

RONALD W. RUTH, ESQ.

Mediator / Case Evaluator

Joining the panel of neutrals in 2026, Ron Ruth brings invaluable real-world experience to REBA Dispute Resolution's clients, particularly in the areas of environmental and Brownfield construction law. Formerly a managing partner at the Boston firm of Sherin and Lodgen, LLP, and currently co-chair of the firm's Environmental Law Department, Ron's areas of practice include real estate, land use, and environmental law. He is also a LEED Accredited Professional.

At REBA/DR, Ron's mediation work focuses on real estate, land use, environmental and Brownfield construction law disputes. He is particularly effective in mediating disputes involving the complicated problems arising from construction on contaminated properties.

In addition, Ron mediates cases part-time in the Land Court under the auspices of the Lawyers Clearinghouse Access to Justice Fellows Program.

Prior to joining Sherin and Lodgen, Ron practiced at the international law firm of Ropes & Gray LLP and was legal counsel to the Massachusetts Department of Fisheries, Wildlife and Environmental Law Enforcement. After graduation from law school, he clerked for Alan M. Hale, Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Appeals Court.

Ron received a J.D. from Northeastern University School of Law, and B.A., cum laude, from Allegheny College.
