MARCHING, WE'RE MARCHING...
TO THE GLORY OF GOD

I never found parades exciting, nor do I still... they're just not my thing. The one event I went to when the kids were younger was the Santa Claus parade of course. I admit there was some great lights and artistic floats but the standing, the cold, the damp and wind seeping in put me into a whiny boo hoo mood and I just couldn't get really excited. The kids had fun and that was what was important. One thing I can say that I like about larger parades is seeing the marching bands and the military units! The incredible precision of any number of hundreds and maybe thousands of men and women marching, marching in an exact sequence and unity; it 's combat boot ballet!

Now there are many reasons for parades, celebrations like thanksgiving or Christmas all draw huge crowds, Macy's being one of the more famous of them. They do stir the emotions depending on the nature they are parading about. The two mentioned are among the larger venues where millions...yes two to three million people pack the downtown streets of New York for the US thanksgiving tradition. Like sardines rolled into a blender there they are with the visuals of the floats, if you're lucky to be up close. You have to really like thanksgiving to put yourself through that and endure a "tradition" and crowds like that.

Some less common parades in the west are the military type where the bands are marching and playing, the battalion groups are shined up and gracefully moving with one intention and as a single unit. I recall one day when I was younger seeing a troupe of air cadets which I thought was an awesome sight for a Roger Ramjet fan ! All lined up marching in formation which made me want to join them- the cadets that is. Also I heard you learned to fly a plane! I could certainly appreciate the coordination and practice it took to have everyone in unison.

Yes the many reasons we have for celebrating and the shows of grandeur we can put on display for a day or event, a person, a social cause, or like in the USA their captain in chief who leads their country. As a matter of fact many other countries put on these grand displays of might and marching in unity , parading before their captain and chief.

I liken this to how we as the body of Christ, the Church are to BE MARCHING in the very same sense. Do we have a Captain?

"For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings."

Hebrews 2:10 KJV

YES, we certainly do and we have been called into a spiritual battle! Where we live in the flesh with our thoughts, environment, behaviours and the like, we are called beyond this...from the physical carnal life we live in into the spiritual life WITH GOD! The Bible speaks about this in many ways, Timothy mentioned :

“No soldier in active service entangles himself in the affairs of everyday life, so that he may please the one who enlisted him as a soldier.”

2 Timothy 2:4

So as soldiers we are to seeking to be transformed and MARCH forth OUT of the old life , the old self.

To what? To where?

Into the new person, transformed by God to the Glory of God, our Lord and saviour Jesus Christ, who is the Captain of our Salvation, the Captain of our Faith! In this battle it is the might of the Lord that we put on display, as HE does His marvelous and transforming work in each of our lives. The saints; we get to rejoice as we go marching, marching to Zion to the glory of God. Together in unity, with a singular focus in our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. The church, the saints go marching!

YOUTH WALK

Jacob Martins & Laura Morris

Hello everyone! Jacob and Laura here. How was the first week and a half of school? I'm sure there was a lot of new things, getting used to your first new teachers and classes; maybe you are close to graduating or starting to plan for life beyond high school ... but no matter how it went, we have faith in God that He will uphold you all and continue to lead you in this new year.

Laura and I had a chance to watch a couple movies this week, and we were reminiscing about high school dramas we watched as kids. One thing that stood out to both of us was how classmates would behave towards each other in high school movies. It's almost like being mean was normal. It left me wondering as a young kid "wow, will everyone be this mean to each other when I get to high school?" Surely enough, Laura and I both remember the start of high school being a challenging time. We both saw lots of things that we hadn't experienced before. Just like those 'typical' movies, we saw lots of division between people and friend groups, drama, factions and gossip, bullying and rude speech, some really nasty name calling and literal fist fights between 'friends'?!?. We were surprised at how unloving the world can be. As we look at the word of God, how are we commanded to be?

Our Lord Jesus says,

"So in everything, do to others what you would have them do to you."

Matthew 7:12

Rather than following the demonstration we so often see around us of how to treat others, our Lord Jesus says that we should treat others with His type of love. Forgiveness, patience, kindness, selflessness; these are some things we appreciate when we receive them, and God tells us to give them to all others, as well. This way of loving others is the opposite of how the world works, but just our Lord Jesus says in John 13:35, "By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another." When we choose to be the examples of God's love to all others, no matter how they choose to treat us, then we give God all the glory and we demonstrate His perfect love to those around us. God bless you all and we pray that the love of God continues to strengthen you in this new school year.

IN THE Life ...

Hello everyone. A few months ago I spoke about a brother who was diagnosed with lung cancer. We have continued to talk and he has shared with me that he is still sick today, and is having trouble finding work to afford treatment. He has even shared that his family has become tired of him and refused any help. Yet throughout all of this, he has remained encouraged, and glorified Christ. He has never lost hope that God can heal him, and has been incredibly encouraged and thankful for our shared prayer. He has been an incredible encouragement and demonstration of faith in action. I pray that we would all lift him up to the Lord, and I trust that Jesus Christ will have His perfect way in our brother's life! God bless you all.

Noah Martins

Hello everyone, I hope your week has been well! I have been speaking with another sister who shared with me some photos of children that are just beginning to have these open and cracked wounds and sores spread across their skin, on places like their elbows and even starting on their face. This is once again due to having only unclean water and food to consume. This has really struck my heart and so please continue to lift up these children to our Lord that they may receive clean food and water to sustain them and that He continue to uphold them in His righteous Hand.
