

A clean Limerick by Pat Simpson (nice and easy to guess)

There was a young man from the Eastside
Whose interests ranged far and wide.
His intentions weren't sinister,
But he became Prime Minister.
Britain's confidence in government died.