SIN DRINKS

WINES

The grapes are picked at full maturity and macerated to extract colour and tannins. Fermentation takes place with a cultured yeast at temperatures between 25 and 28°C. After the fermentation is complete, the wine is left in the fermentation tank with the skins for another 2 weeks to ensure integration and full development of the tannin structure. The alcohol is then carefully removed using a vacuum spinning cone process. This allows the alcohol to be removed without affecting the integrity of the wine.

Hi, I'm Torz.

Owner and founder of Love & Ink. I often stay in the background, either in the treatment rooms or busy busy on my laptop but I thought it was time to say hi properly and introduce our latest new evolution and where it all came from.,

How was Love & Ink born? Back in 2016 I saw an opportunity; I wanted to bring a loving comfortable feel to the body adornment world without it being scary for those new to the scene. With my passion for ink (having many many hours worth of work on me), I bought together an awesome team to offer quality body piercings, beautiful tattoos, stunning jewellery curation and body beautiful services.

So where did Sin Bar come from? Long story short, when I was at art college I lived in my parent's pub so my career started in hospitality (then a few restaurants and then some corporate bits followed) before taking over In Skin. I have always 'worked hard, played hard' and got shit done.

Having a drink at the end of a long day or week has been the norm and socialising to relax but I became tired of juggling that too. So over the last year I've been working with rehabilitation and recovery groups to change my relationship with alcohol and discover a whole new world of non-dependence and self care.

I found it so difficult to find tasty alternatives that matched my 'usual' tipples, I'm not a beer drinker for instance but that's what's normally only on offer in AF. I tried loads of zero wines and spirits I found scattered in shops but they were so hit and miss. I did find some 'hits' which allowed me to still enjoy a glass of wine or two at home. But I still wanted to go out once in a while....lightbulb!

From 2024, I'm excited to announce a move and expansion to a new premises which will home to Kent's first and only Sobriety Bar. Offering No/Low alcohol wines, beers, cocktails and coffee in a fun and artistic space..

The Sin Bar and Creative Lounge offers 'great match' alcohol free alternative drinks and delicious award-winning coffee along with drawing pads and tattoo design sheets for budding artists to free the mind and join others.

We hope you enjoy our Sin Bar at Love & Ink, here for you to love the skin you're in. Much love, TJ xx
