BRINGING BACK THE AMERICAN SERENGETI: PRESENTED BY NICOLE ROSMARINO.

Huge herds of native grazers with predators hot on their tails on a savannah landscape stretching to the horizon. We're not talking about Africa, but rather the North American Great Plains, not too long ago. With imagination, Dr. Nicole Rosmarino, director of the Southern Plains Land Trust, will take you on a journey that begins in the 1800s, continues to the present, and holds great promise in the future.

Along the way, you'll meet wildlife so abundant and spectacular that John James Audubon had to put down his pen because he was just too overwhelmed. Some of these creatures may surprise you - while now associated with western forests, they were once prairie dwellers. There are bright spots and bleak, featuring humans as both antagonists and protagonists. The culmination of this journey is an invitation to re-create the lost world of the American Serengeti. Nicole Rosmarino, Ph.D. helped found the Southern Plains Land Trust (SPLT) in 1998 and has served as its Executive Director since 2011.

Following years of intensive training, Shaykh Nazim authorized Dr. Nour to give khutbahs, lectures and lead dhikr (meditation). In the US, Dr. Nour has addressed groups internationally for years. Since 2015, his UK tours have attracted a strong youth following, much like when his beloved grandfather first toured England in the mid-1970's.

WHERE'S MY PAPER? NEWS IN DENVER FROM THE PERSPECTIVE OF THE COLORADO INDEPENDENT.

Newspapers, and news organizations, are changing form, delivery, platform, and focus in recent years across the country, and Denver is no exception. The death of the Rocky Mountain News in 2009, and the recent shrinking of the Denver Post, has led to the emergence of new forms of news delivery and an important civic conversation about the role journalism plays in a healthy community with accountable leadership. Three passionate journalists from the Colorado Independent, the only nonprofit in-depth investigative news organization in Colorado, will address these questions and the role that the Independent will play in important Colorado elections and policy debates in the future.

Susan Greene, Editor is a recovering newspaper journalist, Editor Susan reported for papers in California and Nevada before her 13 years as a political reporter, national reporter and metro columnist at The Denver Post.

Tina Griego is the managing editor of The Colorado Independent, your favorite local nonprofit newsroom. She is best known to Coloradans as a former city columnist at the Denver Post and at the Rocky Mountain News.

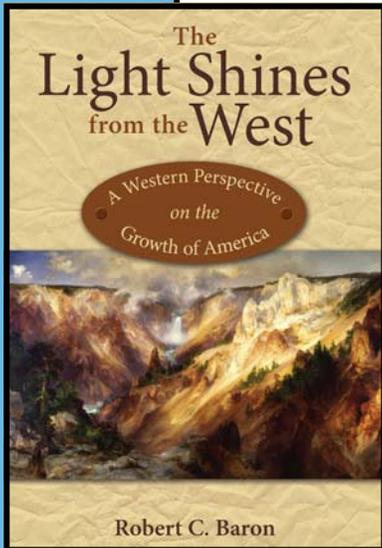

Reporter Corey Hutchins has covered politics and media for The Colorado Independent since 2015. His reporting for The Independent has won awards for enterprise and feature reporting, and for the past year, he led the site's coverage of the Colorado governor's race.

Baron will address the innovations that shaped Colorado and the American West from Jefferson's election in 1800 to today, this groundbreaking book shines a light on the stories and places integral to the development of America. For the last century and especially after World War II, Colorado and the West have been the areas of growth in job creation, technology innovation, political ideas, medicine, public lands, the arts, and quality of life.

FINE & DECORATIVE ART

TIME TRAVELS AT KIRKLAND MUSEUM: PRESENTED BY HUGH GRANT.

Join Hugh Grant, Founding Director & Curator of Kirkland Museum of Fine & Decorative Art, for a visual adventure through time. Kirkland Museum's new golden building, within a block of the Denver Art Museum and Clyfford Still Museum, features 150 years of Colorado and regional art, including the estate collection of painter Vance Kirkland (1904–1981). Grant established the Kirkland Foundation in 1996 to document, rediscover, collect, preserve, exhibit and publish Colorado artists. The Colorado and regional art collection is concerned with a period from 1820 to about 1990 (traditional through modern), with an emphasis on the 1850s onwards, and contains about 7,000 works by more than 700 Colorado artists.

THOSE SPOOFERS ARE BACK AGAIN FOR "A MUSICAL ROMP THROUGH LEGAL HISTORY"

~FROM JOAN OF ARC TO VLADIMIR PUTIN~

The Burden of Spoof Players, a troupe of Denver area lawyers and judges, return with more songs, skits, satire and silliness. With the superb accompaniment of pianist Hank Troy of the Queen City Jazz Band and trumpeter Justice Rich Gabriel, the Spoofers will somehow satirically summarize six centuries of legal history in less than an hour. (They might have to leave out a famous case or two). You're likely to recognize the tunes, but the fractured lyrics are original – for the most part.

REMBRANDT THE DRAMATURGE: PRESENTED BY TIMOTHY STANDRING.

You'll leave this lecture by Dr. Timothy J. Standing, Gates Foundation Curator at the Denver Art Museum, with a new appreciation of Rembrandt the dramaturge whose brilliant technical achievements as a painter, draughtsman, and especially as a printmaker made him one of the most significant artists of European art. Rembrandt, after all, was a keen observer of the human condition, who produced original prints covering a Shakespearean universe of subjects drawn from the world around him as well as taking inspiration from the classical past, religious texts, opera and theatre. Moreover, you'll understand the entrepreneurial side of this Dutch Master, an artist who revised his images seemingly without end, why he printed them on different papers, and—in the end--why he was incapable of repeating himself. As an added bonus, Standing will also discuss how Rembrandt: Painter as Printmaker, this world exclusive exhibition which opens September 15th, came to the Denver Art Museum.

WITH ABIGAIL ADAMS: PRESENTED

Thomas Jefferson will unpack his complicated relationship with Abigail and explain why it burned hot, then turned frosty, and warmed up again in their sunset years. Jack Van Ens serves as Executive Director of CREATIVE GROWTH INC. Since 1976 Van Ens has portrayed

This evening's program, by way of reminder, returns to the film and its quirky charms. It then highlights the ways by which it was transformed into a musical stage production. As it turns out, whether playing on the big screen or The Great White Way, The Band's Visit is a timely vehicle for exploring interreligious dialogue through the lens of popular culture.

DIOR AT THE DENVER ART MUSEUM

Christian Dior, the art gallerist who became a celebrated couturier, generated a revolution in Paris and around the globe after World War II. Dior created haute couture expressing modern femininity, completely shedding the masculine silhouette that had been established during the war. He conceived sophisticated designs featuring soft shoulders, accentuated busts and nipped waists that marked the beginning of an epic movement in fashion history that would eventually lead to Dior successfully becoming the first worldwide couture house. The chronological presentation, showcasing pivotal themes in the House of Dior's history, will focus on how Christian Dior cemented his fashion house's reputation within a decade and will highlight how his successors, Yves-Saint Laurent, Marc Bohan, Gianfranco Ferré, and many more incorporated their own design aesthetic. This exhibition is organized by the DAM and curated by Florence Müller, the DAM's Avenir Foundation Curator of Textile Art and Fashion. It features exhibition design by internationally renowned architect Shohei Shigematsu, principal of OMA New York.

TINY HOMES: HELPING SOLVE HOMELESSNESS IN OUR OWN BACKYARDS AND CHURCHYARDS, VACANT LOTS, ETC. PRESENTED BY COLE CHANDLER & NATHAN DAVIS HUNT.

As housing prices continue to skyrocket in Metro Denver, the number of people experiencing homelessness is on the rise. When "affordable" housing is out of reach, and the shelter system can't accommodate many people (including those with mental health issues, couples, and people with pets), what's the answer? A new group called Colorado Village Collaborative, a partnership between the Interfaith Alliance of Colorado and Denver Homeless Out Loud, is proposing an answer: tiny homes. Join us to learn about the first tiny home village in the RiNo neighborhood, the second village at St. Andrew's Church in Downtown Denver, and a vision for the future of this creative approach to a persistent problem for our community.

SPEAKERS:

Cole Chandler is an ordained Mennonite Minister and a co-founder of Colorado Village Collaborative. A moral commitment led Cole into his work with the poor, and there he found himself in the midst of a community whose struggle became his own.

Nathan Davis Hunt is Program Director of Economic Justice for the Interfaith Alliance of Colorado and a co-founder of Colorado Village Collaborative. He previously worked as an urban farmer, community organizer, and social entrepreneur. His current work includes financial reform, racial equity, and housing justice.

We welcome back Judy Winnick who has portrayed extraordinary women from WWII including Irena Sendler and Miep Gies to Denver Eclectics. Renowned Jewish Czech concert pianist Alice Herz-Sommer (1903-2014) performed over a hundred concerts for her fellow prisoners in the Theresienstadt (Terezín) concentration camp during WWII, giving them beauty and hope. She survived the horrors there, and spent her 10 years not only as a gifted musician and piano teacher, but a teacher of life—a sage! She said, “My world is music. Music saved me. It takes you to paradise and helps you with everything in life. Life is a present. Music is a dream.” Alice’s passion for music, her optimism, gratitude, and love of learning teach us how to live a full and joyful life.

 PRESENTED BY KIP PERRY.

How do we prevent war? How great a price are we willing to pay for peace? Can we use the lessons learned throughout history to extend peace into tomorrow? Those are some of the questions posed by a new 1-hour documentary, The Price of Peace. The documentary drills down on a number of specific and diverse events: The Korea Tree event in the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea, which brought the two sides to an intense military stand-off ... the near launch of Russian nuclear weapons against the United States in 1983 ... the ill-conceived Falkland Islands Invasion by Argentina ... and British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's disastrous 1938 appeasement of Adolf Hitler in Munich. The film also examines the East African Masai tribe's warrior code of deterrence. Please join us for this thoughtful exploration of the lessons of war and peace.

WELCOME WINTER! PRESENTED BY, BETSY SCHWARM.

On this first day of winter, let's explore some of the fine music written for the season. You may already be thinking of Vivaldi, but he's just a start. Let's add Mozart (father and son), Tchaikovsky (not just that ever-famous ballet), solo piano pieces by Debussy and others, orchestral offerings from early 20th century English composers, and some current American composers as well. A touch of Christmas will round out the morning in a thoroughly seasonal spirit. Our presenter, Betsy Schwarm, will share insights into the backgrounds of the compositions and we'll hear musical excerpts. You'll come away with a detailed playlist so you can track down those items you wish to add to your own collection, or that of a loved one: the holidays are just around the corner!

The final schedule and Winter/Spring RSVP Form will be mailed to you in October along with the roster of Attendees. I am looking forward to our year together.

In closing, please do not hesitate, RSVP IMMEDIATELY so we can begin to coordinate this wonderful season! We would like to have the Enrollment Application and RSVP's returned, at the latest, by Friday, August 17th, 2018. As you know, my passion is encouragement, friendship, new learnings and some happenings that spring up from our group.

It is my hope that each one of us will live richer, more aware and more involved lives because of sharing our gifts with one another through Denver Eclectics.

Always my best wishes,
