

What to expect for your fall photos

Disclaimer: Although I cannot guarantee the perfect fall foliage for your photoshoot, I try my best to schedule the perfect time based on previous years and 5 years of photography experience but I do not control mother nature. This does not mean your session can be rescheduled or cancelled. However, you will still receive beautiful photos.

- I will be booking a morning photoshoot on weekends and two evening shoots. This means session times will be tight and we will need to start on time.
- Please also keep in mind that EVERYONE in Utah wants to be in the canyon checking out the fall colors. This means that it will take a lot longer to get to your session location. Plan accordingly!
- Because of the extra time it takes for weekend fall photos and travel, in booking a fall weekend shoot my starting coat is $300. To encourage weekday shoots my fee will start at $280.
- My fall schedule is already pretty booked and will only fill up even more as fall gets closer so take this in consideration in if needing to reschedule (see reschedule policy in pricing). Most likely if you need to reschedule last minute you may not be able to get rescheduled for fall photos.
- Along with not being able to predict the fall foliage, I will try to recommend locations based on fall foliage locations but weather might change my recommendations. Please be patient and open to location changes if needed.
