- Provides a Common Language of Performance: Situational Leadership® training establishes a common language that enables leaders and followers to gain alignment on tasks, address barriers to success, communicate needs and provide support
- Empowers Accountability: Employees are equipped with the skills to own their role in the leadership process by identifying and communicating what they need to be successful .
- Reduces Time to Autonomy: When employees understand their role and responsibilities within the organization and are given a framework to assess their own performance and communicate their needs, it accelerates the quality and pace of development
- Enables Agility: In the face of change and disruption, the Situational Leadership® framework serves as a roadmap allows organizations to navigate the ambiguity and get back on track faster.
