

All That Beauty Holds

You shine your light in places, the world forgot to see,
A glow that wakes the silent stars and sets the shadows free.
Your soul held sacred secrets, no mirror could disguise,
For all that's made of beauty, is reflected in your eyes.

