Cookie Notice

1. Introduction

This cookie notice is designed to provide information about the manner in which we use cookies and similar web technologies within our websites and web applications. This cookie notice applies when you use any of our services which link to this notice. This notice may be supplemented by additional cookie notices, or terms, provided on certain areas of the service or during our interactions with you.

2. What are Cookies?

A cookie is a small piece of data (text file) that a website, when visited by a user, asks your browser to store on your device in order to remember information about you, such as your language preference or login information. Cookies may be set by us (referred to as first-party cookies) or our partners (referred to as third-party cookies).

First-party cookies are those which are set by the web application being visited. For example, a cookie set by ywam.org while a user is visiting ywam.org would be considered a first-party cookie. Third-party cookies are those which are set by organizations/websites other than the web application being visited. These cookies are often used for analytics, tracking, or advertising. For example, a cookie set by google.com while a user is visiting ywam.org would be considered a third-party cookie.

3. Use of Cookies

We use cookies and other tracking technologies for the following purposes:

- facilitating navigation throughout this web application;
- evaluating visitors' usage of our products, services or applications; and

- providing enhanced functionality

actions made by the user which amount to a request for services, such as setting privacy preferences. Users can set their browsers to block or alert them about these cookies, but some parts of the site may not function properly. On ywam.org if you choose “No thanks” in response to our question about cookies, a single cookie will be used in your browser to remember your preference not to be tracked.

Performance Cookies: These cookies allow the web application owner to count visits and traffic sources, allowing them to measure and improve the performance of the site. They help the web application owner know which pages are the most and least popular and see how visitors move around the site. All information these cookies collect is aggregated and therefore anonymous. If users do not allow these cookies, the site owner will not know when users have visited the site.

Functionality Cookies: These cookies allow the provision of enhanced functionality and personalization, such as videos. They may be set by the web application owner or by third party providers whose services have been added to pages of the web application. If you do not allow these cookies, then some or all of these functionalities may not function properly.

4. Your Preferences

You can manually edit your cookie preferences and see what cookies have been set within your browser settings. The following links provide instructions for viewing and updating cookie settings within several popular browsers:
