Our organization, the CCCC, which consists of nine churches in the Crofton area, has been fortunate to partner with the Anne Arundel Food Bank since 2010. We depend solely on donations from community organizations and individuals to provide food for families in Anne Arundel County. Without the monthly support of the AA Food Bank providing cases of food, meat, and produce we would be unable to fill our food bags with the amounts of food that we do. We are extremely grateful for their support.

We see an average of 140 families each month who realize that the food we provide allows them to use their money for other necessities. We had one family who came to us for four months in a row and then we did not see them again. In December, we received a note from the mother saying that they were finally able to move back to West Virginia where they had family, and she enclosed $50 for our pantry to "give back" since she and her husband were now employed. She was grateful that the food their family had received for those few months when they needed help allowed them to save the money they needed to make the move.
