

In today's interconnected, technology-driven world, professional service firms are often engaged in multiple activities, but no longer have to purchase multiple insurance policies to get the coverage they need. Pro ERMSM combines multiple coverages into one single policy to help protect professional service firms from a range of converging exposures and reduce potential coverage gaps.

Professional service firms can be held accountable when:

- Providing professional services to clients.
- Providing a technology service to clients.
- Producing or publishing advertising or other media content.
- Collecting, storing, or transmitting private or proprietary information.

Pro ERMSM is a fully integrated solution that enables professional service firms to manage and insure the growing exposures that companies face in the digital era. Pro ERMSM is an expansion of Chubb's comprehensive Cyber ERM policy that gives organizations of all sizes an enterprise risk management solution to address professional, media, and cyber exposures.

Pro ERMSM combines the following coverages:

Why do you need Pro ERMSM?

- Clients may require a service firm to carry professional liability insurance.
- Clients may hold a service firm responsible for their liability if such liability arises out of the service firm's action.
- Clients may incorporate the service firm's work product into the products or services they provide to others. A lawsuit can be brought by any third party who relies on, or is adversely impacted by, the service—not just the immediate client.
- Service firms may have access to proprietary business information or personal protected information and have a duty to safeguard that information.
- Service firms may hire and oversee subcontractors to provide certain services on their behalf. Clients may hold the service firm responsible for the work product of the subcontractors.
- Having the right insurance in place can actually be a marketing advantage when competing against companies to win a service contract.

Third-Party Liability Coverage

Professional Liability

- Professional liability results from errors or omissions in the performance of professional services. In today's world, many service companies provide technology services in addition to the professional services that are core to their operations. For such companies, it is increasingly necessary to purchase professional liability insurance that covers both professional and technology services.

Electronic, Social and Printed Media Liability

Defamation, copyright infringement, and trademark infringement are just some of the exposures associated with the promotion of an organization. Chubb's Electronic, Social and Printed Media Liability coverage was developed to address these media activities.

Cyber, Privacy and Network Security Liability

- Cyber risks are enterprise risk issues that require enterprise risk management solutions. With Chubb's Cyber, Privacy and Network Security Liability coverage, you have access to a distinctive level of cyber protection accompanied by extensive loss mitigation and incident response services.
