Art is also inherited: a collection bearing a daughter's name.

What does collecting art mean beyond the mere acquisition of great works? For Héctor Díaz, it means preserving history, sharing beauty, and building a legacy that transcends generations.

In his latest collaboration for Ser Empresario magazine, the founder of HECTOR DIAZ Gallery reveals the process behind the Renata Díaz Collection—a project born from the decision to start from scratch and build a body of work defined by curatorial vision, documentary rigor, and a commitment to the public.

A reflection on collecting, artistic excellence, and the responsibility of stewarding something that will one day continue its journey in other hands.
