Jodi Ohl is a contemporary artist, author, and instructor celebrated for her vibrant abstract and whimsical mixed-media creations. After leaving a career in banking in 2011, she dedicated herself fully to art, building a reputation for her bold use of color and intuitive, experimental techniques. Based in Aberdeen, NC, Jodi works from her home studio and travels extensively to lead workshops and retreats, inspiring students to embrace creativity and explore the possibilities of abstract art.

Her work has been showcased in galleries, exhibitions, and publications and is sought after by collectors worldwide. Jodi's first book, Abstracts in Acrylic and Ink, is a best-seller, and she is currently developing a follow-up book, set for release in 2025. Through her art and teaching, Jodi encourages others to find their voice and joy in the creative process.
