

Alright, he says I looked down in the crawlspace. The reason I went down in the crawlspace is when I got in, in the house here, there was, the white lime was all over the goddamn quarry stone floor in my entrance way and also on the wall. It looked like they came up out of the goddamn hole after crawlin' around down in there. They had put lime all over every goddamn thing and I was pissed off about it and I, I couldn't figure out what the hell they went down in the crawlspace for because there was nothin' down there.

Q But you knew there was something down there?

A What I'm saying is in regards to, they were looking for Piest, okay? There was nothing down there, okay? There was no undisturbed ground, there was nothing. So they went down in there and they must've crawled all over, because they come up with lime all over 'em and they just smeared the goddamn lime all over the house and I was pissed off about that. David Cram says that I went down in the crawlspace, but I did not crawl around, I just crouched down and made a complete 180 degree circle and came back out--which is the truth. Alright, they asked where else I looked, uh, he claims I went in the attic, I don't...

Q Why did you go down there?

A What?

Q Into the crawlspace?

A I just explained to ya, because the Goddamn, the, the plaster and stuff. I wanted

Q So what--I mean, why would you go down there? You know what I'm getting at, why would you go down there, to see if

A Why was I goin' down there, to, to

Q To see if they discovered anything?

A To see if they discovered anything? No that wasn't even on my mind. I didn't even think of that.
