HOW LLS COMMUNITY HAS HELPED

"...[LLS Community] has helped us learn what others have experienced, how they over came or dealt with bumps in the road and provides encouragement. It helps us remain positive on this journey. I wish we had found this forum earlier in my husband's fight, but am thankful we did about 3 years ago. It is comforting to know we are not alone."

"...it is good to hear what others experience with their disease, treatments, side effects, recovery, and how they or their caregivers cope/manage. Through the question of the day, reference articles, and the various chat groups, we have learned many helpful tips to get through this journey. Thank you." —Vicki, CLL Caregiver

"LLS has given me a forum to voice my thoughts and concerns about CLL. Since I have joined I have learned a lot about the illness as well as other blood related diseases. When I was diagnosed in September 2015, I thought I was going to die. Now I know that while not curable, the illness can be controlled and the symptoms treated. LLS has helped me understand that having blood cancer doesn't have to be the end of your world." —Dawn, CLL Survivor

"...it is great having a place to ask questions and get answers."
—Melissa, CLL Survivor

LLS Community is an online social network and registry for patients with and survivors of blood cancer, their caregivers and their supporters.

Why Should You Join LLS Community?

Members of the LLS Community benefit from connecting with other patients and caregivers and by sharing their experiences which inform research and program development at LLS.

Get Support from LLS Community

Connect with others who have been through it. LLS Community is a place to talk with other people affected by blood cancers. We also have master's level social workers and health educators standing by to connect you to the resources you need.

Get Information from LLS Community

Get access to the latest cancer news and updates. On LLS Community, you will find professional blogs, summaries of medical publications and videos featuring top experts from cancer centers around the world.

The information on LLS Community is accurate, up to date and from a trusted source.

Patients and Caregivers Can Make an Impact

Too often, traditional research has excluded the patient voice, the voice that matters most. LLS Community features Questions of the Day and surveys designed to capture important patient-related topics.

These insights are actively driving the developments at LLS that address the needs and challenges of patients living with blood cancer.
