved Hall County.

This community has changed so much lately and it is becoming hard to recognize what we loved so much about this area. But regarding this data center, the concerns, lack of transparency and unanswered questions were brought forth by Hall County citizens with determination and clarity before the meeting occurred. United, we did not back down but pressed forward until the voting meeting. Our voices were heard by the commissioners and to their credit, they responded by choosing to table the vote that evening. In this meeting we learned quickly that our request to table this vote had been taken seriously - and learned that some commissioners have our same concerns. Thank you to them.

We hope to hear from our commissioners as to their findings from visiting existing data centers. It will be important for us to hear about what they saw and what they learned. Only as we continue to have our questions answered will we be able to make an informed decision that is in our best interest.

But now is the critical time. We cannot let up on our quest for the answers that ProjectTurbo did not provide to us. Continue to research data centers, both local to Hall County and across the state of Georgia. Research other projects by Cameron Grogan of ProjectTurbo.

Let's stay in touch with each other. Let's continue to share our information with each other and our local community groups. But most of all, let's stay united and determined to return again to the Hall County Commission voting meeting on December 11, 2025 at 6 p.m.

Another packed room is a must! See you there!!!
