SNAPSHOT

When you stepped from view
My focus left with you
The end of an era

My viewfinder cracked and blurred
Contrast faded, aperture shrank
Letting in no light

Developing my greyscale
exposing my fragile composition

My world of colour
faded to monochrome
An empty frame

Alone