NAVAL ORDER OF THE UNITED STATES NEW YORK COMMANDERY

The '76 House, America's oldest restaurant, is a three hundred year old structure lovingly restored to pristine condition by the Norden Family. Listed as a National Landmark, the establishment offers much more than historical significance. Today, patrons enjoy fabulous food prepared by its acclaimed chef, in a one-of-a-kind setting.

Built in 1668, The '76 House had a profound effect on the outcome of The Revolutionary War. Through its long use as a meeting place for patriots, the '76 House established itself as safe ground for Americans when the air was rife with revolution and the tavern itself served as the “prison” of the Revolution’s most notorious spy, Major John Andre. That is why the '76 House is often referred to as “Andre’s Prison”, not a real prison, in fact never having been a place of incarceration for anyone before or since. On the contrary, The Old '76 House has been a haven for many a weary traveler for more than two hundred years. This great tavern has accommodated on various occasions, every General of the west wing of the Continental Army including Commander-in-Chief General George Washington who, with his chief provisioner Samuel Fraunces, dined in the comfortable atmosphere of the '76 House.
