

American Writing Awards Announces The Winners And Finalists In Their 2nd Annual American Writing Awards Competition

Other prizes awarded in 2022 were the Hawthorne Prize honoring the best fiction books of 2022 and the AWA Sports Book of the Year. Adding to the lineup of awards in 2023 is Children's Book International, one of the most affordable and inclusive international children's book competitions.

The American Writing Awards' team had this to say about the year's AWA competition.

“The American Writing Awards is truly unique as it attracts authors and publishers from all levels of the industry and from all parts of the world. 2022 surpassed our highest expectations when it came to the number and quality of works entered. The competition was fierce, making it extremely hard on our judges. Huge kudos to the winners, finalists, and all who had the courage to enter.

The American Writing Awards is a grassroots creation founded by authors for authors. Our mission is simple: We offer authors and publishers of all backgrounds an avenue to achieve recognition and pride in their works. The awards and services offered through our popular website—ranked 98/100 on website traffic and user interaction—are perfect promotional vessels to help launch careers, open markets, and compete on the global stage. The American Writing Awards team always supports authors, answers any questions, and provides a most fulfilling experience in all contests or services offered. Our literary reviews are unbiased and professional, not guaranteeing positive feedback, which can be very helpful to authors in their desire to print the best work possible.”

The full results of the 2022 American Writing Awards and all of the services and contests they offer can be found on their popular website <https://americanwritingawards.com/>.

AmericanWritingAwards.com accepts and features books from all types and genres of the publishing industry.
