

Conflict Prevention,
Conflict Resolution,
and Peacebuilding

17 June 2025

Dear Prime Minister,

We, the undersigned, have come together to urge you to set out the Government's strategy and commitment to resourcing civilian efforts to prevent and address violent conflict.

Violent conflict is now a global crisis, impacting more countries than at any point since the Second World War. From Ukraine to Gaza, Sudan to Myanmar, conflicts are fuelling mass atrocities and forcing families to undertake dangerous journeys to seek safety elsewhere. At a global level, they are disrupting economies and diverting the world's attention away from human rights, climate change and gender equality.

To durably strengthen national security, therefore, the Government must invest not just in defence, but also in development and diplomacy. This includes vital initiatives that prevent, resolve and address the root causes of conflicts as well as those which help societies recover, such as Humanitarian Mine Action and stabilisation programmes. Yet we are gravely concerned that these initiatives may disappear amidst cuts to the aid budget.

This would be a false economy, as conflicts left to escalate and spread will lead to further insecurity, forced displacement and humanitarian crises to which the armed forces and aid agencies must respond.

It would also mark the UK's effective withdrawal from agendas it once championed – from conflict prevention, where it helped bring about peace agreements in the Philippines, Colombia and Ethiopia, to the Women, Peace and Security agenda, which it helped establish. Doing so would be a loss to the UK's international standing, and leave peacebuilders, women's rights activists and many vulnerable communities without vital support.

We urge you to make sure the Government and its partners have the resources to turn the tide on the spread of violent conflict. This will require a clear commitment and whole-of-Government approach to address violent conflict within the upcoming National Security Strategy. Despite resource constraints, this approach will need to be adequately funded by a ringfenced budget, equivalent to 4% of the remaining Official Development Assistance for civilian conflict prevention and peacebuilding work.

Without this, the UK might risk facing the global conflict crisis with one hand tied behind its back.

We would welcome the opportunity to meet with you to discuss these issues further.

Yours sincerely,
