Larry Cox

September 21st was a beautiful day to say goodbye to Larry with a celebration of his life. Tina Mayer gave a moving eulogy with insight to the life and character of this man. Here are some of her thoughts.

The friends of his daughter Lisa became part of the family and he was proud of all their accomplishments. The Cox family was incredibly close, a closeness that was developed and fostered by the love and time Larry and Linda gave to the kids over the years. Larry attended as many events and coached as many teams as was possible and the whole family worked together all the time on projects or in businesses.

Larry loved his friends and he loved to talk. In the years of running and working in businesses in town he met everyone, talked to everyone and always knew what was going on. He loved to socialize and spend time with his friends including a running lunchtime card game. His lifelong residency in Chelan led to deep, lasting friendships and many hobbies. He and Rudy Mayer grew up together on the southshore and the many tales of their adventures growing up made for many a story.

Larry and Linda were married for 47 years. They had a deep, quiet love that lasted through raising children and running a business. Both felt comfortable pursuing their own hobbies and interests and then were able to come back together and share their experiences with each other.

Larry lived and died on his own terms. He honored his obligations but made decisions based on what was best for him and his family especially as his illness progressed. He died with the dignity he had during his life. His St. Andrew's family will miss him.

September was the Season of Creation, and St. Andrew's celebrated each Sunday with Eucharist based on the Australian service and celebrating the entire universe. Each Sunday focused on part of Creation: Oceans, Flora & Fauna, Storm, and Cosmos. Each service was uniquely different but based on the Episcopal tradition.

Vestry Notes, September 12, 2013

The financial report indicated that there had been more income than expenses for the month of August and year to date. The vestry has been prudent in spending and members have been generous in giving.

The Lutheran intern, Megan Sawyer, will be preaching her first sermon at St. Andrew's on Oct. 13th. She will also be doing a bible study. All members are invited to join. Time and dates will be posted in Sunday bulletin and online calendar.

Ideas for Outreach from other churches were discussed to see if any would be something we would like to consider

Organizational chart for all members of vestry and licensed ministries was discussed and updated.

Expansion of the Columbarium is being considered and cost estimates are being collected.

A parish wide Spaghetti dinner to be held at Barb Sutor's home on Sept. 22..

Janice Hartl, member of Worship Committee reported that the Creation September services have been nice. They still follow Anglican Service. She felt it will be nice to do something different from time to time. Any ideas please let Janice know.

Next vestry meeting is October 10, 2013 at 5:00 PM
