Empowering Youth

Learning, service, travel, developing powers of thought, discernment and expression, building community and serving humanity.

What We're About

According to the Bahá'í teachings, an individual reaches the age of maturity at 15, when spiritual and moral obligations become binding. The years immediately before this age, then, take on special significance. This is the time when fundamental concepts about individual and collective life are formulated in the mind of an adolescent struggling to leave behind the habits of childhood. Youth between the ages of 11 and 15 have much to say, and whoever treats them as children misses the opportunity to help them form a proper identity.

The three units of the program offered focus on some of the concepts, skills, qualities, and attitudes that experience has shown are required by those wishing to implement a program for the spiritual empowerment of junior youth.

This program is designed to give these youth people the opportunity to explore these themes and concepts that will help them deal with the complexities of life, combat the forces of moral decay gaining strength everywhere, and become active agents of social change.

This revolution seeks to release the intellectual and spiritual powers of these young people in service to humanity.

Training is FREE

Two Paths of Action

While the aim of the program is youth between 11-15, those who travel this path with them have an equally monumental role. We are seeking youth ages 18-25 who are looking to serve as animators of the junior youth. These animators will be trained to accompany the younger youth on a path of learning, exploration and service.

“They assist junior youth to navigate through a crucial stage of their lives and to become empowered to direct their energies toward the advancement of civilization.”

Whether older youth walking the path with junior youth, or the JY themselves, will form a part of a growing group of individuals in the neighborhood committed to its betterment, and gaining experience in visiting households in the community to explore themes with families - acts of service. Junior youth study qualities and attributes that distinguish the period of youth, the interplay between service, education and preparation for the future, and how each can find a path to advancing civilization.

For the Betterment of the World

Join this unique event to explore with other like-minded youth your potential to inspire, empower, serve the community and create a better future. If you're between 14-25 years old you can be part of this uplifting conference.

Your Dual Purpose

We believe young people like you have the power to make a big difference in the world. It's important to grow not only in your knowledge and skills but also in your spiritual qualities. When you work on being the best person you can be, you help shape a better world around you.

This is called "dual purpose"—working on yourself and making society better at the same time. The two go hand in hand. The choices you make and the way you live help make your community stronger, and a better community helps you grow too.

Join us on this journey! Let's build a brighter future together by growing in ways that help both ourselves and the world.
