Jungle Dog Premiere Showcases Multi-Talented Electronic Dreamweaver

LOS ANGELES, March 31, 2023 -- The new single from multi-talented electronic DJ/producer Mutanto, "Pagan Love Dance," is slated for release May 5, 2023. A catchy, upbeat offering, it will be the artist's first for Jungle Dog Records and showcases his considerable talents to good effect.

Dropping just in time to pump up any Cinco De Mayo revelers' party, this unique instrumental track features Latinesque polyrhythms, sultry synths, and shimmering, moonlit vocalizations. "Pagan Love Dance" seems to transport listeners to a dreamy, steamy, primeval soiree somewhere deep in the tropical rainforest of their imaginations.

"Pagan Love Dance" is coproduced with veteran Phil Lewis, who is also the founder of Jungle Dog Records. The collaboration with Mutanto began in 2021, and with this maverick digital release the world will get its first taste of that association. It looks like it's going to be a fruitful one.

"It's taken us a while to get the ball rolling," Lewis recounts, "There was the pandemic, and then we were laying the foundation for the label (Jungle Dog). And Mutanto is a bit of a drifter and sometimes hard to track down. You never know where you're going to find him if you need an approval or something. He might be surfing in Bali or trekking in Yucatán. It's a bit inconvenient."

Jungle Dog Records has several more Mutanto dreamscapes in its back pocket which it is promising to deliver -- along with some peculiar surprises -- over the coming year. To hear more from this sometimes troublesome, always intriguing artist subscribe to the Jungle Dog mailing list, or follow on social media.
