

AmericanWritingAwards.com Announces the Winner of the 2023 Hawthorne Prize

Joe Pace's "Moss" won the 2023 Hawthorne Prize from AmericanWritingAwards.com, standing out amidst a record-breaking, high-quality entry pool. Other awards included those from the inaugural Children's Book International competition and the 2023 Podcast of the Year Awards. The organization noted the diverse range of authors and podcasters attracted by their competitions.

Moss by Joe Pace has won the 2023 Hawthorne Prize. The Hawthorne Prize is an elite writing award founded by AMERICANWRITINGAWARDS.COM in honor of renowned American novelist Nathaniel Hawthorne. A team of judges chooses one winner from among the year's best works of FICTION. The WINNER is hailed 'first among equals.' Other prizes awarded this spring were the Winners and Finalists of the inaugural Children's Book International competition as well as the Winners and Finalists of the 2023 Podcast of the Year Awards.

The American Writing Awards' team had this to say about the spring award season.

"We are truly unique as we attract a wide range of authors and podcasters into our competitions. We were fortunate to have an exceedingly large number of entries in the inaugural CBI competition and a record number of books entered to win the Hawthorne Prize. We love reading your books! This spring surpassed our highest expectations when it came to the number and quality of works entered. The competition was fierce, making it extremely hard on our judges."

AmericanWritingAwards.com accepts and features books from all types and genres of the publishing industry.
