Background & Transparency Clause

In the spirit of openness and integrity, it is important to note that 44 years ago, Andrew Bear was not living a healthy lifestyle and was involved with drugs and alcohol. These destructive choices led to his incarceration and a life sentence for second-degree murder.

Andrew has now been free for over 30 years, living a life dedicated to healing, recovery, and service. As part of his lifelong parole conditions, he continues to report to a parole officer once every three months. This includes verifying the purpose and location of his out-of-province travel. This process is routine and straightforward, consisting only of confirming accommodations and reasons for travel.

Andrew's journey is one of transformation, accountability, and resilience. His life experience is a testament that healing is possible, and it continues to bring strength and hope to communities across Canada.
