We live in a fragmented society where chaos and resilience come together in an attempt to stay in balance in an endless cycle. Just as we are part of society, this is at the same time an essential part of us because it is the matter that forms us.

Through introspection we can recognize the fragments that make us be and have a unique personality that is built over time. We are an analogy of a puzzle, our pieces are made of all kinds of experiences and emotions that we live and experience, with thousands of possibilities to expand and grow.

The idea of the existence of a duality is constantly manifested in all aspects of life, as is the case with good and evil, and that despite being opposites, they are complementary.

HECTOR DIAZ Gallery is delighted to present the first Solo Show by Rodrigo Calderón, a young promise in the industry.

I met him at the beginning of 2021, and I immediately knew that he had not only talent, but a voice, a genuine style, and was willing to make a Collection to showcase his spectacular work.

In this exhibition, Calderón invites us to reflect on the pieces that, together, make us who we are: everything good, everything bad.

Because at the end of the day, we are fragments of everything that happens to us. Fragments we were, we are, we will be.
