Days Creek Charter

The Days Creek Charter School is the only K-12 charter school in southern Douglas County (aka "South County"). Our school accepts students from throughout the area with daily busing from Tri-City, Myrtle Creek, Canyonville and Riddle. Despite serving an area that covers 803 square miles (within our district attendance zone) our current enrollment is around 200 students, and that small school climate allows us to focus our teaching on individualized and responsive instruction that adapts to students' needs.

The single campus allows for enriching interaction between our primary and secondary students on a four day school week. Responsible high school students can be tasked with internships, learning valuable organization and leadership skills, while younger pupils watch successful teens excel in high school. Teachers and staff are longtime and integral members of our community, many of whom are former Days Creek graduates and have returned to give their shared enthusiasm for this small school that's got a big appetite for learning. The wide-open spaces that surround Days Creek offer our children and school room to grow strong, confident and ready for tomorrow.

Our school is managed by an elected board of seven members as well as a charter school board. The successful candidate will serve as Superintendent/Principal/Executive Director of our community school. We are looking for a motivational leader who is committed to students and supportive of parents with a business mindset and extensive experiences in education.
