Prepare for Winter!

Fertilization – Deep Root

Now's the time to focus on deep root fertilization, and Ed's top choice for products is MicroLife products. MicroLife is renowned for its nutrient-packed formulas, especially their Humates Plus.

These products provide essential humates (food in the soil) and microbes (which break down that food). Without humates, it's like going to a nice restaurant but not eating dinner – they're that essential!

With the right balance, you're setting up your trees for optimal growth.

Why Nutrients Matter

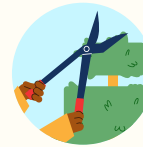

Humates enrich the soil, providing much-needed nutrition, while microbes act like a fine-dining experience, breaking down nutrients and feeding your trees. With the right balance, you're setting up your trees for optimal growth.

Did you know?

This is the beginning of the perfect time of the year for pruning. Trees can be thinned for sunlight penetration to the understory garden.

It's time to prepare to control overwintering insects and scale. We are still seeing a big problem with Pine beetle so stay vigilant for your trees.

Winter Is Coming

Here's a few quick reminders for your yard as we approach winter:

- ✓ Best season for tree pruning and thinning.
- ✓ Schedule deep root fertilization with MicroLife.
- ✓ Prep now for insect control (scale & pine beetle are still around).
- ✓ Keep watering! Rainfall is low.
