THINGS TO DO | EVENTS | MAPS

Welcome

Welcome to Deming, the new frontier in the historic Old West. Situated in southern New Mexico, 33 miles north of the Mexican border, this friendly city of 14,000 residents and a few famous ducks offers something for everyone.

Enjoy outdoor adventures in scenic mountains and parks, and explore historic sites of the early American West. At a treasured museum, discover stunning Native American pottery made a millennium ago by ancient tribes who lived in the area. Stroll through downtown Deming on the Historic Downtown Walking Tour, and journey back in time to the city's railroad era as you visit unique buildings listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

A celebrated "Rock-Hunter's Paradise" known for geodes, opals and jasper, Deming also has a vibrant arts scene. A calendar of exciting annual events includes the Great American Duck Race, Salsa Festival, Winefest and more.

It's not hard to see why Deming draws visitors of all ages, from outdoor adventurers to history buffs, vacationing families and retirees. First-timers return again and again to experience the beauty of our parks and mountains, the thrill of unearthing a geode and the joys of cheering for your favorite duck. Use this guide to begin planning your Deming adventure, and we'll see you soon, pardner.

The Deming Luna Mimbres Museum building was originally built as a National Guard Armory, completed in 1916, just two months after Pancho Villa's raid on nearby Columbus. Before it was finished, military troops slept there while the U.S. was recruiting troops to defend America's border with Mexico. Today, the museum is Deming's treasure, housing extensive collections of Mimbres pottery, antique autos, quilts, dolls, and period-furnished rooms. The Santa Fe Railroad donated the paint for the Harvey House exhibit so it would be true-to-life in authentic color.

History

Deming was founded in 1881, but its history stretches back nearly a millennium to the flourishing era of the Mimbres civilization. In villages along the Mimbres River, the Mimbres Indians lived, farmed and produced their world-famous pottery, painted with distinctive birds and animal figures. They vanished in the 13th century, following the arrival of Spanish settlers. After the Americans came to the Southwest around 1800, Deming was known as a notorious Wild West town, where outlaws were banished after they'd been captured elsewhere. Nonetheless, in the 1850s, Deming became a stop on the famous Butterfield Stage Trail, the world's longest stagecoach line, which carried passengers and U.S. mail between St. Louis and San Francisco. More fame came in 1881 when Deming was established as a prominent railway town, named for Mrs. Mary Deming Crocker, the wife of railroad baron Charles Crocker. Here, the Southern Pacific met the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, thus completing America's second transcontinental railroad. Over the years, Presidents Hayes, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt and Truman all were met with a grand welcome at the Deming train depot, which sits across the street from Pit

Park. Today, Deming is a vibrant community in the heart of the Old West, known for its outdoor adventures, world-class museum, award-winning wineries, annual events and more.

Historic Downtown Walking Tour

For a time-traveling adventure, head out on downtown Deming's self-guided Historic Landmark Walking Tour. Of the city's 37 buildings with historical significance, 16 are on the State Historic Register, and four are on the National Register of Historic Places. The tour will lead you to 16 of these architectural treasures spread out over four city blocks. Begin at the Deming Luna Mimbres Museum, built in 1916 as a red-brick National Guard Armory. Across the street lies the famous Custom House, built circa 1889 as the home and office of Judge Seaman Field, U.S. Customs Officer, with its long portico Greek columns. As you continue the tour, you'll stroll past a classic 19th-century brick hotel, a turn-of-the-century pool hall and restaurant, and a Masonic Hall built in 1917. You can't miss Morgan Hall, the city's original City Hall and fire station, and the Deming Arts Center, where an original metal vault is now an office. Your journey ends at the imposing Luna County Courthouse, which dates to 1910 and is designed in the style of 19th-century Midwest public buildings.

Locals love it

One of the most striking buildings on your walking tour, the Luna County Courthouse, was designed by W.B. Corwin and completed in 1910. It features a clock tower, a Greek portico and a jail built with decorative brick. The courthouse was the site of the controversial trials of the Villistas, Pancho Villa's men who fought the Americans in the 1914 Columbus raid. The entire courthouse complex is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

The museum's Mimbres Indians Pottery Room is a treasure trove filled with pots of all sizes made between 950 and 1200 A.D. by the Mimbres Indians, who were among the area's earliest residents. Many of the pots are black on white, with interiors painted with animals and bird figures, but some are red on white. Amazingly, the Mimbres painted their intricate designs with brushes they created out of chewed yucca leaves.

Deming Luna Mimbres Museum

Step inside the Deming Luna Mimbres Museum, and you'll be surrounded by a remarkable history of place. The fascinating collections here chronicle the art and culture of an ancient civilization, as well as the everyday lives of those who lived in Deming across the centuries. You'll see world-famous pottery made by the Mimbres people, who lived in the region nearly a thousand years ago and today are world-renowned for their culture and craftsmanship. Moving through history, visit period-furnished rooms, view an antique car collection and art gallery and see displays of china, crystal, teapots, Depression-Era glass and other household items. Some 1,000 dolls make up the antique doll and related toy collection, spanning more than a century in time. The Western Area reflects cowboy life and includes a jail cell that dates to 1918. The Diamond-A Chuckwagon, built in Deming circa 1900, was used at cattle roundups for the Victoria Land Cattle Co. The reproduction of Deming's railroad station and Harvey House restaurant, which opened in the 1880s, features a life-like Harvey Girl greeting would-be diners at the front door. Don't miss the geode, gem and mineral exhibit featuring discoveries from around the world, though the mammoth tusk and tooth were found in nearby gravel pits.

The Great American Duck Race began in 1980 when a group of Deming men, hoping to promote and stimulate business in the community, decided duck racing would be just the ticket. Over the years, this celebrated event has grown, bringing some 10,000 people together—residents and visitors alike, who often return year after year, cementing friendships among people as well as fine feathered friends.

Annual Events

The Great American Duck Race

For more than 40 years, folks have flocked to Deming from across the Southwest and beyond for the Great American Duck Race, held on the 4th weekend in August every year. Live duck races on land and water are the main event, but tons of other family fun is scheduled all weekend long. Enjoy hot air balloon ascensions, horseshoe pitching, soft-pitch softball, an outhouse race and a tortilla toss...because why not throw a tortilla? There's also live entertainment, a carnival, arts and crafts vendors and food. Anyone willing to waddle and dress in a costume based on that year's race theme can compete in the Great American Duck Royalty Pageant and vie for the title of the Duck King and Duck Queen. Contestants are invited to ride on the pageant float in the annual Tournament of Ducks parade. Locals and visitors can participate, too, joined by classic cars, tractors, police and fire vehicles. To race, you don't have to bring your own duck. In fact, you can't, as they're provided to you. Elimination heats take place on wet and dry tracks, and the fastest duck in Sunday's final race earns a cash prize. Don't miss this weekend of feathered fun. It is everything it's "quacked" up to be!

Día de los Muertos

Celebrate Día de los Muertos, or Day of the Dead, with Deming's annual Día de los Muertos Art Festival, held at the Luna County Courthouse Park. The holiday, observed on November 1 and 2, honors our ancestors with colorful traditions rooted in Mexico, including ancient religious rites, feasts and more. The festival—held on the first weekend of November—includes sugar skull decorating, face painting and a candlelight ceremony to remember loved ones.

Southern New Mexico State Fair

The fun never ends at the Southern New Mexico State Fair & Rodeo, held in Las Cruces in late September. From carnival rides and an action-packed rodeo to livestock judging, a stunt dog show and concerts by local and national musicians, this annual event offers something for everyone. Don't miss the classic fair food, pulled pork nacho fries and corn dogs made from a secret family recipe.

Salsa Festival

Celebrate salsa, one of America's favorite condiments, at the Luna County Salsa Festival. This savory event takes over the historic Luna County Courthouse Park on the last weekend of July, when more than 10,000 locals and visitors turn out for cook-offs, eating contests, a wine and beer garden, live music and dancing, games and family-friendly entertainment.

Wine Fest

Sample award-winning wines and craft beer at the D.H. Lescombes Winery of Deming's Wine Fest, held in the early fall for more than two decades. This festive weekend includes tastings of award-winning wines and craft beer as well as food, but there's much more on the menu, including live music and dancing, a silent auction, grape-stomping and cork-pulling contests, kid's activities, VIP winery tours and fireworks.

Rockhound Roundup

Deming rocks when the Rockhound Roundup comes to town for four days in March, devoted to geodes, gems, fossils, quartz and other treasures of the earth. Rock collectors join fossil fans, jewelry makers, lapidaries, quartz traders, bead makers and people who simply admire rocks. The schedule includes a buyer's market, silent and live auctions, displays, demonstrations and guided field trips for rock collecting and sampling. People travel from all around the world to attend this event held at the Southwestern New Mexico State Fairgrounds. No one leaves empty-handed.

Things to Do

Lescombes Winery

New Mexico's largest winery, D.H. Lescombes Winery produces 70 different wines, including Hatch Chile Wines, infused with red or green Hatch chile peppers. The winery is owned by the Lescombes family, winemakers for six generations who also produce wines in France's fabled Burgundy region and Algeria. Get a behind-the-scenes look when you tour the vineyard and winery, and enjoy a VIP six-barrel tasting.

Luna Rossa Winery

The award-winning wines from Luna Rossa Winery are made exclusively with grapes grown in vineyards in the Mimbres Valley near Deming. Founded in 2001 by Paolo and Sylvia D'Andrea, Luna Rossa's acclaimed wines include chardonnay, cabernet sauvignon and chenin blanc, and you can sample them in the enchanting tasting room. You can also visit the winery for regular pizza night, live music and a painting class, which includes wine, dinner and a lesson with an artist.

Golf in Deming

The Rio Mimbres Country Club offers a popular public golf course with scenic views and challenging play. When you tee off at hole one of this 18-hole course, you're overlooking the striking Florida Mountains. The course's desert landscape features two lakes and 14 bunkers, and there are also three practice areas and a driving range.

Starmax

For family fun, head over to Starmax, Deming's family-friendly entertainment center. The six-screen movie theater, bowling alley, arcade and restaurant offer something for everybody.

Deming Shopping

When you shop in Deming, you can find everything from Western wear, hats and accessories to geodes and other rocks, arts and crafts, and antiques. Be sure to visit the Deming Luna Mimbres Museum's gift shop for unique souvenirs, such as turquoise jewelry, books about Deming's history, Mimbres-style pottery and more.

The park is known for its spectacular dark-night sky viewing, with a dazzling display of stars, constellations, planets and other wonders of the universe. An onsite, high-powered telescope will enhance your views. Time your visit to attend one of the springtime Stars-n-Parks astronomy programs at City of Rocks and explore the night sky with a formal presentation and telescope observations. The National Public Observatory sponsors the events, which also take place at Rockhound State Park.

City of Rocks State Park

Explore the otherworldly beauty of City of Rocks State Park, where stunning wind-sculpted, rain-worn volcanic rock formations resemble towers, temples, pinnacles and other fantastic shapes, some as high as 40 feet. Located 30 miles north of Deming, the park is one of New Mexico's most visited sites. Formed more than 30 million years ago after the eruption of a large volcano, the rock sculptures seem to create a small city made up of houses, chimneys and courtyards, all separated by paths that look like city streets. Arrowheads, pottery and other artifacts found here indicate that the Mimbres Indians once lived in the area. Later, Spanish conquistadors carved crosses on the rocks that some believe point the way to ancient buried treasure. The mesmerizing landscape of City of Rocks is a paradise for hikers, mountain bikers, picnickers, birdwatchers and wildlife viewers. Be on the lookout for antelope, javelinas, deer and jackrabbits, as well as more than 35 species of birds, from finches to golden eagles. You can also visit a desert botanical garden filled with yucca, century plants, cow's tongue and bunny ear cacti. City of Rocks is a perfect place for bouldering and stargazing, and plenty of campsites are available, with restrooms and showers available at the Visitor Center.

Rockhound State Park's hiking trails offer breathtaking views of the 7,000-foot peaks of the Florida Mountains and colorful wildflower displays during summer. The trails vary in difficulty. Thunder Egg Trail takes you on a mile-long excursion, and the Florida Mountain Loop Trail offers a moderate hike.

Rockhound State Park

You never know what treasure you might unearth at Rockhound State Park, situated on the rugged slopes of the Little Florida Mountains, 12 miles southeast of Deming. The 1,100-acre park, established in 1966, was the first in the country to allow visitors to leave with the natural objects they found there. You can prospect for geodes, jasper, opals and more, and take your findings with you—as long as the total weighs 15 pounds or less. You might also find quartz crystal, translucent chalcedony, onyx, agate, thundereggs and perlite. The park isn't just for rock hunting, though. You can mountain bike, hike and enjoy a picnic surrounded by stunning scenery. Spend the night in a spacious campsite with views that stretch across the desert plain. There's also a playground for kids. Plant life includes yucca and prickly pear cacti, mesquite, juniper, scrub oak and wildflower displays. You may see deer, antelope, prairie dogs, badgers and an array of birds, too.

Pancho Villa was driving his black 1919 Dodge Touring car when he was assassinated in Chihuahua on July 20, 1923, at the order of Mexico President Alvaro Obregon. More than a century after Villa's raid on Columbus, Pancho Villa State Park is taken over every October by Pancho's Car Show, featuring vintage and late model show cars and motorcycles. You'll see some of the best show vehicles in the Southwest and, who knows, you may even see a black 1919 Dodge Touring car.

Pancho Villa State Park

At the border of Mexico, a half-hour's drive from Deming, lies Pancho Villa State Park. With its historic buildings and exhibition hall, the park commemorates the famous raid of General Francisco "Pancho" Villa's soldiers, who attacked the small border town of Columbus and Camp Furlong, a military camp, on March 9, 1916. This raid marked the first armed invasion of the continental U.S. and the last one, too. In response, General "Black Jack" Pershing went after Pancho Villa, leading 10,000 American soldiers on an 11-month, 5,000-mile pursuit into Mexico, but failed to capture him. The park's exhibits and buildings explore this fascinating history, as Pershing's pursuit marked the first U.S. military expedition to employ airplanes and other mechanized transportation. That experience proved to be invaluable when Pershing served as commander of the Allied forces in World War I. You'll see a Curtiss JN-3 "Jenny" aircraft and a 1916 Dodge Touring car, the kind that Pershing used as his field office. Stop by the Visitor Center, which was a U.S. Customs House built in 1902. The park also offers hiking, picnicking, camping, wildlife viewing, and a native plant garden.
