

MARK BOBROWSKI, ESQ.

Mediator | Arbitrator

A partner in the Concord-based law firm of Blatman, Bobrowski, Haverty & Silverstein, LLC, Mark Bobrowski concentrates his statewide practice in property, land use and municipal law, and affordable housing. From 1986 to 2014, Mr. Bobrowski served as a tenured professor of law at New England School of Law in Boston, teaching courses in land use, local government, property and administrative law. He is now on emeritus status with the law school.

Mr. Bobrowski has authored numerous publications and articles on land use, zoning and municipal law, including the Handbook of Massachusetts Land Use and Planning Law, now in its sixth edition. The Handbook offers an in-depth analysis of land use regulations and case law relevant to real estate in Massachusetts and has been frequently cited by our trial and appellate courts. His articles have addressed subjects as diverse as the regulation of formula businesses, the promotion of affordable housing, the protection of the scenic landscape, and Chapter 40R, the Massachusetts Smart Growth statute.

Mr. Bobrowski has worked with more than 100 Massachusetts municipalities to recodify or revise their zoning ordinances or bylaws. He has served as a mediator in 40B affordable housing appeals referred by the Housing Appeals Committee. He has litigated dozens of land use cases before the Land Court and Superior Court and argued many times at the appellate level.

Mr. Bobrowski received his J.D. from New England School of Law, his M.A from the University of Oregon, and his B.A. from Ithaca College.
