Unique Design Concept

located on a five-acre, triangular parcel of land bounded by Connecticut Avenue, Sedgwick and Tilden Streets. Washington, DC's Cleveland Park neighborhood. Tilden Gardens is one of the nation's capital's largest cooperative apartment residences. Completed in 1930, the development consists of four buildings that form one corporation.

Constructed of red brick and trimmed with Indiana limestone, the Tudor Revival buildings are set among charming terraced gardens. No other complex in Washington can match Tilden Gardens' ratio of green space to dwellings. The spacious apartments were thoughtfully designed with meticulous attention to detail.
