

You Got This Love

We reached the school, so loud, so tall,
I felt so small beside it all.
I held Mom's hand and squeezed it tight,
My tummy swirled, nothing felt right.

She knelt down close and kissed my face,
"You've got this love, you'll find your place."
Then came goodbye, her steps grew wide,
And all my brave slipped back inside.

