

No Turning Back

We welcome you in, your life it will begin
Today's the day you're born
As sun lights up the dawn

Our family has grown, you lighten up our home
The sadness blown away
We love another day

They say somethings wrong, that you do not have long
Before you must depart
The dagger to our hearts

We don't understand, has this all been preplanned?
There's nothing we can say
It has to be this way

You've come to the end, it's time that you ascend
But we must all remain
We'll never be the same

It's time for goodbye, don't know the reason why
We're just passing through
It's wretched but true

We yearn for you now, yet sorrow we allow
It's not how we supposed
For now our road is closed

While you carry on, to where you once came from
We missed all the signs
Death's harsh cruel design